

THE FUNERAL OF DR. WM. CHRISTIE

One of the Largest Ever Held in North End.

Common Council on Saturday Passed Appreciative Resolutions on Work of the Dead Alderman.

At a special session of the common council Saturday a fitting tribute was paid by his worship the mayor and the aldermen to their late colleague.

Mayor White called the meeting to order at half-past eleven and said: "Since the last occasion on which we met in this hall, the death of our colleague, Dr. William Christie, has been a sad and a great loss to the city."

The council then adjourned to meet at St. Luke's church at 2.30 to attend the funeral of their dead colleague. It was decided that Marshall Coughlan should act as high constable and proceed the aldermen in the funeral cortege.

The funeral of the late Ald. Christie took place at half-past two in the afternoon from St. Luke's Church and was one of the largest funerals which has been seen in the north end.

The services at the church were conducted by the rector, Rev. E. P. McKim, who was assisted by Rev. C. W. Nichols. The hymns chosen were "Now the Laborer's Task is O'er" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." As the eulogy was read from the church the choir, under the direction of Miss Farmer, chanted in the Nunc Dimittis.

Although the funeral notice requested no flowers, a number of very handsome floral tributes were sent in by the common council, board of health, County Secretary and Mrs. Vincent, public works employees and others.

The common council sent a large floral pillow composed of carnations, lilies and smilax. A very beautiful floral anchor was sent by the county secretary. The band of health sent a large wreath composed mainly of roses, carnations, smilax and maidenhair ferns.

A large pillow, which was prepared by Mrs. Crockett, was sent by the public works employees. This was composed of lilies, white roses, carnations, azaleas, hyacinths, smilax and asparagus. In the centre were the words, in violet, "Public Works Employees."

The public works employees were as follows: Thomas Hilyard, John Eagles, Robert Wisely, Geo. Robertson, M. P. P., Geo. Cushing and County Secretary Geo. R. Vincent. A number of members of the La Tour Lodge, I. O. O. F., acted as a body of honor.

The order of the procession was as follows: Police officers, I. O. O. F., Board of Health, hospital commissioners, city officials, common council, Medical Society, clergymen, Undertaker Brennan, funeral car, mourners and general public.

council do attend the public funeral of the late Alderman Christie as a token of respect.

Ald. McGoldrick said that there was no more honorable man in the North End of the city, than the deceased.

Ald. McGoldrick said that he has been in the council 22 years, and the most of the time the late alderman has been with him.

The fact that the late alderman entered the council at the time of the union and remained there till his death, is a stronger tribute than this council can pay him.

The man rang true. His ideal was the welfare of the city. The time needs men, the work of the city needs men. Ald. Christie has given up time and thought to the city interests.

He has taken the grip when some one had to do so. He gave the time which he might have devoted to his profession, and he gave the time which he might have devoted to leisure.

It was particularly fortunate that at the time of the union such a man as Ald. Christie entered the council from the front, a man broad enough to look over sectional lines.

He neglected the interests of his district, for that was always one of his strong points. His views of the future were not always as roseate as others of the aldermen, but the absolute purpose of the man who is gone is after all his greatest virtue.

UNACCOUNTABLE IMPULSE MAKES MASON WANT TO SHOOT PEOPLE.

The L'Etang Prisoner Has Served a Sentence For Attempting to Kill a Girl at Lubec—Shocking Conditions of Immorality Exposed—Mason Was Yesterday Sent Up For Trial.

(From Tuesday's Daily Sun.)

Before County Commissioner Martin Magowan at St. George, yesterday, Wellington Havelock Mason was committed for trial at the next circuit court for shooting and wounding Daniel Holland and his grandson, Melvin Garnett.

The evidence adduced at the trial, which was held in a crowded court room, did not bring out any new facts. It was simply a recital of the circumstances of the shooting, and the true inwardness of the affair can only be learned from conversation with the parties involved.

IMMORALITY PREVALENT.

This reveals a deplorable condition, a young woman of loose character by her own confession, led on a young man, not naturally of a strong mind, to such a pitch of jealousy that in a fit of violence he tried to kill her.

The woman in turn says she never encouraged Mason, that she feared him, that she wrote letters because he made her do so, and that she never intended to marry him.

NOT MARRIED TO COOK.

"He wanted me to marry him, and said he would get me a divorce from Garnett. I said all right. Angus Cook is only a friend of mine and of our family. He comes to the house some times and is treated just like any other friend. I am not married to him."

"Saturday night Mason came to the house and walked into the kitchen. Daniel Holland and his grandson, Melvin Garnett, were sitting at the table. I saw a revolver and fired at me, when I was sitting there rocking the baby. Cook was terrified and ran away. I saw that Mason was going to fire again, so I ran to the bedroom, but before I got there another bullet went right over my head. I got in the bedroom and shut the door. Then I saw that the little boy had been shot.

"My sister was in the kitchen. Mason had locked the door, so my sister smashed out a window and screamed for my father, who was in the barn. He came and had to burst in the kitchen door. The minute he did this he was issuing from it. An inch or so behind the ear I found a bullet which I extracted. He had also been shot in the right side above the shoulder, and on removing his shirt a bullet fell to the floor. I found only a slight wound, as the bullet had not penetrated the flesh. The little boy was brought to my office about 5.30 a. m. Sunday. I found a torn and bruised wound on the right side of the body on inner side of arm. Bullet passed through three inches of flesh.

MARY A. GARNETT.

On Sunday night I was sitting in my father's, Daniel Holland's, house, rocking my baby, when Mason opened the door and pointed a revolver at me. He fired one shot. I ran into the bedroom, when he fired another one. When I got in the bedroom I fastened the door and stayed there until the officer came and arrested him. I found the boy was shot in my arms.

DANIEL HOLLAND.

About 8.30 Saturday night Mason and Edward Leavitt came to my house and wanted to be put up for the night. I refused to put up anybody. Mason asked Leavitt if he could go back and stay with him. Leavitt said he could. After making some threats Mason went away, but came back an hour or so later. I went to the barn. I was alarmed by screeching in the house, and on going to the house I found a woman known as Liza Summers. At New River there was employed one Thomas Dowd, usually civil and temperate, but liable to go on a spree. Dowd got into the way of scolding at Ward's house, and one evening Ward became violently jealous. Trouble ensued, as both men were drunk, the result being that Dowd murdered Ward, and for this crime was hanged in St. Andrews. A daughter of Ward and his wife, Mrs. McLean, became the mother of Mary Amelia McLean. Mrs. McLean later married Daniel Holland, and the daughter assumed the name of Mary A. Holland.

NO DEFENSE ENTERED.

The evidence was then read over to the prisoner, who in reply to the usual questions said he would not offer a defense. He was accordingly sent up for trial, and in the afternoon was taken to St. Andrews jail by Marshal McAdam.

A BIT OF ANCIENT HISTORY.

Upwards of thirty years ago, while the stage coach was still carrying mails from St. John to St. Stephen, a man named Thomas Ward, a native of St. John, was given employment as an hostler at New River. After a time he married a woman known as Liza Summers. At New River there was employed one Thomas Dowd, usually civil and temperate, but liable to go on a spree. Dowd got into the way of scolding at Ward's house, and one evening Ward became violently jealous. Trouble ensued, as both men were drunk, the result being that Dowd murdered Ward, and for this crime was hanged in St. Andrews. A daughter of Ward and his wife, Mrs. McLean, became the mother of Mary Amelia McLean. Mrs. McLean later married Daniel Holland, and the daughter assumed the name of Mary A. Holland.

SPENT $500 ON HER.

"I hired horses, gave her presents, gave her trunks, gave her money, paid for her way up and down on the steamer, and I think I must have spent more than five hundred dollars on her last winter. I advanced her money to get a wedding outfit, but she paid it back. Other times she paid back money I gave her. But now it turns out that her trips which I paid for were visits to Cook. Sometimes she went to see him and sometimes he went to see her. "Anyway she kept writing to me, and I went to R. J. McGarrigle, the lawyer, in Calais, to see about getting a divorce. He said that Garnett was true to me, but he could get it next court, and that I need not go on to the court. I got this letter only a couple of days ago, so I came to L'Etang to show it to Mary and get the statement from her."

I got this letter only a couple of days ago, so I came to L'Etang to show it to Mary and get the statement from her."

THE WOMAN'S STORY.

"After two or three days," said Mrs. Garnett, "I found that Garnett was no good, not able to look after himself or me, and so I left him. That was spoken to him since, and I have hardly ever seen him since."

"I have two children, this five year old boy, who was shot, and Seymour, three years old. Melvin goes by the name of Garnett, but that man is not in the court room a little while ago. Seymour's father also lives here, but is not home now."

"I have gone with a good many men since I was sixteen. I'm twenty-three now—and down at Lubec there is a pretty swift crowd."

"I met Mason last summer in Lubec, where I was working in a sardine factory. He wanted to come with me and live with him, even without having a divorce, and I said I would, but he was in too much of a hurry. He wrote to me often and made me write to him, because I was afraid of him. I heard what he did to Jennie Griffin in Lubec and I was frightened."

"He used to come up here from Lubec, and sometimes I went down there. My mother was sick in the early winter and I had to come home."

"I tied up his wounds with my handkerchief and gave him all the money I had. Then Melvin was going for the while he stayed and I waited to give myself up when the officer came."

TIED UP DAN'S WOUNDS.

"I tied up his wounds with my handkerchief and gave him all the money I had. Then Melvin was going for the while he stayed and I waited to give myself up when the officer came."

"I'm sorry I shot the little boy. The bullet was aimed at Mary, but when I fired she ducked and lifted the boy up for a shield to protect herself. That's how he came to be hit. I was not wanting to kill any but Mary, and now that I know all about her I think she ought to be dead. But I wouldn't try to hurt her. I couldn't help it Saturday night, for something was forcing me to do it, and I could not resist."

ALWAYS CARRIED A PISTOL.

"I nearly always carry a pistol. I got this one in Lubec, and picked it because it was light and easily carried. I have the impulse to shoot, at times, but I can't resist it. I don't have any trouble with my head, no noise or anything, but I lost my hearing when I had the fall."

"In the court I suppose I will plead guilty, but that will depend on what my counsel says. There's no use in denying that I did the shooting, for I did it all right. I'm sorry now, but I couldn't help it."

BROKE DOWN ON LEAVING.

Mason talked freely to everyone, and seemed in the best of spirits, but when he was getting into the sleigh to be driven to St. Andrews jail he broke down completely and cried like a child.

Dan Holland was a picturesque figure in the court room. His head was swathed in bandages, and all that portion of his face that was visible was thickly covered with powder marks. He was suffering a good deal, but seemed thankful that his injuries were no worse. The woman in the case, Mary Garnett, said to have been very pretty some four or five years ago, but since then she has greatly changed. She is only twenty-three years old and looks thirty. Her little boys are bright chaps, Melvin, who was shot, being a particularly manly lad, while three year old Seymour is as chubby and rosy cheeked as could be found anywhere. Mrs. Holland, mother of Mary, died some two months ago.

FORECAST FOR COMING WEEK

Burial of Late King Christian of Denmark

Will Take Place Sunday, February 18—Assembling of New British Parliament.

The ceremonies attendant upon the assembling of the new British parliament will be somewhat clouded by the fact that the court is in mourning for King Christian of Denmark, whose burial is to take place on Sunday, February 18. Tomorrow the house of commons will assemble for the election of a speaker, and the remainder of the week will be given up to administering the oath of office and other preliminaries. King Edward will formally open parliament on Tuesday of next week.

An almost unprecedented gathering of the crowned heads of Europe will be present at the funeral of King Christian. The deep feelings of sorrow at his death has found expression in every language, and all the nations will send representatives to pay their last respects. Among the more than 800 distinguished persons who will be present at the funeral are Queen Alexandra of England, King George of Greece, Emperor William of Germany, King Haakon of Norway, Arch Duke Franz Frederick of Austria, and the Duchess of Brunswick. The King will be buried in the chapel of Frederik V., of the Cathedral of Roskilde, formerly the capital of Denmark, where the body of Queen Louise lies.

Clements Armand Fallieres, eighth president of the third republic, will take over the reins of government, becoming the ruling executive of France on February 18. On that day the Elysee Palace will be the scene of great pomp and festivity. M. Loubet will leave the palace on February 17, and at 4 o'clock on the following day, the precise hour on which his seven year term of office will expire, he will await the coming of M. Fallieres, who will be attended by a full military escort. Premier Rouvier will present the outgoing and incoming presidents, when there will be an exchange of complimentary addresses. A promenade through the various apartments of the official palace will be followed by a reception to the diplomatic corps and high state officials.

The dedication of the battle monument of El Caney, Cuba, will take place on February 14. A party of distinguished officers of the United States army and navy left New York on Feb. 8th to participate in the exercises attending the dedication. The Cuban government will play an active part in the ceremonies.

The wedding of Miss Alice Lee Roosevelt, daughter of the president to Representative Nicholas Longworth, will take place at the White House at 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday, Feb. 17. The ceremony, which will be performed in the historic east room, will be solemnized by the Right Rev. Henry Y. Satterlee, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Washington. There will be no bridesmaids. The groom's best man will be Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston, a classmate and long time friend. One thousand invitations to the wedding have been issued. Those invited, exclusive of the wedding party, include: The members of the cabinet and their wives; former members of the cabinet who are now in the United States senate and their wives; the heads of the foreign embassies and missions and the wives; the officials of the subsidy party which accompanied Secretary Taft to the Orient; the Ohio delegation, and the New York delegation in congress.

A meeting of the operators to discuss the threatened coal strike will be held in New York on Feb. 14, and on Feb. 16 there will be a joint conference of the miners and operators. Great interest attaches to these meetings, as both the operator and miners are reported as firmly adhering to their respective positions.

Under the agreement reached last Monday the senate will at 5 o'clock on next Wednesday vote on the subsidy shipping bill, and under the same agreement the entire day Tuesday and Wednesday, with the exception of the time devoted to routine business, will be given up to the discussion of the shipping bill. It is not thought that there will be any more prepared speeches delivered on the bill, but there will be considerable debate on its present features and also upon amendments that will be offered. The joint statehood bill will be made the unfinished business of the senate on Thursday, following immediately upon the disposal of the shipping bill and will continue to hold that place until voted upon or displaced. Opinions differ as to the time this will be required for the consideration of the measure. Conversely the senate has quite evenly divided on the Foraker amendment giving Arizona an opportunity for a separate vote on the question of admission, and it is not probable that a test of strength will be attempted until there is more definite information as to the attitude of certain senators than can now be obtained.

The week's proceedings will be opened tomorrow with an effort on the part of Mr. Tillman to secure an investigation of railroad conditions in West Virginia as a result of the complaint by Governor Dawson of that state in the letter presented to the senate a few days since by the South Carolina senator. He will make an effort to secure immediate consideration, but failing in that will press the measure upon the attention of the senate. Senator Lodge will make a speech on the railroad rate question Monday. It is probable the question of the propriety of caucus dictation in dealing with treaties which was raised by Senator Patterson's resolution will be revived some time during the week by Senator Spooner, who will sustain Mr. Patterson's course. If the Wisconsin senator speaks on the democratic caucus, on behalf of the senator, Mr. Tillman will reply on the behalf of the republican caucus.

The house begins tomorrow a session which busy week. Monday will be District of Columbia day and the fortifications appropriations bill will be taken up Tuesday. This bill carries $4,483,886 for fortifications and other works of defense. The sum is nearly $2,000,000 less than the present appropriation for this purpose, and is more than $1,000,000 less than the estimates submitted by the war department. The passage of the bill Tuesday is predicted.

The army appropriation bill is also on the calendar and will receive early consideration. This bill carries $93,678,682 for the maintenance of the army. A legislative amendment on this bill providing that when the office of lieutenant general shall become next vacant it shall not thereafter be filled, but the office shall cease and determine, provides a fruitful subject of debate.

While no specific agreement has been reached to that effect, it is anticipated the house will adjourn on Friday until Monday, with respect to the White House wedding Saturday.

BUSY SESSION OF FREDERICTON COUNCIL.

To Issue Debentures to Establish Filtration Plant—Scott Lumber Company Oppose Requests

FREDERICTON, Feb. 12.—A special meeting of the City Council was held this evening, when it was decided by unanimous vote to accept the report of the water committee and accept the bill in accordance with the same, and presentation of the legislature. This bill seeks power to issue debentures to an amount not to exceed $45,000, to establish a filtration plant in connection with the present water system, the said debentures to pay interest at the rate of four per cent, and to be paid off annually after a period of five years at $1,000 per year. The Council is also empowered to pay an amount not exceeding $250 for the preparation of plans and specifications in connection therewith.

The draft of a bill was also submitted to the Council, seeking legislative giving power to the city to install electrical power for the city use, and the issuing of debentures similar to those issued in connection with the water system. This bill was referred to a committee to report at a future meeting.

The report of the committee of the Council and Board of Trade in the matter of the construction of the Whelpsey skate factory in this city and the request of a corporation for privileges in erecting a mill on the site of the Estey property, was received. The Council decided to recommend the report of the Whelpsey application to the finance committee to arrange details. As regarded the application of the mill company, they also recommended to the committee for consideration, as required the leasing of two lots and wharf privileges when the company was formed, but not as to other requests.

In the afternoon a private meeting of the senate was held, at which Wm. J. Scott of the Scott Lumber Co. was heard. Mr. Scott strongly objected to the exemptions asked for by the new company, as putting the new company at an advantage to the Scott Lumber Company, which employed 300 men and received no benefit from the city. Mr. Scott contended that his company would be placed at a disadvantage, and if concessions were once granted to one they should be granted to the other.
