

NEW YORK SURRENDERED TO MARSHAL FOCH YESTERDAY WITHOUT STRIKING A BLOW

Not Since Armistice Day Has New York Seen Such a Demonstration as Was Accorded the Conqueror of the German Armies—Multitudes Assembled to Cheer the Visitor Whose Welcome Began Miles Out at Sea—Flags of the Allies Everywhere, the Tri-Color of France Predominating.

New York, Oct. 28.—New York surrendered to Marshal Foch today without striking a blow. Not since armistice day has there been a demonstration on Broadway to compare in spontaneity or numbers with the reception accorded this afternoon the conqueror of the German armies.

From the Battery, where he was greeted by Governor Miller, of New York State, to City Hall, where he was welcomed by Mayor Hylan, the great little man in horizon blue, moved in a triumphal procession of many thousands. By his side rode General Pershing, who, as leader of the United States forces in France, acted under Foch's supreme command. To General Pershing fell the honor of first welcoming the French Marshal to the shores of the United States.

Receiving the freedom of the city from the Mayor, Marshal Foch bestowed his "triumphal entry" motoring along Fifth Avenue to the Pennsylvania Station. All along the route and at the station, multitudes of cheering spectators were still sounding when the special train taking the Marshal to Washington on the first leg of his journey to Kansas City for the American Legion convention pulled out of the terminal.

Freedom of City. Receiving the freedom of the city from the Mayor, Marshal Foch bestowed his "triumphal entry" motoring along Fifth Avenue to the Pennsylvania Station. All along the route and at the station, multitudes of cheering spectators were still sounding when the special train taking the Marshal to Washington on the first leg of his journey to Kansas City for the American Legion convention pulled out of the terminal.

Welcomes Began at Sea. The welcome to Marshal Foch began 100 miles out at sea. There the liner Paris, on which he was a passenger, was joined by 12 destroyers, and a squadron of seaplanes. The steamship George Washington, on which General Pershing was returning from Europe, roared into port, passing the Paris in order that the United States General might be the first to welcome his former commander-in-chief.

As quarantine, Marshal Foch was transferred to a ferry cutter where he was greeted by Assistant Undersecretary Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Assistant Secretary of the Navy and others. At the cutter passed the flag of the United States, the flag of the French Republic and the flag of the United States.

Climax of Reception. The climax of the reception came when the French generalissimo landed a few yards from Castle Garden, where his famous countryman Lafayette first set foot on American soil. The great stretch of open ground had been converted into a vast stadium, the walls of which were skyscrapers. At every window, were perched men and women waving the flags of France and the United States.

On the streets below were masses of cheering people, and the golden figure in its light blue uniform stepped from the dock a mighty shout went up. General Pershing was waving, and the two soldiers shook hands and cheered together for a few moments. Then Marshal Foch paid his respects to a platoon of French veterans drawn up to receive him, soldiers of the artillery and infantry, Blue Devils and aviators, some with empty sleeves, all with decorations.

Next to be noticed was a battalion of United States regulars and then a group of red cross nurses in white uniforms. Photographers insisted. The instant photographers delayed the Marshal a little while before he could enter his automobile, but finally the procession got under way and started up Broadway. As the line passed under the elevated tracks, no form opened their whistles and kept them open. Rows upon rows of people filling the sidewalks, overflowing into the streets, and occupying every post of vantage on the buildings, shouted and cheered while the Marshal's car was passing and long after it had passed. All the way to the City Hall Marshal Foch stood up, responding to the homage of the multitude. Fitting everywhere from the buildings and in streamers across the streets were the flags of the Allies, that of France predominating. From the windows of the tall office buildings poured an incessant shower of paper and ticker-tape.

Revolt Against Rumania Gov't Grows in Bessarabia. Riga, Oct. 28.—A wireless message from Moscow announces a growing revolt against the Rumanian Government in Bessarabia. At the station of Romanovskiy it says, a sanguinary encounter took place recently between Rumanian insurgents and Rumanian military and cavalry, culminating in the blowing up by the insurgents of an important railway bridge near Chernovitz in Bukovina. This resulted in a train wreck, which, according to the despatch, many Rumanian soldiers were killed.

Crushed To Death In N. S. Colliery. Sydney, N. S., Oct. 28.—Michael Finlay, 13, was crushed to death in the colliery yard at Reserve today when a loose strand of an endless haulage cable on which he was riding, caught in the boy's clothing and jammed him over a large pulley into a concrete aperture.

THREE PARTIES ARE ALL SURE OF VICTORY

Gov't Headquarters on Figures at Hand Declare They Will Have 15 Over All.

PRIME MINISTER WINNING VOTES

Declared That Meighen Will Carry at Least Sixty Seats in Ontario.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, Oct. 28.—With the close of the first day of the campaign political prophets in the Capital are beginning to make predictions as to the probable results. Headquarters of all three parties are, as usual, sure of victory for their side, although it is significant that the Liberals, who at the outset were claiming a clear majority over all, are now whitening down their claim to the largest group, while on the other hand the Meighen Government's Headquarters declare that the Government will have a majority from fifteen to twenty over all other parties. This estimate, while declared by some to be over sanguine, is based upon evidence of a remarkable swing to the Government in Ontario.

Mr. Meighen's tour has, beyond question, been a big success. In less than two weeks he has gone from one end of the Province to the other addressing no fewer than twenty gatherings and reaching upwards of seventy thousand people. The Prime Minister has everywhere encountered enthusiastic receptions and his clear-cut declarations on the tariff and upon other public questions are undoubtedly making a marked impression. Mr. King, on the other hand, has thus far held only three or four meetings in the Province and these in ridings held by the Liberals in the Parliament, but this far in the campaign indeed Mr. Meighen has addressed three meetings for every one addressed by the opposition leader.

Headquarters Figures. Government headquarters here closely in touch with every riding in the country declare that Mr. Meighen will carry at least sixty seats in Ontario, that he will more than break even in the Maritime Provinces, take a marked impression. Mr. King, on the other hand, has thus far held only three or four meetings in the Province and these in ridings held by the Liberals in the Parliament, but this far in the campaign indeed Mr. Meighen has addressed three meetings for every one addressed by the opposition leader.

Spain And Algeria Proposed For Exile of Charles and Zita. Council of Ambassadors Will Determine Future of Hapsburgs Today.

Paris, Oct. 28.—The future of Charles of Hapsburg may be decided today, that of Napoleon, by the Council of Ambassadors tomorrow, following the collapse of his attempt to re-establish himself on the throne of Hungary and his arrest near Komorow yesterday. Spain and Algeria are proposed as the countries for his internment with the Spanish Government will undertake responsibility for him, with it is recognized, a certain amount of allied supervision. If Spain would not be willing to undertake this, it is believed that the French would be willing to keep him in Algeria, which probably would be far less agreeable to the one time ruler of the dual monarchy than would Spain, whose ruler, Alfonso XIII, also is a Hapsburg.

Italy has definitely refused to accept Charles and his British wife, who show a coolness toward the suggestion that a British dominion assume responsibility for the royal prisoner. Switzerland has declined her and Zita cannot re-leave her frontiers after their flight and is making preparations to deport all the Austro-Hungarian noble supporters of the Hapsburgs.

One thing is clear, however, and that is that this Charles will be kept under guard, unlike the Kaiser, who is merely watched by the Dutch police as William Hohenzollern, to see that he does not break any of the laws of Holland by political intrigue in his self-selected asylum.

Charles probably will be kept in the Abbey of Tihany, about fifty-five miles southeast of Budapest, and situated on the shore of Lake Platten, until the Allies decide when and where he will be turned over to them for internment. There is no intention, the New York Herald bureau here is informed, of separating Charles from his family, which will accompany him to his place of exile.

The question of who will bear the expense of Charles' asylum is now under consideration by the Allies and the Little Entente, none of which are willing to stand the burden of it alone. It has been suggested that the Hapsburgs' private holdings in Hungary and in other European countries, apart from their interests confiscated under the treaties, be sold under allied direction and a trust fund be created which would cover the cost of Charles' new establishment.

Budapest is now negotiating with representatives of the Allies and the Little Entente regarding the sale of the Hapsburgs' private holdings in Hungary and in other European countries, apart from their interests confiscated under the treaties, be sold under allied direction and a trust fund be created which would cover the cost of Charles' new establishment.

First Meeting of Arms Conference November 12th. Washington, Oct. 28.—Definite decision to hold the first session of the conference on limitation of armaments on the morning of Saturday November 12, instead of Armistice Day, November 11, was announced today at the State Department. It was found impossible to reconcile even an informal gathering at the Conference on Armistice Day with the programme of ceremonies connected with burial of the United States unknown soldier.

York County Court Adjourns. Special to The Standard. Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 28.—The adjourned session of the York County Court was held this afternoon with His Honor Judge Slipp presiding. Two cases were to come up for trial, but one went over until July term, and the other is to be heard in chambers at a date to be agreed upon by counsel. Court adjourned sine die.

PREMIER MEIGHEN BEFORE 5,000 PEOPLE IN TORONTO DEFENDS GOV'T POLICIES

Declares He is Not Begging, But Laying Before the Country the Great Issue at Stake for Them to Decide—Reaffirms His Belief in Fiscal Programme of Moderate Protection—Says Gov't is Opposed by An Aggregation United on Nothing Save Gaining Power.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—"I am not here begging on my own behalf or on behalf of any member of my government. I am here to lay before you the great issue at stake, which you must decide." With these words, Premier Meighen prefaced a speech delivered to nearly five thousand people gathered in Massey Hall this evening—a speech in which he defended the lines of policy which had actuated the government in the past, reaffirmed his belief in a fiscal programme of moderate protection for Canada, and declared his intention of following the course which the government had pursued in tariff matters if returned to power.

Presents the issue. The Prime Minister in opening, emphasized that he was appealing to the people not on personal grounds but on the big issues that now confront the electors of Canada.

"I am not here begging on my own behalf or on behalf of any member of my government. I am here to lay before you the great issue at stake, which you must decide." With these words, Premier Meighen prefaced a speech delivered to nearly five thousand people gathered in Massey Hall this evening—a speech in which he defended the lines of policy which had actuated the government in the past, reaffirmed his belief in a fiscal programme of moderate protection for Canada, and declared his intention of following the course which the government had pursued in tariff matters if returned to power.

He turned to the railway situation which, he said, had been the subject of criticism by Mr. Crerar.

"Mr. Crerar, after much mental preparation, throws his hands in the air and declares 'something must be done,'" said the Premier. The Government railways were being managed efficiently, and in time they would earn money for themselves. If Mr. Crerar or King had any practical suggestions to make, they should offer them, instead of carping criticism.

The Prime Minister referred to the attack made on the Government for building the Merchant Marine. Every step in connection with the Merchant Marine had been laid before Parliament and put to a vote. It was built by orders-in-council. "It is hard to talk to men like that," he said. Mr. Meighen maintained that on every occasion when votes were asked for construction of ships the Opposition heartily supported the Government's policy and now "they turn like the Reverend Father at St. John" and said we should have stopped building ships as soon as the Armistice was signed.

"The Mercantile Marine is an asset to this Dominion," he asserted. "It is an asset that is going to pay its way. I don't think one Canadian who ever has reason to regret that one ship has been built."

The Premier continued that a proof that the Government had made no big vital mistakes, is that his opponents are waging against it. There would be no need for talking to points to the interest of the Government had done anything very wrong, he said.

Big Interests Bugaboo. "You'll hear of big interests as long as you live. When the Opposition has nothing else to offer but picturing the advantages of the rich as against those of the poor, without being able to point to a single instance where I have acted in the interest of big corporations and against the welfare of the working men, you can make up your minds that they have a pretty poor case."

"The employing community in Canada are not sure tonight what the country's tariff policy is to be," declared the Premier. "I can't know myself, but I do know what it will be if I am returned to power. He went on to say that the country must decide the fiscal issue in order to re-establish stability in Canada.

Doesn't Apologize. The Premier's speech was not an apology or a defence. He did not claim that the Government had come through the years of war and the period of reconstruction following it without some mistakes, but he insisted that the mistakes had been small, that the great decisions of the Government had been wise and that the country, after passing through one of the most roasting upheavals which the world had experienced, was strong and healthy.

Mr. Meighen contrasted the position of the Government and those opposed to the Government. "We come forward with a definite, consistent stand on every big issue before the electors," he said.

"We are opposed by an aggregation which is united on nothing between Heaven and Earth, save gaining power."

"We don't know what Mr. King will do to the tariff," said the Premier. "No one knows. He doesn't know himself. But we do know what Mr. Crerar and his party propose to do. I will read to you the platform to which Mr. King is pledged, for then you will have the platform that Mr. Crerar proposes to carry out."

The Premier quoted the tariff plank of the Liberal Party passed at the 1919 Convention.

"That Convention was opened with prayer and closed with a solemn pledge to implement the platform," said the Premier. "Could solemnity go farther?"

YORK-SUNBURY Liberals Playing King-Crerar Game

Camouflaged United Farmer Support to King to be Forced Into the Open.

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 28.—After the Liberal Convention for York-Sunbury is held here Saturday afternoon the camouflaged United Farmer support which is given to the Hon. Charles King party in this county, will have to come out in the open. In the by-election of May last, the official Liberal support was given the farmer candidate, and in the general election the U. F. support is to be given the Liberal candidate. The latter is expected to be Col. W. J. Osborne, who some years ago went down to a disastrous defeat as a member of a Liberal Provincial ticket in York, H. Estabrooks, of St. John, who has a country estate in Lincoln Sunbury county, turned the grins down flatly some time ago, when approached with a proposition to run in this constituency. R. B. Smith, M.P.P., for Sunbury, has been asked to be a candidate, but prefers to hold what he is sure of in preference to a defeat in a general Federal election.

E. W. Stairs, of Southampton, who was nominated at the United Farmers convention in this city a fortnight ago, has not yet definitely stated that he will not accept nomination. His refusal is expected to come after the Liberals name a man Saturday.

When T. A. Crerar and T. W. Caldwell were here Wednesday at the time of the abortive attempt to hold a meeting, a love-feast with local Liberals took place at the Queen Hotel.

Liquor Smuggling Along Seaboard Very Common

Operations Attract But Casual Attention from Ordinary Merchants.

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 28.—The liquor smuggling operations are now so common along the Atlantic seaboard that they attract but casual attention from ordinary merchants. It is the statement of Captain Parks of the schooner DeWitt H. Parks, which arrived here today from Barbados. Captain Parks says that on a recent trip to Philadelphia he became confused in a fog, when near a boat and went on board a small coaster he could see lying near him. He found the coaster's deck piled with cases and cases of liquor, all ready for launch. The vessel's captain was unwilling to give any but the most general indications as to his position.

Sir Henry Drayton Will Not Contest Kingston Again

It is Understood That Another Riding Has Been Found for Minister of Finance.

K-SIR HENRY DRAYTON, Kingston, Ont., Oct. 28.—W. R. Givens, publisher of the Daily Standard, who two years ago acted on behalf of a group of Kingston citizens who tendered to Sir Henry Drayton the nomination for Kingston tonight authorized the statement that Sir Henry would not again contest Kingston. It is understood here that another riding has been found for Sir Henry, but until this was certain the party in Kingston had refrained from putting any candidate in the field.

Big Demand For Seed Potatoes

Fredericton, Oct. 28.—Selected potatoes, grown in the Maritime Provinces, which are certified as being sold at high prices in Aroostook county, Maine, as seed stock for next season's planting. On the other hand, Aroostook potatoes of the same classification, are being sold in New York and the Southern States for a low price.

One Aroostook farmer, who formerly resided in York county, wrote a friend in this city to the effect that he had raised upwards of seven thousand barrels of potatoes and that he was a steady demand for the greater portion for seed in other states.

Mrs. Nacensit states that Albertson entered her room over a local restaurant, brandishing a revolver, and asked her for money. While resisting, she said, she received cuts about the head and bruises to her throat.

Self-Proclaimed King of Negroes Runs Amuck

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 28.—Alternately proclaiming himself King of all the negroes, and baying, William Arthur, a colored man, ran amuck at Glace Bay today and invaded the nurses' home at St. Joseph's Hospital. When the police captured him and took him to jail for a sanity test, he dropped to his knees and grabbed the examining surgeon by the leg with his teeth. Later, as he was being escorted to his cell, he bit deputy chief of police Thomas on the leg. The officer had to club him over the head to make him let go.

It is declared that Arthur is of a nervous temperament and became unbalanced following a negro revival meeting at Waterford which he attended the night before.

Highly Organized System of Securing Arms and Ammunition Revealed When Organizer of Self Determination League Was Charged With Hoarding Revolvers.

London, Oct. 28.—Startling evidence of a highly organized system of procuring arms and ammunition was given at Cardiff, today, when Joseph Connely, organizer of South Wales branches of the Irish Self Determination League, was charged with unlawfully hoarding revolvers and explosives. The chief detective-inspector gave evidence that when he entered the prisoner's lodgings he found revolvers and ammunition and a large quantity of high explosives. He also found a number of highly important documents including a list of goods to be procured including revolvers, machine guns and ammunition. There was also a list of ports at which the goods were to be landed, and plans of six powder magazines in the vicinity of Merthyr along with receipts signed by two men named Evans, who have been committed to trial on a charge of breaking into a powder magazine at that town.

Remarkable Ovation Given Lord Beatty At Pilgrim's Banquet

Tremendous Reception Accorded When He Arose to Speak—Visits Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 28.—Admiral Lord Beatty, who was given a remarkable ovation when he spoke at the Pilgrim's banquet last night, had another demonstration this morning of the esteem with which he is regarded by the people of New York. The British admiral spent the morning on a sight-seeing trip, in the course of which he visited the floor of the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was practically suspended for a few moments while the members cheered him. He was officially welcomed by the exchange's governing committee.

The welcome which has been extended to Lord Beatty by the public generally has been in direct contrast to the unenthusiastic tenor of the exchange's governing committee. He was escorted by Mayor Myran, on his arrival. When he arose to speak last night, he was given a tremendous reception. It was several minutes before he was able to begin his speech. Later there was another spectacular outburst of cheering when Rear Admiral Rodman, of the U. S. navy said:

"There is no question in my mind that our two nations will always stand together and that they will always fight together."

Thousands of small Union Jacks were flung into the air and waved for five minutes amid tumultuous cheering as the two admirals stood facing each other at the speakers' table.

Lie Thrown Into Face of Liberal Candidate in P. E. I.

Soldier Denies Statement Re Soldiers' Votes Distribution Attributed to Him.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Oct. 28.—The Charlottetown officer from J. J. Hughes, Liberal candidate in Kings County, states tonight that he was on a committee having to do with the distribution of soldiers' votes in 1917 and that he placed 200 votes in Kings County to defeat Mr. Hughes. The officer admits having a conversation with Mr. Hughes three years ago regarding the overseas vote but contends that his remarks did not have the meaning Mr. Hughes interpreted them to have. He also stated that neither candidate in Kings received any military vote other than that of Prince Edward Island soldiers. Mr. Hughes reiterated his previous statement at Montague tonight.
