Election of Popular Athlete.

A very interesting contest took place at Bell Island last week in connection with the Fancy Fair at that place. A competition for the election of the most popular athlete on the Isle was organized by the ladies, and representatives from the various Companies were entered. From the commencement a trio from the Dominion Club led in the voting, and so interesting did the election become that friends of the contestants became most interested. The poll closed at 10 p.m. on Saturday, when Mr. B. D. Walsh, Postal Telegraph operator was appointed Returning Officer. The result of the election showed a decisive victory for Mr. Joseph M. Greene, who obtained a substantial majority over Mr. H. Noonan, ex-C. L. B. footballer, and Mr. Ralph Burnham who was third man. The enthusiasm manifested in the affair was demonstrated by the hearty applause of the audience when the result of the election was announced. Mr. Greene has already established a reputation for himself in St. John's by reason of his work with the St. Bonaventure's College boys, and the C. C. C. Relay Team, and has gained quite a name for himself in the Sports and Athletics at Wabana. He is a son of M. K. Greene, Esq.

Klark-Urban Co.

Despite the unfavourable weather the second production of "In The Bishop's Carriage," at the Casino Theatre last night was largely attended. The staging of the piece was even better than at the previous performance and the scenic effects were up to the usual high standard. Harden Klark, as "Lattimore," the lawyer retaining criminals, and Maple Cecil, as "Nan," the thief, were prominent figures. Fred Schrieber impersonated cleverly "Tom Dorgan" or "Nan's pal." The other characters were cleverly played by Misses Fountaine, Karroll and Hunt and Messrs. Pendexter, Field, Archer, Irving and Webb. The "Man of the Hour" will be played to-night, and for to-morrow's matinee "The Dairy Farm."

Scr. Leaking.

Crew Manned Pumps for Twenty-Four Hours.—Passengers who arrived by yesterday's express tell of the perilous experience of the captain and crew of one of our local vessels last week. Captain Wilson's schooner, the Lily Dale, en route to Merasheen, sprang a leak off Cape St. Mary's, and the water gained headway very quickly. The crew, aided by a passenger, were obliged to keep two pumps going, and so dangerous did the position appear and so much water was taken, that the pumps were manned for twenty-four hours continuously, until port was made. The schooner has now been fixed up and is able to continue her service. The crew, however, will remember their experience for some time to come.

Hallow'en Entertainment.

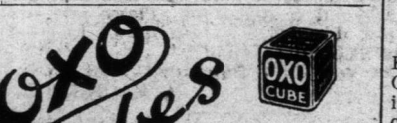

The Hallow'en Entertainment held in the British Hall last night, under the auspices of the Field-Spencer Association, was the biggest success yet. The attendance was large and the different stalls, stocked with plain and fancy work, attracted many purchasers. Tea was served by the ladies of the Spencer Club after which the musical part of the programme was taken up. An excellent concert was given consisting of vocal and instrumental selections and to which the following contributed:—Song—Miss Marian Winter; song—Miss Dunfield; recitation—Miss Keegan; song—Mr. Cecil Hill; song—Miss Armine Gosling; trio—the Misses Johnson; song—Miss Elsie Herder; song—Miss Jean Strang. Each performer had to respond to an encore. The comedy, "Aunt Jane," was then produced and elicited much applause. At 10 o'clock dancing commenced and continued until this morning when the entertainment was brought to a close. The proceeds realized $300, and all connected with it are to be congratulated on the success achieved. The Spencer Association have now $17,000 on hand but require another $10,000 before making the necessary alterations and additions to the College.

Almost Carried Off. Last evening before the City of Sydney left two telegraphers, Messrs. Wheeler, of the Anglo, and Slinnot, of Cape Race, went on board and were permitted to use the wireless in a conversation with the operator on H. M. S. Sirius. So engrossed were they in the confab that they did not know the ship had left the pier until the swell as she took the Narrows warned them that she was outward bound. They appealed to the chief officer and he said that as the ship was late there was nothing for them to do but to remain on board and go to Sydney in her. Just then Slinnot bethought of the Sirius, put himself in wireless communication with her and the ship's launch was despatched to their aid. They had to lower themselves over the side on a rope and owing to the swell running had great difficulty in getting on board the launch.

Cable News.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. The keenest interest is aroused in Naval circles over the announcement that the guns for the new super Dreadnoughts will be of 15 inch calibre. They will throw shells weighing 650 pounds. The largest guns at present mounted on British warship is of 13.5 inch calibre. This will shoot a shell weighing 1,400 pounds. Admiral Bridge, retired, declares they are capable of destroying any warships that has been built or that is in contemplation. He says, naval architects can build ships that will carry bigger guns than 15 inches, but the question is are these big guns practically valuable. I strongly believe that their introduction is altogether in the nature of retrograde tactics. Sir Hiram Maxim, gun-maker, differs from the Admiral and believes that 20 inch guns are possible.

Special Evening Telegram. WINNIPEG, Oct. 29. Considerable anxiety is expressed in various quarters as to the whereabouts of the Rev. Father Bernard Vaughan, the famous English Jesuit. He left Moose Jaw on Friday for Winnipeg, intending to go to Chicago, and thence to New York, where he intended to remain for a fortnight. At Chicago he had an important lecture appointment for Sunday night, but failed to arrive. Inquiry at the Bishop's Palace here elicited the information that Fr. Vaughan expected to be there in a few days, but his present whereabouts was unknown.

Special Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, Oct. 29. According to the New York Telegraph, betting on the Presidential situation in Wall St. is still very light with an overwhelming sentiment in favour of Wilson. Taft, 1 to 3; Roosevelt, 1 to 2½. The odds on the Colonel have shortened somewhat. A bet of $1,500 to $400 that Wilson would be elected, found no takers yesterday, and it is a case of even money of Taft or Roosevelt winning the popular vote.

Special Evening Telegram. TORONTO, Oct. 29. Two members of the Toronto garrison were killed and 39 injured, 2 fatally, as the result of a head-on collision near Streetsville Junction on the C.P.R. The Chicago flyer crashed into the second section of a train bringing home troops engaged in a sham battle from Hamilton to Toronto.

Special Evening Telegram. CHICAGO, Oct. 29. Mrs. Mary Hart, 100 years old, was arraigned in the police to-day, charged with assault and battery. The centenarian prisoner, a negress, who was employed as a caretaker in a negro church, was charged by the pastor, Clemens, with assaulting him when he endeavoured to discharge her.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. Prime Minister Asquith had an audience with the King. No formal action has been taken or is likely to be taken until the result of the great battle is known.

Disorderly Characters.

On Monday Consts. Greene and Bindon were called to a house on Casey Street where a man was acting in a disorderly manner. When the officers arrived he had broken up most of the little furniture about his abode, and his wife was in a state of collapse from fright. The man resisted arrest so violently that the police had to handcuff him in his home. The same officers had to arrest another man at his residence on Prince's Street. He also was kicking up a noise, while under the influence. Later the man had to put both his sons under arrest for drunkenness in their home.

Becker Will be Sentenced.

To death on Wednesday, but confident of acquittal on new trial.

New York, Oct. 29. — Police-Lieutenant Chas. Becker was found guilty of murder by the jury which has been trying him for instigating the death of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. The verdict was "murder in the first degree," and was pronounced exactly at midnight last night. Becker was remanded for sentence until Oct. 30. Becker did not flinch when the verdict was pronounced. Mrs. Becker, sitting outside the door of the court room, fell in a swoon when the verdict was announced.

The case went to the jury at 2.20 p.m. after a three hours' charge by Justice Goff, which Becker characterized as distinctly unfair and "thin velleed summing up for the state." The charge was, in effect, that the guilt or innocence of the prisoner rested almost solely upon the debatable point as to whether Sam Schepps was an accomplice to the crime.

The court himself was doubtful as to Schepps' status, and declined to guide the jurors in a decision. What he did instruct them to do was to return a verdict of first degree murder, or second degree murder, or to acquit the defendant. Manslaughter was eliminated, and a no-compromise verdict was directed upon the motion of Becker's lawyer.

Flanked by counsel, face expressionless, Becker sat chewing gum while the court delivered the charge. Back of the railing at his wife, head bowed, eyes downcast. The white haired justice spoke in a monotone but with incisive deliberateness.

Twice during the afternoon the jury communicated with Justice Goff. Once it asked for the stipulations made by the State with the four informers, Rose, Webber, Vallon and Schepps, and Schepps' letter to Rose, written by the little gambler at Hot Springs, Ark. The second time the jury wanted the testimony of persons who talked with Schepps in Hot Springs. The first request was granted; the second denied, because portions of the testimony taken at Hot Springs had been excluded from the evidence by the court.

The jurors filed into the court room at 11.55 o'clock. A minute later the defendant was brought in from the tomb. As he waited for the judge he scanned, with anxious eye, the face of the jurors, but none of them returned his gaze. A tense silence prevailed. At 11.57 o'clock Justice Goff entered the room.

The clerk then asked the jury if they had reached a verdict. "We have," announced foreman Skinner. "We find the defendant guilty as charged in the indictment. "Do you find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree as charged in the indictment?" asked the clerk. "We do," the foreman replied.

The court then directed that the roll of the jurors be called for their individual verdicts.

John F. McIntyre, Becker's chief counsel, announced that he would take an immediate appeal.

DECISIVE BATTLE RAGING.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. The long awaited battle which will decide the fate of Turkey is now being fought, the army, under Maxium Pasha, Minister of War, as Commander in Chief. Constantinople official despatches, however, do not indicate where the chief action is taking place or how the opposing forces compare. It is Turkey's last chance to retrieve an almost hopeless campaign. Maxium Pasha is fighting with his back to a wall, his communication being cut. It is impossible for him to get fresh supplies or reinforcements from Constantinople. Confidence is reviving and it is believed the War Minister has at last assumed the offensive, but this last is by no means certain. The battle may have been forced upon him. Sofia despatches report a continued forward movement of Bulgarians but with no details. There is still no confirmation of reported capture of Luleburgis, Demotica and Dramaud. The Bulgarians are still fighting in the direction of Vias, in pursuance of a plan to advance to an extreme direction to Constantinople. The Greeks also are marching with victories to their credit towards Saloniki, where a feeling of extreme anxiety is said to prevail. Provisions are running short. In fact no apparent effort has been made to stem the Greek advance to Saloniki. This is held to indicate that the Bulk of Turkey's army has been transferred to Thrace. No recent information has been received of operations around Scutari or other points to the West.
