Two or three Nova Scotia Judges had a row in open court the other day, on the question of precedence, the end of which was that one of them bounced out in a haff, and it is not to be wondered at that two lawyers have shown their contempt for the bench by giving the lie and a blow while arguing a case. It was in the presence of one of the temporary dispensers of election justice only, but the ridicule brought on the bench by the recent conduct of some of the Judges may have had something to do with the want of respect shown by the lawyers. The Reporter says:

The true account of the fracas in the ad Ace Court Sittings in Picton is that Weatherbe was, on the day it occurred more than usually violent, and finally flaished up by calling Mr. McDonald in open court a "lint." He was very properly dealt with in the only way such an offence could be punished, and received a couple of blows. The pity is that he did not get more. His attempt to manufacture sympathy for himself in the Chronic this morning only shows what he really is. Any one having any knowledge of his way of conducting causes in court will wonder he has not been punished in the same manner long ago.

Governor Kellogg may not be the greatest coward in the world, but he is evidently the greatest one in New Orleans. It was his arbitrary seizure of arms belonging to private citizens that led to his being frightened out of the State House, and now, although he is protected by United States troops, he is shivering at the thought that the citizens have arms in their houses. A despatch says he has decided to search the houses for arms, and that the citizens have decided to resist such an act of tyranny with the arms he is in search of. Kel-

These organs evidently regarded the land-swap scandal as an unfailing lever for hoisting a treasury-depleting, tax-increasing, debt-accumulating, credit-destroying clique of hungry Grits into office, and all their joy at the fall of Ouimet has been turned to sadness by the formation of a Conservative Government to succeed him.
