

FIRES IN SCHOOL AND TWO HOUSES CAUSE ALARM

An hour later flames broke out in the Lansdowne school, on St. Catherine street, East, causing considerable damage before they were extinguished. The back door of the building was discovered open, and at the foot of a stairway on the ground floor several matches were found. The caretaker reported that he had made his rounds a few hours before, and that everything was as usual. He had securely locked all doors before leaving, he said.

Two More Start.
Hardly had the blaze in the school been checked, when a second false alarm was sounded from the corner of Ontario and Desery streets, and half an hour later fire was discovered in a shed at the rear of a dwelling on Fullam street. The flames had apparently broken out in a pile of old newspapers, and, according to reports, must have been deliberately set.

At 10 o'clock another fire brought apparatus to a house on Dufresne street, where flames were consuming a shed similar to the one on Fullam street. The odor of coal oil was plain in this instance. Police and detectives were soon scouring the neighborhood for the perpetrator of these outbreaks.

OPPOSITION LEADER PRAISES DELEGATION

Richards Declares Movement Fathered by Saint John Newspapers Has Impressed Claims of the Maritimes on All Canada

By D. LEO DOLAN

Staff Correspondent of The Times-Star.

FREDERICTON, March 17.—Speaking in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, C. D. Richards, leader of the Opposition, this afternoon took occasion to heartily commend the action of The Telegraph-Journal and The Times-Star in their origination of the movement that resulted in the recent monster delegation to Ottawa and in bringing before the Canadian people the idea that the Maritime Provinces have a real grievance.

"We were all interested in the delegation to Ottawa and followed the press reports of the conference there with unusual interest," said Mr. Richards.

"The Speech from the Throne says that the attempts made jointly by the Government, and a number of our leading citizens, assisted so ably by the press, to bring about a freer exchange of commodities between the Provinces of Canada have met with a large measure of success.

Good Idea, He Says.

"I do not wish to minimize the efforts of the Premier on this question, which I believe should be approached from a broad viewpoint, and I am speaking this afternoon not as a partisan, yet I think that the order should be changed in the Speech. The idea originated with newspapers in Saint John, and the idea was a good one.

"It had the result of bringing Maritime Provinces and their problems before the people of this country in a manner never before attempted. The movement showed the rest of Canada that we have a real grievance here and this recent campaign, originating with Saint John journals, awakened a generous feeling of sympathy for the Maritimes throughout the entire Dominion.

"If that movement achieved nothing else it performed a great service for the Maritimes. And I believe the agitation started will be productive of great good, not only to these Maritimes, but to the whole of Canada."

In this connection Mr. Richards read from a Calgary Herald editorial, which supported the claims of the Maritimes and urged the people of Canada to assist in the solution of these problems, which were really national problems.
