LOT'S CHOICE.
 GOLDEN TEXT.
 Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness.—Matt. 6: 33.

I. THE RETURN. 1. And Abram went up from the lowlands to the hilly country of Egypt. Abraham did not remain long in Egypt. It was a strange country; it was not promised to him, and hence he built no altar there. Among a powerful, rich, and luxurious people, he could not easily keep his family and his self safe from contamination, and perhaps could not personally see. Into the South, Not southerly from Egypt, but into the southern portion of Palestine.

2. And Abram became very rich. The danger of riches appears prominently here, in the very first case in which riches, as such, are mentioned. In later times, it is characteristic of early times, that silver is mentioned before gold among Abram's possessions, for it was very much more rare in Egypt, and was known as "white gold."
3. And he went on his journeys. By his stations, or according to his encampments.
Bethel; Hai. The place was about 12 miles north of Jerusalem. "A curious hill, its topmost acorn resting on the rock slopes down, and distinguished by its olive grove, forming a natural base for the altar, and a fitting shade for the tent of the patriarch." 4. Called on the name of the Lord.
 That is, re-established public worship and again acted the part of a patriarchal missionary. Doubtless Dean Stanley is right in saying that Egypt represented to him what we call the "world." And Abram had shaken off its dust from his feet, and returned to "a closer walk with God." II. AN OCCASION FOR STRAITS AMONG BROTHERS. 5. And Lot, Abraham's younger and brother-in-law, which went with Abraham. This implies that Lot riches came in part through his companionship with Abraham, the man of faith.
BLESSED ARE THE COMPANIONS OF THE RIGHTeous. Those who cast in their lot with the friends of God are often blessed for the sake of the blessing of the good over whom those around them shine as light which shines upon them shines also on every side.

6. And the land was not able to bear them; for, the land did not furnish space enough for the numerous herds to graze.
 But they may have been a moral inability, arising from the perverse disposition and unkindness of their servants.
7. There was a strife between the herdsmen of their flocks, and in their eagerness for the possession of the wells, or fountains of water. And the Canaanite, the lowlander, the descendants of Canaan, fourth son of Ham, after whom the land was named. And the Peritite, the highlander, or dweller in the hills and in villages, as opposed to the Canaanites, who occupied walled towns. Dwell then in the land. The presence of these powerful tribes is mentioned to show (1) why Abram and Lot were so straitened as to pasture; (2) to signalize the impropriety and danger of their quarrelling among themselves; and (3) to show that Abram felt that the eyes of these idolaters were upon him.

III. THE STRIFE PREVENTED BY BROTHERLY LOVE. 8. And Abram said unto Lot, As the older, as the richer, as the more favoured of God, as the better man, as the more generous man, Abraham speaks first. Let there be no strife—between thee and me.
 It is evident that Lot was beginning to take part with his herdsmen, and regard himself as an injured man. For he was brethren; in kinship, in love, in interest, and especially in religion. If we brethren, let us not be brothers, and not like enemies. The love between brethren of the same family or church should overcome the danger of strife.

9. Is not the whole land before thee?
 That is, I willingly give you the choice of the whole.
ABRAHAM'S BROTHERLY LOVE. (1) It was a most unselfish act, renouncing his own interests in favor of his friend. (2) It was a giving up of his rights. Abraham had the first right to the land. It was promised to him, and not to Lot. Then he was the older and the richer of the two.
 Lot had accompanied him, not he Lot.
 (3) It was an act of faith; for it seemed to be giving up to others, for the sake of peace, the land promised to himself.

10. And Lot left up his eyes. From the hill near Bethel, when they probably were a wide range of country open to see. And beheld all the plain of Jordan.
 "The Ghor," or depression near the mouth of the river, and one of the most remarkable depressions in the world. Jordan.
 This is the first reference to this river. Its name means "descender," for in its swift course of 200 miles (135 in a straight line), from the roots of the Anti-Lebanon mountains to the Dead Sea, it falls over 3,000 feet. It is from 45 to 180 feet wide, and from 3 to 12 feet deep. That it was well watered everywhere. This was the great necessity in the region. It seemed to him a paradise. Before the Lord destroyed, etc., as described in Lesson 3. This doubtless changed the face of the country. Then as the garden of the Lord. Even so the paradise from which Adam was sent forth.
Like the land of Egypt. The richest and most fertile land known. As thou comest unto Zoar. Bathor, Zoar was the garden land of Egypt, through which Lot and Abraham must lately have passed, which fact makes the reference natural.

11. Then Lot chose him all the plain.
 Not as he chooses in great fertility, but because his region lay on the great route of East-to-travel, and promised to the keen eye of Lot a rich market for the produce of his flocks, as well as the luxuries and refinements of wealth.

The Unwise Choice. (1) Lot's choice was selfish. (2) The choice was made in the wrong spirit; for worldly advantage, without regard to spiritual things. (3) By this choice he left the company of God's people. (4) He went into the company of sinners. (5) He chose it voluntarily. (6) Apparently he gained the end he sought. His worldly circumstances at first were improved. (6) But he was not happy, for he "saw the righteous soul from day to day" (2 Pet. 2: 8). (7) He became tainted in his own character, as we see by his later history. (8) He soon lost everything, first by war, and when that did not cure him, by the floods.

12. Abram dwelt in the land. The country, in the vicinity of the tents of Lot, dwelt in the cities. The walled towns, and pitched his tent toward Sodom.
 Making his removals in that direction. We may suppose that Lot fully intended to keep at a safe distance from that scene of abominations; but, having come close within a possible vicinity of the tents of sin, he is imperceptibly drawn onward.

PITCHING THE TENT TOWARD SODOM. (1) Any wrong or selfish act, unforseen, will naturally draw us toward evil. (2) There are great outward attractions to many sins.
 (3) The approach to great sin is gradual.
 (4) He who keeps companionship pitches his tent toward Sodom. (5) He who indulges in doubtful pleasures pitches his tent toward Sodom. (6) He who pitches his tent toward Sodom will probably soon find himself in the city. (7) The only safe way to keep far from sin and as near to God as possible is to pitch his tent toward the presence of God, and demanded the attention of heaven.

ABRAHAM'S REWARD. Immediately after the departure of Lot, God appeared again to Abraham, as if to reward him for his generosity, and to show him that his apparent losses for the sake of peace and lovingness were not in vain. He was now in a thousand fold in a higher and better way.

There are two kinds of girls says the Fraser. One is the kind that appears first abroad—the girls that are for parties, rides, visits, ball, etc., and whose chief delight is in such things. The other is the kind that appears last at home—the girls that are useful and cheerful in the
