STRICKEN WHILE UNLOADING HIS GOODS IN MARKET

Wm. A. Scribner of Kingston Dies Within Few Minutes, of Heart Trouble

Death came without a moment's warning this morning to William Allison Scribner of King's county, when he fell unconscious in the city market, stricken with heart trouble, and died a few minutes later. Scribner left his home at two o'clock this morning and drove to the city with a wagon load of produce. This he was unloading when he was stricken. He had just lifted several cases to the shelf of a stall and as he turned away he remarked that he felt very heavy for him. He started to walk towards the door when he suddenly stopped, threw his hands upward and collapsed on the floor. His cousin, Albert Scribner, and his brother-in-law, Otis Hazen, who also had driven to the market at the same time, were within a few feet of him and rushed to his assistance. He was still living and was carried to Charlotte street to A. C. Smith's drug store. The store was not opened, and he was laid on the door step until a messenger was sent for Dr. G. A. B. Addy. Doctor Addy arrived in a few minutes, but by the time he had arrived the unfortunate man had expired. The body was taken to Powers' undertaking rooms to be prepared for burial.

Mr. Scribner, who was sixty-three years of age, had been in fairly good health, but had consulted a doctor only last week on account of trouble with his heart and had been warned against straining himself. He was unmarried and is survived by the father, Charles Scribner, of Kingston; two sisters, Miss Anastasia, at home and Mrs. Otis Hazen, of Kingston; and four brothers, Norman and Lee, he also of Kingston, and Cory and Norval, in the United States.
