

Philip Stone

Philip Stone is Director General of Trade and Investment Branch at the Department of Canadian Heritage since the Branch's establishment in 1998. He is responsible for trade policy, investment issues and trade development programs for the department. He has spent most of his career as a public servant working in the trade and international policy and programs areas.

Philip has extensive trade policy and negotiations experience having served with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade as well as Agriculture and Agri-food Canada. He has represented Canada at the OECD - both as a delegate and staff economist; as participated into many GATT/WTO trade rounds; as experience of the UNCTAD; of NAFTA negotiations (where he was active as deputy agriculture negotiator); and, of many bilateral negotiation situations.

A graduate from McGill University he undertook post-graduate studies at the University of Guelph.