

and drawn upwards. With a little sun this surface thaws and sinks, but the lifted roots do not return to their original position in the soil. The same operation of freezing the surface and lifting of the plants is again and again repeated, until the tender fibres of the roots, completely drawn from the earth, are themselves frozen, and the plant necessarily perishes. This is the method in which wheat is generally winter killed, and is frequently witnessed in soils where the clay predominates.

But though the past winter has destroyed much of the wheat; if what remains produces an ordinary yield, there need be no apprehensions of a deficiency of bread stuffs. There is at the present moment a vast amount of wheat in the country of the last year's harvest, greater perhaps than has often been known, and farmers are in every section industriously endeavouring, by an extended culture of the coarser and spring grains, to supply any apprehended deficiency that may arise from the effect of the winter on the wheat fields.—Genesee Farmer.

COLCHESTER HOTEL.

 THE subscriber begs leave to Notify his friends in the town and country, and the travelling community generally, that he has fitted up in the neatest manner, and opened a house of entertainment, opposite the Episcopal Church in Truro, where, on the pleasant situation, the extent of the accommodation, which the house affords, the convenience arising to travellers out of the Coach and Post Offices being annexed to the establishment, together with the knowledge he possesses of the business, and his unwearied assiduity to administer to the comforts of those who may favour him with a call, induces him to solicit public patronage.
