The market today closed steady with the week's quotations, all the better qualities finding a ready sale, though the poorer qualities were harder to dispose of.
There was, however, practically no change in prices, the quotations on the whole remaining firm with those of the preceding days. The call for stockers and feeders was fair, there being a good sale for the choicest quality. This market, however, has not shown the persistent activity this week which characterized it during the past two weeks. Sheep and lambs closed firm, with an increase of 10e per cwt, for spring layabs. Hogs failed to regain any

DY THE WANT AD MAN [Copyright, 1913, The International Syndicate, Baltimore.]

No. 20

ES-I know. You've heard a lot about this thing called Advertising. You've heard about the wonders it has worked for others. You are wondering what it can do for you.

Well, it can and will do for your business just what it has done for the other fellow's business.

It isn't a force myster: ... It isn't any "Open Sesame" affair. It is founded and grounded on just "hoss-sense."

Advertising is telling the people—the great buying public-where you are and what you have for sale. It is keeping on telling them-and still

You'd like to try it in a small way. Yet you hesitate about "taking the plunge."

The best way to do a thing is to begin it. The best way to begin it is to begin it right.

Perhaps the Classifled, or Want Ad. columns are just the place for you to make a beginning. Many present-day newspaper display advertisers started with the judicious and persistent use of the Classified.

Good advertising is a force for appullding that no business, large or small, can afford to ignore.

Think it over.
