LOCAL NEWS

A caboose used by yardmen at Bay Shore as a place in which to eat their lunches was destroyed by fire last night.

At the meeting of the N. B. Automobile Association last night, Mr. N. Gross of Shediac asked permission to organize a branch of the association commencing with a membership of fifty at Shediac. Permission was given.

The Boy Scout troop of Exmouth street Methodist church held a slight drive last night, forty of them being present in the drive to Torriburn and back. On their return a welcome repast awaited them to which they did full justice.

Stanley E. Elkin, M. P., a member of the Boston American League, was called to the U. S. authorities at Washington with regard to war measures, returned to the city last night. He said that if the report of the commission were acted upon some very drastic and necessary regulations would come into force.

A meeting of the board of trade council was held yesterday afternoon when the council recommended seventy-two hours free time to be allowed in connection with the recent legislation providing a storage charge for mail matter over eleven pounds. The draft bill prepared for the Canadian Manufacturers' Association advocating the passage of the same laws throughout Canada in connection with the manufacturers was approved. Nothing has yet been done to replace the two West India steamers. One of the members will take the matter up at Ottawa. It was reported that there was practically no hope of obtaining a once-a-week service on the late Halifax line.

GARRIGAN MAY MANAGE RED SOX

Former Popular Leader Ready to Render Aid—Another Report Says Hobitzel Will be at Helm

That "Bill" Garrigan would be manager of the Boston American League baseball club this season was the prediction made by baseball writers at Boston Wednesday night. The former catcher and manager of the team is now a banker at Lewiston. He said over the telephone Wednesday that he was ready to help out the Red Sox in the war emergency. "Jack" Barry, the present manager, who succeeded Garrigan when the latter retired from baseball two years ago, is a man in the navy and will not be able to play ball this year. Harry H. Frazee, president of the club, said Wednesday that the managership matter was still undecided.

Concrete Ships to Increase Tonnage

Shipbuilding has received a tremendous impetus during the last year. The determination of Germany to wage unrestricted submarine warfare has made the question of providing ships to make good the wastage one of momentous importance. Months ago it became evident that a shortage of plates for steel ships and of suitable wood for wooden ships was well within the range of possibility. Substitutes were, therefore, sought. One of the most promising is ferro-concrete. This material has been in use in barges, launches and, even to some extent, in larger vessels for a number of years. Consequently, it was not without hope of success that attention was turned to the construction of ferro-concrete boats to take care of the traffic on the Great Lakes and, thus set free for coastal and ocean freighting boats at present plying thereon.

TRACK OWNERS ARE NOT WORRIED

Over Reformers' Threat to Sound Death Knell of Racing in Maryland

New York, Feb. 1.—Close students of the racing game in Maryland are stated to be not very much worried over the much advertised threat of certain reformers to attempt to sound the death knell of turf sport in that state by their antagonism to betting, which is a natural consequence wherever thoroughbreds are raced, the primary reason for which is the betterment of the breed of the horse generally.

Mathewson First To Reach Thirty Mark in Victories

This Feat Has Only Been Accomplished by Star Twirlers Backed by Strong Teams

It was in 1902 that the great Mathewson first reached the thirty mark in victories. He and his old partner, Joe Coombs, were the only pitchers to get in the glory circle by winning over thirty games that season. In 1904, New York was the storm centre of hurriers who slipped over thirty games or more victories, and all modern pitchers by winning forty-one games. As a matter of fact, Mathewson came through with thirty-five and thirty-three wins in 1902 and 1903 respectively. Mathewson was the only hurler to reach the mark in 1905. It was Christy's best year. No pitcher reached the mark during 1906 and 1907, and it was up to the great Mathewson to break into the line by winning thirty-seven games in 1908; however, Edward Walsh, the famous hurler of the Chicago White Sox, came within one game of equalling Mathewson's record that season by winning forty games. In the year of 1909 not a single pitcher reached the thirty mark in victories, and it was up to Jack Coombs, one of the swiftest hurriers the game ever produced, to annex thirty victories in 1910. In the season of 1911, with pitchers going good, not one of them made records in winning an unusual number of games.

Cincinnati Fans Figuring on Reds

The Cincinnati Reds and the Cincinnati fans are in the throes of a winter campaign for the National League pennant. Cincinnati never saw a world's series. As a matter of fact, Cincinnati has only come close to the top of the heap since baseball began to send husbands home to their dinner late and break up domestic bliss with its arguments. Cincinnati has found itself possessed of the batting champion of the National League, a shrewd manager and a fine ball park. So—Cincinnati has it all figured out that the Reds are a dark entry.

Manager Mathewson figured he would have an improved infield to begin with in 1918, through the acquisition of Morris Rath, but that youth proved to be attached more strongly to whipping the Reds than to joining the colors. Russell Blackburne, twice sent back to the minors as a failure, has been obtained from Toronto and may take the second-basing job off the hands of Dave Shean. Built in the infield are the immovable visages of Chase Froh and Kopf. They're good enough for any ball club. Outfielders composed of Sherwood Magee, Tommy Griffiths, Earle Neale and Eddie Kousen. The catching staff in excellent with Tom Clarke and Ivy Wingo to bear the brunt. The pitching staff, provided it retains Fred Toney, Mike Regan, Pete Schneider and Red Eiler, looks well in comparison with other staffs, and indications now are that Toney will be back in the lineup. Mathewson believes in Garner and Bresler he has picked up two brilliant youngsters. Garner comes from the International League, strongly recommended. Bresler has been up before, his first time with the Athletics. Connie Mack picked him from the college diamonds, but decided he couldn't be moulded into a major league finger. The Reds should not make lower than they did a year ago. With their tremendous batting strength and with the coddles that goes with their success they are bound to make a strong finish.

Premier Lloyd George: "I would not exchange the military conditions with the enemy if I could. The nation can help by giving up the things which are not essential to victory. We must strip even faster for the fight. The nation can help in another way—by discouraging grow-
