BALFOUR OR ROBERTSON? The Toronto Mail-Empire: "R. A. Robertson, of Hamilton, ex-vice-president of the C. W. A., is in the field for the presidency of that association. The Toronto Mail and Empire is in a position to state Mail and Empire is in a position to state that fact with positiveness. Whether Mr-Robertson will be opposed for the office by Dr. Balfour, of London, is not definitely known, though it is expected. The latter is the present incumbent of the vice-president. dency. A report current in Toronto Mon-day that D. Palfour, in recognition of the rior claims of Mr. Robertson, would not oppose that gentlaman for the presidency was without foundation. Dr. Balfour wired the Mail that he had made no declaration to that effect. If he enters the race it will be an interesting onc. Dr. Balfour is popular locally, but is not so well-known to C. W. nbers at large as is R. A. Robertson. The latter's connection with the racing board, which he practically whipped into shape, and later with the membership committee, of which he has been an untiring chairman, have made him one of the best known if not the most efficient of C. W. A.

Speaking of Robertson's chances the Toronto World says: "In Toronto there are at least two strong clubs that will not cast hard to find votes, except in Quebec city. It is likely that some Sarnia district votes would fall to his lot, but if Gauld, of Hamilton, were the man, they would all go for Gauld. It is understood that London will make a bluff for the meet, and then quietly retire in favor of Peterboro, and thus arrange a little exchange of votes in favor of the genial Dr. Balfour. If no other victims appear, the doctor could safely count on many votes from Toronto and the east and in his own locality. However, the situation at present looks like a contest of some sort, and until some honest declarais put up, it is idle speculation.

BASEBALL. Cincinnati will have something new in the amateur baseball line next sea-son in the form of a colored amateur league.

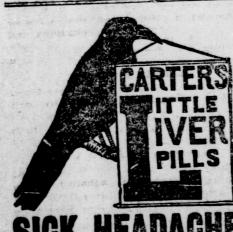

Now that St. Thomas cannot raise the wind to enter the Canadian Amateur Baseball League it is suggested that Stratford take her place, the League to comprise Guelph, London, Galt, Toronto and Strat-

THE WHEEL. QUEBEC WANTS THE MEET. Montreal, Feb. 12.—Quebec is trying hard to secure the Canadian Wheel's meet for 1896, and the club there is alling to offer big inducements. Two of the prominent members of Que-bec's sporting fraternity, Messrs. Car-rel and Van Felsen, have arrived here for the purpose of interviewing the members of the C. W. Toronto Mail-Empire: A report comes from Hamilton that Dr. Balfour is willing to retire in favor of "Bobby" Robertson, if the friends of the latter will agree to support his candidature for the president of the C. W. A. next year.

Baltimore, Feb. 12.-The most important report on Tuesday at the L. A. W. convention was that of Chairman Gideon, of the racing board. The report states that 900 suspensions were made last year, of which 16 were permanent. In 1894 there were 250 class B men; now there are 573. In the same year there were 90 professionals in the league; now there are 703. The professional racing, the report asserts, has been clean and honest since the league assumed control of it. The report recommends that the records in future be limited to 1-4, 1-3, 1-2, and 1 mile.

ATHLETICS. WIL FIGHT IN MEXICO. Nogales, Ariz., Feb. 12.—There is little doubt that the managers of the fight have decided to pull it off in that town on the Mexican side, in the State of Sonora. It would be impossible for Mexican troops to reach the place within a week, while the pugilists and their friends could make the trip in a night. Mexican troops would not be allowed to travel by the American railway.

MISCELLANEOUS. A Kingston dispatch says: Commodere H. S. Folger's new ice yacht, Now Then, is a radical departure from all lines hitherto adopted by local designers. It is an ice yacht in every sense of the word. The old familiar triangular principle is discarded, and a canoe-like body takes its place. dimensions of the new yacht are: Length over all, 28 feet; cross-beam, 16 feet; length of canoe, or cockpit,

14 feet; beam, 38 inches; depth, 6 inches. On to this is built a body resembling that of a shallow cance, 14 feet long, with beam of 36 inches, and a depth of 6 inches. At a distance of 2 feet, 6 inches from where the canoe finishes, a cross-beam stretches across. The cross-beam, instead of being built in the old style, with a com-ber, is a solid piece of wood, sawn out in semi-circular shape: At either end rocker skates are fitted. The remainder of the backbone extending beyond this to the extent of about 11 feet, answers the purpose of a bowsprit. ENGLISH LOVE OF SPORT. The tragic death in the hunting field a vote for him, and down east it would be heir of old Earl Fitzwilliam, constitutes an addition to the very long list of peers and scions of the British aristocracy whose lives have been sacrificed to the cause of sport. Indeed, it is doubtful whether the nobility of any other European country can show so many victims.

Among the most notable and those which are the first to be recalled by poor little Lord Milton's end is that of the third marquis of Waterford, who was killed in the hunting field, as was also the late Lord Suffield. Lord Kilworth lost his life while playing polo out in India.

Lord Edward St. Maur, son of the late Duke of Somerset, was hugged to death by a bear while shooting in the Himalayas. Lord Dormer's brother and heir, Gen. Sir James Dormer, met with his death in Southern India through being shockingly mauled by a wounded tiger, which he had imprudently followed on foot into the jungle. The late Lord Queensberry, his grandson, Lord Drumlanrig, and the Earl of Dalkeith, were all killed while out shooting, and stalking through either explosion or carelessness in handling their guns, while Lord Ancram was shot accidentally by his best in Augustian and Stalking their guns, while Lord Ancram was shot accidentally by his best in Augustian Stalking S shot accidentally by his host in Australia while out after kangaroos. Lord Francis Douglass lost his life by a fall from the Matterhorn, which he had been the first to ascend. One of the spiritual peers of the British Parliament, no less a personage than the Lord Bishop of Winchester, popularly known as "Soapy Sam," broke his neck while cantering over the downs with the late Lord Granville on a Sunday storming when he cought to have been morning when he ought to have been

That many more have not paid the penalty with their lives to their passionate fondness for sport is surpris-ing, in view of the fact that there is hardly an English family belonging to the aristocracy, the main country seat of which is not adorned with tiger other relies of big game shot by one or more of the members of the house-

Thus, the present Lord Wolverton, the Earl of Lonsdale, Lord Delamere, Lord Headly, and many more whose names might be mentioned, have narrowly escaped losing their lives when lion, tiger and bear hunting in divers climes, while those who have shot grizzlies in the Rockies may be numbered by the hundreds. Nor should the name of the Earl of Winchelsea be omitted, although he has confined himself to the united kingdom. His hobby is ornithology, and in his anxiety to secure rare specimens he has risked his life many a time at the end of a rope over the brinks of the lofty cliffs that line the west coast of Scotland. Passionately fond of pet animals, he used to walk about the park at his ancestral country seat of Haverholme accompanied by a tame lioness, but he has given up this dangerous association since the birth of his little children.

Of all the peculiar accidents that have ever happened in connection with sport, the most extraordinary is assuredly that which occurred the other day to the Earl of Harrington while hunting with the South Notts hounds. As he was in the act of taking a particularly difficult, force his horse, got ticularly difficult fence his horse got entangled in some barbed wire which had been stretched along it in such a had been stretched along it in such a manner as to be concealed. In struggling a considerable length of the wire got loosened, and horse and rider found themselves tightly bound together thereby, the barbs lacerating both. The horse fortunately became so weak from loss of blood that it was unable to struggle any longer. So tightly were horse and rider tied together that the wire had to be cut in gether that the wire had to be cut in and curin all directions before Lord Harrington could be freed, when he found himself etc., etc. Longley Nominated.

A sportsmanlike story of a fox hunt comes from Sittingbourne. The fox led the hounds a chase of over an hour, throwing them off the scent at last by taking refuge on top of a garden wall. He was driven off by a laborer, dashed into a cottage through the window, and hid in the fireplace of the back room; when the hounds followed he worked his way up the chimney to the roof; he was frightened back by shouts and the barking of dogs, but finding the hounds at the bottom of the chimney, made his way back to the roof, from which he was pushed off among the hounds waiting for him. The shooting of foxes is tabooed in England.

Attorney-General of Nova Scotia to Enter Parliament.

His Speech on Accepting the Unanimous Liberal Nomination for Annapolis,

Halifax, Feb. 12.—The Liberals of Annapolis met in convention yesterday at Bridgetown and unanimously nominated Attorney-General Longley as the party's candidate for the Dominion Parliament. Mr. Longley accepted in an electroney speech during which an eloquent speech, during which, among other things, he said if he consulted his own interests or his own inclination he should decline the honor, but this is a trying moment in Canada, and he glady accepted the nomiration, which he was confident would result in his triumphant election. The need of a change of Administration at Ottawa was emphasized. The party in power have dragged down the fair name of Canada until it has become a reproach in the eyes of the world; it has used public funds to maintain itself in power, and received moneys months before this advice was given, from contractors to debauch the manhood of the country. It has lost its leaders, and within the past year it has degenerated into a weak and helpless concern. A few weeks ago half the members of the Government re-Miss Jessie McRae, a daughter of Mr.

So hopeless and despised had the Government become that the country began to pro-nounce against it from all quarters, when suddenly Sir Charles Tupper appeared upon the scene, and has assumed the reins of government. Without wishing to be offensive, I can only say Sir Charles Tupper has exerted an evil influence in politics from the mo-men he appeared 40 years ago. His aim in life has been purely selfish, and his means have always been corrupt. His return to active public life is hailed with joy by boodling contractors and unscrupulous ward politicians; right-minded men regard his appearance with dismay. The best elements of both parties feel that his capacity for mischief is unlimited, and unless checked will drag down the country and cover it with dishonor. The only hope under these circumstances is an appeal to the honest manhood of the country. A FATHER'S STORY.

"The Darkest Hour Is Just Before the Dawn."

His Daughter's Life Was Despaired Of-Dectors and Hospital Treatment Failed to Help Her - Prejudice Was Cast Aside and HewLife Was Saved.

Mr. Wm. Stoughton is a well known many who have reason to bless the day that Dr. Williams' Pink Pilis were brought into his home, for they saved the life of his daughter. Mr. Stoughton says: "In 1893, mr daughter, then a ploture of health and strength, went to Ardock, North Dakota. In April of that year she caught a severe cold, which brought her to the verge of the grave. The cold was followed by headache, dizziness and palpitation of the heart, and she became so pale and emaciated that her doctor there said she was going into consumption, advised her to return home. She had been under the doctor's care for some home. She was so weak as to be almost helpless, and we decided that the best thing to be done was to send her to the Kingston Hospital, where she could have better treatment than was possible in our country home. She remained for two months in the hospital, gradually growing weaker instead of stronger, and as it seemed to us that there was no hope of recovery, we brought her home. At this time she was so weak as to be scarcely able to was so weak as to be scarcely able to walk across a room, and was confined almost constantly to her bed. She was pale and horribly emaciated, had constant pains in her back and limbs, had literally mo appetite, and was to all appearances gradually sinking. We had given up here for hed not the best of given up hope, for had not the best of physicians failed to help her? My wife and I, like a good many more, had read much of the cures wrought by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pins, and perhaps also like many more were somewhat skeptical. All else had failed, however, and we decided that perhaps Pink Pills were worth trying. Words cannot express how thankful we now are that we came to this decision. We got six boxes, and before they were all gone there was a decided improvement. Hope once more returned, and we procured another six boxes. She took them, and the story is now summed up in two words-was cured. She now feels neither pain nor ache, her color has returned; she is strong and healthy, and does not now look like one bearer in this county. Giadly would I who had ever seen a day's sickness.
