

The Charm of Perfect Health

Is one of the greatest gifts that Nature can bestow. It comes to those who obey her laws. Nature's food is grain—and fruit.

Is whole wheat impregnated with barley malt, delicately seasoned with salt, thoroughly cooked, daintily flaked, toasted to nut-brown crispness. It makes a delightful, appetizing, satisfying meal—morning, noon, night. Delicious, served with fresh, luscious fruit.

No work, no heat; just cream—then eat.

HER EARNEST TROTH

"I remember the lady," said Bethel, smiling, "she had the most outrageous waddle ever seen."

"Indeed, she had," said Dr. Pyne. "But she promises to lose it in her new exercise. Do you, believe me, I have been trying to persuade her to make the effort for years without success."

"Because you did not feel her pulse through her vanity," observed Bethel. "Hark there is the luncheon bell. How delicious have some friends around me to make life enjoyable. Run, Margery, pet, and remove your hat; I am sure the gentlemen are famished."

"Indeed, and so am I," said Margery. "I am positively ravenous for my lunch, so I'll send up my outer garments by Puck."

"That's a good girl," said Brinley. "Then we shall not be obliged to wait. Lady Lufton, follow me the happiness of assisting you to the dining-room."

"Little Beth, must come, too," said Bethel fondly. "She has made society for me of late."

The child followed with Margery, and Dr. Pyne, and Bethel heard her little silver ring tinkling as she went, and all that had transpired since they had left.

The luncheon passed off merrily, and Bethel felt the better for the pleasant society of her friends, and was relieved to have got over the meeting with Brinley, and to find by his manner that he intended to act a friendly part still.

She did not dare look beyond the present, she felt too weak and shaken; but life seemed more enjoyable for the presence of these friends, and she felt as though she was dancing blindfold on the brink of a precipice. She was very unhappy, for she was only a woman, and a very bad one at that, she might have been good had her life been ordered differently; but, as it was, there was a great void in her existence, a great loneliness in her heart, and she felt as though she was dancing blindfold on the brink of a precipice.

Weeks sped by, pleasant to all but Dr. Pyne and Margery; then little madame came full of happy news, and she was much concerned to find her dear doctor renewing his scars at the old delusive flame, and told him so in her quaint, pert way, which somewhat disarmed him.

Such a moonlight night. All heaven seemed by some fond freak of Nature to have let down its lesser lights upon the earth. A radiant glow shone in the blue satin sheen of her dress, Bethel stood in the budding wilderness of foliage without the garden; by her side, a man, a young man, somewhat fat, whom she was to marry, Bethel?

"Nay, dear old friend, did I not answer that question to you years ago? And do you know me, so little as to imagine that I could alter?"

"But I love you," and the man clinched his sinewy hands together as he spoke, and a nervous wintery smile played about his lips.

"Good old friend, I know you, and the knowledge has sent into my life a certain pride and sense of trying to deserve such honor as a good man's love; yet I cannot, in truth to you and myself, confess that this knowledge has softened my feeling toward you. I esteem you, like you, honor you, but I cannot, for the exile, the man who for part of my early life was in God's sight my husband, I am, and always have been, always wicked—wicked past your imagination of sinfulness, yet I hold I cannot be wholly bad to keep your heart true to me. Now, dear old friend, let me be considered as a finale to your foolish dream, only, believe me, your friendship shall hold first place in this heart of mine, and elevate it."

Bethel lifted her dark eyes to his white face and felt a certain painful satisfaction at his sorrow. Then a womanly compassion for suffering forced her to creep nearer to his side and take his unresponsive hand in hers, saying in that marvelously winning way of hers:

"I have I so grievously offended, that my dear old friend cannot give me one word of pardon?"

She pressed her soft cheek against that cold hand, and a tear, positively a tear, lay like a frozen gem upon his thrilling flesh.

"Don't, Bethel, remember that I am but mortal, and if you thus arrest me I must snatch you to my heart."

"I'm sure you may," said Bethel, brightly. "Oh, anything to show that I am forgiven."

"So it can never be," she said, again nestling into that softness which, in her hard nature, seemed such a sweet concession. "I am sorry that with a sudden excitement he snatched her to him, saying:

"Good-bye, my darling, good-bye."

And she snatched him, that his sorrow was beyond her healing. That

A SINGLE FAVORITE WON AT THE WOODBINE MEET

Picktime Was the Lucky Horse Yesterday—Scholes Entered at Menley.

By Way of Comment.

Some talk has been heard of St. Thomas entering a protest in last Saturday's lacrosse game. They played the game and undoubtedly would have liked to win under the conditions that existed. When they lost they immediately claimed that London had not sent affidavits for five players to the executive at Toronto. Secretary Quinn, of the local team, says that the railroad City team were quite agreeable to go on with the game on Saturday. St. Thomas has no cause for protesting.

THE TURF.

WOODBINE TRACK.

Toronto, June 2.—The weather was fine and the track fast at Woodbine today, but only one favorite, Picktime, reached home first. A Seagram cast-off, Procession, landed the sixth race, beating Seagram's own entry. Antimosity was favorite. Gold Cure was favorite in the opening event, at 11 to 5, but got off handsily, and was come in at the finish. John Ruskin fell in the steeplechase and his rider was badly hurt. Arius and King Top also tried their riders, both of them finished in their race out of six starters. Wool Gatherer bringing up the rear nearly a quarter of a mile behind. In the last event, the first four finished neck and neck only. Results:

First race, Dufferin purse, $400, for 2-year-olds and upward, selling, 6 furlongs—Barnard, 108 (McCluskey), 4 to 1; 2, Pathfinder, 106 (T. Walsh), 20 to 1; 3, Time, 1:07 1/2.

Second race, $400, for 2-year-olds and up, 5 furlongs—St. Juvenile, 109 (T. Walsh), 4 to 1; 2, Blue Darter, 107 (D. Murray), 20 to 1; 3, Time, 1:02 1/2.

Fourth race, Scarborough steeplechase, handicap, $500, for 4-year-olds and up, about 2 miles—Daryl, 146 (Pemberton), 4 to 1; 2, W. J. Galt, 145 (Galt), 10 to 1; 3, Gallaher, 142 (Galt), 10 to 1; 4, Zolo, 136 (Swallow), 3, Time, 4:36.

Fifth race, Volting Farm handicap, $500, for 2-year-olds and up, 1-1/2 miles—Wheeler, 89 (J. Walsh), 5 to 1; 2, 1, won by 2 lengths; Decora, 87 (G. G. G.), 10 to 1; 3, Bank Street, 106 (Munro), 5 to 2; 3, Time, 1:59 1/2.

Sixth race, Glasgow plate, $400, for 2-year-olds and up, selling, 7 furlongs—Procession, 115 (Castro), 8 to 1; won by a length; Cherubim, 93 (J. Duly), 10 to 1; 2, Far Rockaway, 111 (Sims), 15 to 1; 3, Time, 1:35.

AT HAWTHORNE.

Chicago, June 2.—Talpa, at 12 to 1, won the mile handicap for 3-year-olds and upward at Hawthorne today, with The Forum, 9 to 1, second, and Mat Luchan, 10 to 1, third. The time was 1:43-2-5. Talpa was next to the longest shot in the race, and won by 2 1/2 lengths. Neither McChesney nor Luticin Apply appeared in the race, and after much debate it was unanimously decided to place the ban on those players who have left this country for the purpose of playing hockey in the C. A. A. U. to keep these people out until they can clear themselves of charges of professionalism. Thus an entire year is given to clear up the mist now hanging over the Canadian sporting world. There may be something even more startling than this in other lines of sport in a very near future if the C. A. A. U. is given scope. The C. A. A. U. claims to have direct evidence against the men it proposes to professionalize. Aying, when spoken to about this matter, said: "If the players referred to return to Canada they will find, possibly to their sorrow, that the C. A. A. U. has not been asleep. It has taken some little time to get exactly what we were after, and now it is at hand, hence our action in this respect."

"The union is not anxious to penalize the boys, in order to keep them out of sports," added Mr. Aying, "but while they are in the country they are to the rules of amateurism, it is our duty to act."

"Now, Mr. Aying, you have heard rumors regarding players receiving money for playing lacrosse. What is your opinion as president of the C. A. A. U. concerning these reports?"

"I can only say that if any person interested in amateur lacrosse will lodge a complaint before the C. A. A. U., accusing athletes of receiving money for playing the game, we can assure you we will act immediately."

WINNERS AT ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Mo., June 2.—The races at the fair grounds today were only ordinary. The track towards the outer rail was fairly good, but from the center to the inner rail it was a veritable quagmire. In the third race imboden beat J. W. O'Neill, the odd-man factor. He, very unexpectedly, led in the leading by eight lengths into the stretch, but he showed poor judgment in clinging to the inner rail, where the track was sticky, and he fell in on across the track to the outer rail and won by half a length.

LATONIA RESULTS.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 2.—The Latonia Oaks was decided today over a heavy track, and resulted in a heavy victory for John F. Schorr's filly Aster. She was favorite in the betting at 3 to 5, and was the only horse played in the race by the best bettors. After the first half the race was a gallop for her. Jockey Hyams was thrown at the post in the third race, and received a fracture of the shoulder. He was on Senor, who was left at the post.

like a judge who can think his decisions over three or four days or more. If he wants to. He's got to speak right on the second.

"Generally speaking, it's all in the way things are breaking for you whether you have what we call a successful series or not. An umpire may run up against a lot of close decisions in which the home team is, to his mind, just a shade behind all the time. He is conscientious about it, of course, but much pleasanter to have the plays clean-cut and so plain that anybody can see that the decisions must be right."

ROCHESTER PLAYERS SUSPENDED.—Rochester, June 2.—Louis Castro and Jack McAleese, of the local baseball team, were suspended for the balance of the season by Manager Irwin before the team left for the eastern trip last night. Both McAleese and Castro refused to accompany the team to Jersey City. Just what the difficulty is it would be hard to state. Manager Irwin had an occasion to reprimand both players during the game yesterday, and it is thought that they made up their minds to quit the team. The suspension is a heavy fine will be placed on both men. The absence of Castro will further cripple the Rochester team, but it is expected that Alf Johnston will move within a few days and will take the second cushion. The loss of McAleese will not be felt so much, as Frank Leary, the Pennsylvania pitcher, will join Irwin today, and will pitch the first game against Jersey City. Manager Irwin has also secured the services of Jack Shearon, the outfielder, who will join Irwin today, and his release was purchased from Manager Robinson, and he will play center field for the Bronchos while Harry Blake is laid up.

Harris, manager for Terry McGovern, has announced that the doctors in attendance on McGovern, after an examination, had decided that the pugilist would certainly break down by the continued training for the battle with Abe Attel at Fort Erie on June 15. For this reason the match has been declared off, and the $1,000 posted with the International A. C. of Fort Erie will be forfeited. McGovern is suffering from a severe attack of malaria. The doctors have advised him to go to the mountains and rest for two months, by which time he will be recovered.

TO PLAY ANOTHER GAME.—Lucan, Ont., June 2.—The Irish Nine will play the Varsity baseball Club of London at Lucan on June 9.

ROAST THE UMPIRE.—"Why is it the crowd always laughs when the umpire gets a clip with the ball?" The question was asked of belligerent little "SIK" O'Loughlin, a knigpin of all the knights of the indicator. His reply was just as prompt.

"Because they all think he's the villain in the big play and is getting his share of the blame for the hits and every time the crowd laughs. It used to make me sore, but now I'm used to it. They haven't anything against me personally, but it's the umpire, the common enemy of all mankind, they're after.
