ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N.B. OCT. 17, 1906

MR. S. D. SCOTT.

Members of the Conservative party in New Brunswick along with other friends assembled in the Union Club last evening to give expression to their appreciation of the work of a man who for twenty years rendered valuable service to his party. Mr. S. D. Scott who recently severed his connection with the press of St. John has devoted the better part of his life to the interests of those who were represented at last night's banquet, has upheld Liberal-Conservative principles in times of prosperity and adversity, and has maintained the dignity of journalism even when stamped with the die of politics, in a manner which has won the sincere respect of both parties. Mr. Scott, although he assumed editorial duties practically without experience, brought with him all those qualifications which are requisite to success. His literary attainments, a keen grasp of matters of public interest, a forcefulness of expression which, however, never lacked in dignity or grace made his writing such as appealed to all and in spite of the many temptations which come to one in his position he never sank to the sordid partisan style or made use of language which could give offence even to his most energetic opponents. Mr. Scott having removed to a wider field can look back with satisfaction on his work, and while, as is the case with all newspaper men, his services will be received only in another world, such evidences of good will and appreciation as were uttered last evening must have assured him that his work in one sense has not been in vain.

Mr. Scott is missed from newspaper news, but St. John, as a whole, loses in his departure one of its best citizens. In a quiet way Mr. Scott was a helper to all. His interest in the work of charitable organizations, the attention he gave to the relief of those in less fortunate circumstances than he himself enjoyed made him one of the comparative few who are always counted upon for assistance. He was a man devoted to his profession, but found time for the duties owing to his church, to friends and to society in general, and he performed those duties in a manner which causes sincere regret over his departure. Mr. Scott carries with him to his new home in Ottawa the hearty wishes of all for an even more generous measure of success than has marked his career to the present time. Mr. Scott returns to Ottawa today.

CHINESE IMMORALITY.

There are one hundred and fifty Chinese laundries in St. John. There are in the Sheffield street district about twenty houses which are the attention of the police. At a recent meeting of the common council on motion of Alderman Bullock, a resolution was passed instructing the authorities to purify the disreputable end of the town. No mention was made of the Chinese.

Yet these foreigners are a greater menace to the morality of St. John than half a dozen Sheffield streets could be. There are places here, numbers of them, which are innocent looking laundries during daylight, and which at night are transformed into gambling dens and houses of prostitution. They are the resort of Chinese from different quarters of the city, and who girls who go there for immoral purposes. Some of the establishments are arranged in such a manner that the capture of the inmates is rendered impossible. Doors are constructed and concealed so that the Chinese in case of a raid may make their exit with almost absolute safety. More than this, the foreigners knowing that they are violating the laws have an intelligent system by which they receive warning of approaching danger and are enabled to take precautions against it. Under the guise of innocent social gatherings fan-tan and immoral practices flourish, and so far the Chinese have been able to escape the vigilance of the officers.

This, of course, does not apply to all laundries, but it does include the larger number of Chinese now resident in the city. Only a proportion of the places occupied are used as meeting houses, but they are well patronized. The police know of this, and have for a long time been endeavoring to put an end to such conduct, but their success has not been noticeable. They are now in the humor to heartily agree with Her Harte in the declaration that "For ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain, the heathen Chinese is peculiar."

WHY SHE WEARS THE WILLOW. "Certain of our women twang and whine and whiffle and whinny."—W. D. Howells.

I used to think her velvet voice was charming. And never dreamed her head tones sounded thinny. But now I've found out something quite alarming. Fair Winnie has a most decided whinny.

Her speech to me was like a mellow cello. Till Howells came forth with his line of simile: And now—confound the meddling writing fellow—it seems to me fair Winnie has a whiffle.

'Twas sweet to me to hear the maiden singing. Ere Howells sent his cruel shafts a-singing. But now whenever the ragtime gets to ringing. It seems to me fair Winifred is twanging.

'Twould never do to wed such imperfection (Too long the weary years of man's reining). I'll choose no maid in Howells's collection. So Winnie all alone must do her whining!

A DENVER SUNDAY; WHITMANESQUE.

(From the Denver Republican.) Sunday—discomfiting gleaming of polished collars; A depressing serving of drinks behind closed doors; A clanking of rusty dust, swirling, laden with polychromatic parasites. In the home newspaper Leviathans are devoured.

The Great American Sunday Dinner sends its appalling star from the shelves. Mark how it renders proud man as helpless as a toad in a fossiliferous stratum.

Outside, the noisome burning of gasoline goes on; Glaring goggles send the dust germs whirling, plouetting. Comes the raucous throating of the umpire; Mark you, how he is perched culture-like upon the bleachers!

Always the swirling, clutching germs, puddled by human shoulders; Electric lights blink to blink garishly upon the cosmic multitudes, staggering. Now comes the tired livery horse, driven by a troglodyte who should be peeing about in State prison. Comes the shrill protest of the kitchen door hinge, as the servant girl returns. Day, that damned like an old Master, you have ended like a Sunday, you are punk!

TRIBAL SUICIDE.

In consequence of the wording of a telegram, it is alleged that the Netherlands troops in Bali (not Achin, this is 1,700 miles away from Bali) slaughtered about 400 people, among them a number of women and children. The death of so many human beings is sad enough, without the imputation of cruelty to the Netherlands soldiers. What happened is this:

All students of Malay and Hindu history know that the most horrid ritual customs in those countries is the "pooptan," what I should like to call the ritual suicide. A Balinese child, the Prince of Sadoeng did this. He turned a deaf ear to all suggestion of a settlement, but he and all children committed suicide.

Nearly the same thing happened in 1868 in Lombok, a neighboring island. The old king had succumbed, but one of his sons, a cripple, walked out with all his relatives, dressed in gorgeous garments, bedecked with all their jewelry, and with their swords and lances attacked the Dutch army, only to find the death they courted. Those who were not killed in the fight were afterward found to have also killed themselves.

FURTHER PARTICULARS NEEDED.

It happened in one of the large hospitals in London, where it has been necessary to introduce certain saving devices in the dispensary. The patient gets a printed prescription that calls for a preparation that has been already made up. At the same time he gets directions for its use.

One morning, recently, a patient, a man, came in and described the symptoms of rheumatism. The doctor gave him one of the printed slips, and said: "Now, pat, when you go home get your wife to rub this on your back."

"Thank you, doctor," and off he went. A few minutes later the Irishman appeared, seeming rather embarrassed, and in his hand was the prescription.

"Well?" asked the medico. "Sure, doctor, and which side of the paper must I rub on me back?"

DONALD VEILY CLEVER, TOO.

"As it has pleased God in the past year to preserve peace to us, I am firmly convinced that in the future also I shall succeed in preserving peace." Extract from one of the Kaiser's latest speeches.

It reminds us of the story of the Highland shepherd who came very near to being drowned in the burn. "Och, Donald," said his wife, "it's you that ought to be thankful to Providence for your escape." "Hoo, yuss," said Donald, "Providence was good, but I was very clever myself, too."

HIS REASON.

Johnny—Mamma, when I grows up I wants to be a saint.
Mother—Oh, you darling! And why?
Johnny—Why, I was reading that boys never grows up to be what they wants to be—Judge.

AND FAILED.

Griggs—"The idea of your letting your wife go around saying that she made a man of you. You don't hear my wife saying that."
Briggs—"No, but I heard her telling my wife that she did her best."

KAISER ATTENDS KRUPP WEDDING

The Emperor at Marriage of Germany's Wealthiest Woman.

After Announcing Gift of $250,000 to Workmen Newly Wedded Pair Leave Essen on Honeymoon.

ESSEN, Prussia, Oct. 16.—In the presence of Emperor William and one hundred and forty guests, Frau Bertha Krupp and Lieutenant Gustav von Bohnen and Halbach were married today in a little improvised chapel adjoining the bride's birthplace, the Villa Hugel, by the pastor of the neighboring village church, where the Krupp family has long worshipped. Emperor William sat with the family while the simple Lutheran marriage service was performed, and then stepped forward and congratulated the bride and bridegroom.

Fraulein Krupp wore a princess robe of heavy, ivory tinted crepe de chine, with panels of point de Venise and had a four yard train. The veil was of Brussels lace and tulle. She wore myrtle blossoms on her head and had a few sprays of these flowers at her waist. Her father's cousin, Herr Arthur Krupp, gave away the bride, who was attended by her sister Clara. Lieutenant von Bohnen's brother acted as best man.

At a wedding breakfast which was served at the conclusion of the ceremony the Emperor drank the health of the bride. The couple afterwards left by special train for Krupp Castle at Rheineck, on the Rhine, where the honeymoon will be passed.

In drinking the health of the bride the Emperor said:—"Honored couple:—The blessings and prayers of all present will accompany you through life. Many young couples, where the husband is not in the service of the state or in any particular profession, will not find it so easy to answer the question of their future life as you will. If they are serious they will aim at promoting the good of their fellow creatures in the community to which they belong, and consequently of the State. It is truly peculiar of the young generation of today to accentuate the personal end in seeking to thrust it into the midst of the nation, and that the most important, is forgotten, namely, that rights brings with them obligations. The obligations it is impossible to imagine rights. Rights without obligations lead to dissolution and licentiousness."

Emperor William addressed the bride as his "dear daughter" and alluded to her "sainted father, the good general von Bohnen, untroubled in the world."

Emperor William conferred upon the bride the right to use the name "Krupp von Bohnen and Halbach." Guests at the wedding included six women members of the Imperial household, the Krupp works, but the workers generally were not given a holiday in honor of the wedding. The Emperor after the wedding started for Bonn.

Before the ceremony, Fraulein Krupp and Lieutenant von Bohnen announced a gift of $250,000 to the Workmen's Invalid Fund, and Frau Krupp gave notice that she had donated an endowment to the same fund and 125 acres of land on which to build economical, model dwellings for the workers. The bridegroom accepted the gift and the Emperor accepted the gift of the portion of the gift with the assurance that he would perpetuate the personal relations with the working people maintained by Alfred and Friedrich Krupp.

THIS STORY OF ROBBERY LOOKS LIKE A FAIRY TALE

Thief Took Command of a Squad, Arrested Civil Officials and Robbed the Treasury.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—A unique and daring robbery was committed at Copenyck, a small town seven miles east of Berlin yesterday. The robbers, in the uniform of a captain of Guards met a detachment of twelve men on a street in Berlin, who were returning from their practice. He produced a forged cabinet order authorizing him to take command. The men recognized his authority and he then ordered them to march to Copenyck. Upon arrival there they proceeded to the town hall, arrested the Burgomaster and they took possession of the cash, $1,000. The robber detached several of his men to conduct the prisoners to headquarters. He ordered the remainder to hold the town hall for an hour. He then rode off alone in the direction of Berlin with the money. The Burgomaster and the treasurer were greatly mystified at the meaning of the arrest. Upon their arrival in custody at headquarters in Berlin they learned that the English champion, and Challenger will skate a one mile match race for $500 a side. The men caused great enthusiasm when they skated last week, and the race was admitted to be a dandy. Tickets for the Harmony Club sports were placed on sale at the rink box office this morning and already a large number were disposed of. They are being sold on the first come first served principle and those who are going Thanksgiving evening should apply early. Band Thanksgiving afternoon.—Adv.

C. B. U., 8, HIGH SCHOOL, 6

On Tuesday afternoon the Currie University took the High School into the Victoria grounds to the tune of 8 to 6. The spectacular play of the game was the fifty yard run of the High School team. Currie's scrim showed plainly that they need practice as the High School scrim put it over them. The excellence of the halves and quarters. Currie's won their game. The try for Currie's were made by Sullivan and Edgokin. Sullivan nicely converted his own try. Pike played a star game at quarter. Kennedy put up the best game of the scrim, but had the misfortune of injuring his eye quite severely.

MRS. JEFF. DAVIS, Widow of Famous Confederate General is Dead.

She Had Won Quite a Reputation as the Writer of Her Husband's Memoirs and by Other Literary Work.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the president of the confederacy, who had been ill for week at the Hotel Majestic, in this city, died at 10.25 o'clock tonight. Death was due to pneumonia induced by a severe cold which Mrs. Davis contracted upon her return here from the Adirondacks where she had spent the summer months. Although grave fears were felt from the first, Mrs. Davis' wonderful vitality which safely brought her through a similar attack a year ago, gave hope of ultimate recovery until last night, when a decided change for the worse was evident and the attending physicians announced that the end was near. It was believed that Mrs. Davis could not survive the night, but she rallied slightly during the early hours of today. Shortly after seven o'clock this morning, she had a sinking spell and Rev. Nathan A. Sengler, rector of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal church, was hurriedly summoned to give religious comfort to the patient in her last moments of consciousness. The clergyman remained some time and an hour later it was announced that Mrs. Davis had lapsed into a state of coma. The period of unconsciousness continued to the end.

At the bedside when death came were Mrs. J. Addison Hayes, of Newark, N. J., the only surviving daughter of Mrs. Davis; Jefferson Davis Hayes, a grandson, who is a student at Princeton University; Mrs. Charles E. Bateson, a niece; Dr. and Mrs. Gustav Webb, the latter a grand daughter; and Robert H. Wylie, who with Dr. Webb, had cared for Mrs. Davis throughout her illness.

J. Addison Hayes, husband of Mrs. Davis' only living child, had been summoned from Colorado Springs and was hurrying across the continent, when a message announcing Mrs. Davis' death intercepted him. Mrs. Davis, for some years, made her home in this city, where she had a wide circle of friends. Throughout her illness solicitous inquiries regarding her condition were continually made at her apartments.

Mrs. Yarnis Howell Davis was born in Natchez, Miss., May 7th, 1825. Her father was Wm. Burr Howell and her grandfather Governor Richard Howell of New Jersey. She was educated at a private school in Philadelphia and by private tutors.

In 1845 she was married to Jefferson Davis, of Warren county, Miss., and went to live at the Jefferson home on the Briarfield plantation. When Mr. Davis was elected United States senator in 1845, she accompanied him to Washington, where she took a prominent position in society at the national capital, from 1847 to 1851.

When Jefferson Davis became president of the Southern Confederacy, Mrs. Davis followed him to Richmond, Va., where she remained until the close of the war.

During the second year of her husband's imprisonment at Fortress Monroe, Mrs. Davis obtained permission to be with him and upon his release accompanied him abroad. She acted as her husband's secretary in compiling his memoirs, and was herself the author of a book covering the public career of her distinguished husband. Mrs. Davis performed other literary work and was a frequent contributor to magazines.

After their return from abroad Mr. and Mrs. Davis took up their residence at Beauvoir House, Harrisburg county, Miss., where they lived for many years. After Mr. Davis' death at New Orleans on December 6, 1889, Mrs. Davis moved to New York, where she has since resided.

Mrs. Davis leaves one daughter, Mrs. J. Addison Hayes, of Colorado Springs, who was at her bedside when she died.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF DISCOVERY OF ETHER

Observe Anniversary. BOSTON, Oct. 16.—The sixtieth anniversary of the first use of ether as an anesthetic in surgical operations was observed at the Massachusetts General Hospital today.

A number of prominent physicians and surgeons, including Dr. Pierre Jannet of the Collège d'France, Paris, were present in the old amphitheatre, the scene of the historic operation. A grandson of Dr. Jannet, Dr. C. Warren was also in the gathering.

A bust of Dr. Morton, who discovered ether, stood on the table and close beside it was a case containing the instruments used by Dr. Warren in the first operation.

ARRESTED FOR SHOOTING DONE MONTHS AGO

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 16.—James Shannon was arrested tonight on a capias from the superior court on an indictment charging murder in the second degree in causing the death of Patrick J. Foley by shooting on Sigel street, April 2.

Foley was wounded in the thigh, dying two months later of embolism, caused by the wound.

A manslaughter indictment was returned against Shannon by the August grand jury and Shannon was on $500 bail pending trial on that charge, when new evidence was presented to the grand jury.

SOUTH SHORE LINE.

The Seniac was hauled out on the slip at Halifax on Tuesday and considerable damage found, which was occasioned by the heavy weather during this last trip. Her repairs will probably occupy till next Monday, so that there will be no boat from St. John for the South Shore of Nova Scotia on Thursday of this week. It is expected that the Seniac will leave Halifax next Monday to take on the route again.
