THE STATE OF THE PARLESSON OF THE STATE OF THE STATE at clubs, admirers of demogratic principles—if that can be called a principle which involves the absence of all principle and having the affairs of the ciple—and having the affairs of the nation to attend, you have no longer any leisure for your own private interest. That you are better clothed is not true, neither is it true that you are better fed, as any one who walks the streets of any city, either in the Mother Country or in any of her Dependencies, may assure at the librality, has yet many social abuses, which city, either in the Mother Country or in any of her Dependencies, may assure himself to his entire satisfaction. That agitation and whiggery has not fed and clothed Ireland, let the swarms of miserable wratches that at times crowd our wharves, and the depopulation of that unfortunate country, bear witness. That political jobbers and Anti-Corn Law Leaguers have not fed and dothed England and Scotland, let the Poor Houses and Union Work Houses declare. Neither will a handful of discontanted English and French renegades feed and clothe you when the time comes for you to require it. That you are better to solve the enigms; but when we next write to the thought. The house is described in the present their special states and boarders.
