Mr. Lloyd George developed at considerable length the reasons for not taking the step earlier. He referred to "timidities and susceptibilities" when it came to treating questions on any front not commanded by generals taking part in the inter-allied consultations. The allies had committed a great fault, he said, in not adequately assisting Serbia in holding her live fault, he said, in not adequately assisting Serbia in holding her line with the result that the Central Empires broke the blockade and procured men and supplies from the East, without which Germany doubtless would have been unable to maintain the forces of her armies.

"Why was this unbelievable fault committed?" asked the Premier. "The reply is simple. It was because no one in particular was charged with guarding the Balkan gate. The unique front had not be
