TRANSPLANTING.

This is a good time for transplanting and much care has to be exercised in bringing the tender growths out into the open air. Cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, celery and tomatoes should be purchased, rather than grown from the start in the amateur's garden. When buying plants, care must be taken to see that there is plenty of soil in the box and that there is a large root system.

Work swiftly in the garden, making the holes with the hoe or with a round stick. When the plants have been placed in the hollows press the soil just enough to give the roots thorough contact with the earth, allowing no air spaces to remain under the surface. A cloudy day or just before nightfall is the best time for transplanting.

If the gardener has started his own plants indoors in seed boxes or pots they should be "hardened off" before being set out in the garden. That is to say, they should be placed at open windows and given less and less water until they are finally taken out. The boxes must not be allowed to become so dry that the plants wilt, however. After a few days the plants can be left outdoors uncovered all day and even on mild nights. Then they are ready for transplanting. The hardening process requires about two weeks.

RECENT DEATHS

Hermann Sullivan.

The news of the sudden death of Hermann Sullivan, which occurred yesterday, will be heard with very real regret by a large number of people. The deceased, who was fifty-two years of age, was taken ill on Saturday morning and his case developed into pneumonia, an acute form which was further complicated by heart trouble. He was taken at once to the hospital, but never rallied. He entered the firm of T. H. Edwards & Co. Ltd., as an accountant when the business was first started, and by steady perseverance and industry he had risen in the esteem and respect of the firm so that about six years ago he was made a member of the firm. Besides his wife, who was a daughter of John Eagles, of this city, he leaves three sons to mourn his loss—Charles, in the employ of Lockhart and Ritchie; Lieutenant Hermann, in the Royal Flying Corps, and now in New York on his way overseas; and Kenneth, at school. Lieutenant Hermann Sullivan had only left for New York one week before his father's death, and was not able to return to the city in time to see him.

Hermann Sullivan was a man of exceptional character, such a man as is met with all too rarely. Upright, honorable, kind and generous, he was the friend of all who knew him and he was widely known throughout the city. As a business man he was held in the highest regard. His sorrowing family have the heart-felt sympathy of the whole community.

Knights of Pythias funeral notice will be found in another part of the paper.

Dr. William Bradshaw.

Frederickton, N. B., May 30.—Mrs. Horatio Bradshaw of Devon, yesterday received a telegram from Chicago informing her of the death of her son, Dr. William Bradshaw, in that city after a lengthy illness. He was aged thirty-seven years and was a graduate of the U. N. B. in civil engineering, 1902. He practiced in Pittsburgh (Pa.), and other places in the United States for several years and later studied osteopathy and medicine and practiced in Chicago. He is survived by his wife, his mother, one brother, Harry Bradshaw, with the C. R. at Devon, and two sisters, Mrs. Fred. C. Parker of Sheffield, and Miss Louisa F. Bradshaw.

Theodosius Botkin.

Theodosius Botkin, United States consul in Campbellton, who died recently, was born in Catawba, Ohio, June 15, 1846. His home was in Salt Lake City, Utah, where he received his public and high school education. After graduating from the latter he took up a course of studies and started practicing law in addition to taking an interest in mining. He served in the Civil War and in the Spanish American war with the rank of captain from May 1900 to December, 1900. He also served as police judge, probate judge, district judge and as a member of the court at Port Louis, Mauritius, on June 10, 1903, and consul at Campbellton on March 30, 1907.

Malcolm Brown.

Frederickton, May 30.—(Special)—Malcolm Brown died this morning at his home in Devon after a short illness at the advanced age of ninety years. He was a native of New Brunswick but had lived in Devon for some time. He is survived by his widow, two sons, and two daughters. The sons are Arthur Brown, of Douglas, and Harry Brown, of Devon. The daughters are Mrs. John McAlister and Mrs. D. R. Hanson, of Devon.

At his home in Doak Settlement, Charles McConnell died on Tuesday. He was in his fifty-third year and is survived by his wife and three stepdaughters. Mrs. George McConnell of Doak Settlement, the Misses Jessie and Inez Blizard, also two brothers and three sisters.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Fire last night destroyed a two-story wooden dwelling house in East St. John which was nearing completion and was to be ready for occupancy on June 1. The fire started at dusk and the blue illuminated the entire sky. Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and the city chemical engine was sent out but the fire had too good a start and the building was entirely destroyed. Joseph Gilbert, the owner, said this morning that the building was partly covered by insurance.

NOTICE.
