ZEPHYRS OF HUMOR FOR A WINTER SEASON

DASHING

TEACHER: "How would you pune tuate 'The wind blew the fivedollar bill round the corner'?" Tommy Smart: "I would make a dash after the five-dollar bill.

QUITE A DIFFERENT MATTER

"Why do you object to vaccination?" the applicant for an exemption certi-

"It's a matter of conscience, sir," was the reply. At that moment the clerk whispered to the great man on the Bench. said his worship. "I am in formed that you have a brother in the police force. Now, does he object to having his children vaccinated?" "No. sir."

against your brother's conscience, why should it be against yours?" "Well, you see, sir, it doesn't ex- Strike for home and country!" actly follow. Bill, as you're talking, conscience.' He got his certificate.

UNDERSTOOD ALL RIGHT.

CHINAMAN was once brought before the magistrate of a Canadian ity and fined a dollar for an infraction of the by-laws. The magistrate found it a bit difficult to explain the ounishment to the "Chinkie," who, aparently ignorant of English, stubbornrefused to understand.

"Now, look here, John," the magis rate explained impatiently, "It's a dollar, see? You pay money no-go to prison. Savvy?"

"No savvy," retorted the Chinaman for the tenth time. "Let me get at him," cried the coroulent constable, fresh from Erin, who nad made the arrest. "I'll tache the haythin to miscomprehend yer honor.

umped over the dock rail, seized the Chinee, and yelled in his ear, "You wid the face off the tea-caddie, d'ye hear? Ye're fined two dollars." "Heap big lie," replied the Chinaman blandly. "It's only one."

Permission being given, Michael

STRIKING FOR HOME

"Yes, sir, I've been a soldier, and once came mighty near being mixed up asked the busy magistrate, sharply, of in a battle, and if it hadn't been for obeying the orders of our old colonel who was a regular brick, I might be sleeping with my martial cloak round me now," mused the old warrior.

"Why, how was that?" asked

"Well, the enemy were in sight, and we were getting ready to go for 'em. I wasn't feeling the least bit comfort-"Very well; if vaccination is not able, when all of a sudden up jumps the old colonel, on a stump, and shouts. "'Now then, boys, up and at 'em

"Some of them-a good many, in about, has got neither children nor fact-struck for their country, but struck for home, and precious glad am I did it!"

ANSWERED

THOUGHT HE WAS DEAD

WAITER: Are you ringing that bell for me, sir? Irate Customer: No, I'm tolling it, I thought you were dead.

TOOK HIM DOWN

THE son cî a laborer had become, as he rather too insistently affirmed, 'a gentleman." One day, having arranged a dinner-party after his own heart, he wrote to ask his brother, also risen in life, to visit him for the occasion. Now, the brother was in no sense a snob, but a quiet, gentle-minded scholar, who occasionally, as scholars will, absentmindedly neglected the outward adorning of his person. Therefore, the one who called himself the gentleman thought it neces g his brother to bring his very best dress-clothes, and this request he several times reiterated, say ing that his guests were to be most particularly "swell." The scholar's life was rendered blessed by a delicate strain of dry humor. He answered the invitation as follows: "My Dear Brother: -As you have laid so very much more stress on the appearance of my clothes than on myself, I fancy I shall best meet your wishes by sending you my best dresssuit for the occasion. You will, therefore, receive it per parcel post, carriage paid, in plenty of time to be presented to your friends at the din-

A TROPICAL YARN

"Buns give me the creeps," said the

"Well, once we were bound for thina, with self-raising flour and currants. We struck on a rock, and, hav- as a murmur of unbelief arose. "He ing no boats, it looked all up. But the thing cum to him, and from that day flour started workin', an' it frothed up through the hatchways and sizzled over the side in big lumps, which got baked hard by the sun and bobbed about like tremendous buns. I got exclaimed another. "What determina-aboard a big one, although the water tion," cried a third. And then the grew less, until I was cramped. Then beer an' a pork-pie, now-But the vicar fled.

THE ANNOTATED NOTE BOOK

The woman was the author of okery book that had been published at her request with wide margins and occasional blank pages for notes and additional recipes. Often she had expressed a wish to see an old copy of the book and find out to what use the blank spaces had been put. One day in second-hand book store her husband stables to tell yer." unearthed an old volume. Noticing that it had been annotated freely, he ought it. After a day or two he said: "How about the notes in that cookry book? Were they interesting?" "No," she said curtly; "they didn't mount to anything." When he got a chance he looked hrough the book himself. Every note he book contained was a remedy for dyspepsia and stomach trouble.

NEVER SMOKED AGAIN

said Johnson, "is the power of selfdenial. Now, take smoking," he continued, lazily filling his pipe, and gazing round at the rest of the party never so much as switched its tail. grouped in front of the fire. "It's a lit's a good thing for Aleck that he useless habit, and yet not one of you men could give it up. You haven't got the strength of mind."

At this there arose a storm of dis-One man had left it off once for sent. a whole twelvemonth, and only do the same again if the bet was big enough; and so on, until a Yankee, who was present, broke in.

"I knew a feller down in Nebraskey," he remarked, "who smoked tew ounces of tobaccer every day for twenty-seven years, and then guv it up at a minit's notice, and never tetched it agin."

"Fact, I du assure ye," he resumed, to this he's never smoked another.' "Marvelous instance of will-power," said one.

"Extrordinary strength of mind," swarmed with sharks. They started Yankee spoke again, gazing mediteating the edges of the bun. Daily it atively into the fire the while. grew less, until I was cramped. Then "Yes, it were strange," he said.

I got washed ashore with only two

With left Now I never see hung with bites left. Now I never see buns without a shiver. If you offered me a pint barrel of blasting powder at the time. an' the head of his match dropped through the bunghole!"

BOY rushed into the house and said to the lady: "I don't want to alarm yer, but I've got big news. The man sent me up from the livery

BREAKING IT GENTLY

"Good Heavens! what is it?" "Why, you know your little boy, Aleck, what the man can't keep out of the livery stable round you corner?" "Yes; well?" "I told Aleck just now not to go inter the stable among the horses, but "He said he wanted ter see what a horse did when yer tickled its heels

"Oh, Heavens!" gasped the lady and clung to the mantel for sup-

Well, Aleck got a straw, went up behin' a horse, tickled him on the heels, an" -the lady started for the door-"an' he niver lifted a hoof; never so much as switched its tail. didn't, too, but I thought I'd come up an' let yer know.'

SURPRISED THE SPEAKER

Thin, angular, and spinsterish, Miss other had gone without tobacco for Miggs strode through the streets of two years, and would back himself to the little village rounding up the housewives to come to to-night's meeting of the "Hopeful Society" on "How Husbands Should Be Fed."

onto the platform, and began her oraproceedings. Putting on her best imitation of a smile, she advanced to the front of the platform. "So many of you women," she start-your husbands. Now," she simpered, his Ministers in Spain. if I had a husband and he came home er-late, I should not rave at him, but simply go and kiss him." "And serve the brute right!" yelled a retreating form at the back of the

WHEN SILENCE REIGNED

The scene was the pretty little re-sort of Puddle-on-Sea. The hero of sort of Puddle-on-Sea. The hero of the occasion was a sleek, well-fed gentleman, who had motored over from the nearest town to deliver his lecture, "The Art of Getting On." He had gathered his victims round him in the village schoolroom, and was getting on splendidly. Suddenly there came a wonderful outburst.

"The successful man," he said, "is the man who strives. His motto is Push, and keep pushing, for by that alone will he reach his goal." The applause was not precisely leafening, but there was a bit of a row at the rear of the hall, in which a litman was the central figure. "You, too, my friend," said the lecturer, rather angrily, "you'll have to push as well if you want to get on in the world."

For a moment there was complete silence. Everyone looked towards the little man, who bobbed up like the bull's eye of a target. Then out of the silence came the little man's big voice. "So'll you, guv'nor, I reckon," he remarked, cheerily. "Half a dozen youngsters have bagged the petrol from your motor car to light a bonfire, and you'll have to push, push,

SUITED AT LAST

A commercial traveler had taken a large order in the North for a consignment of hardware, and endeavored proclaimed the fact that, however exto press upon the canny Scottish man- perienced they might be on the stage, ager who had given the order a box on the green they were novices. Sevager who had given the order a box eral fair-sized bits of turf had been of Havana cigars. "Naw," he replied; dislodged, and then when one unusu-"don't try to bribe a man. I cudna' tak them-and I am a member of the soil one of the two accompanying cadkirk! "But you will accept them as a present?"

"I cuda," said the Scot. "Well, then," said the traveler, "suppose I sell you the cigars for a merely ominal sun-say, six-pence "Weel, in that case," replied the Scot since you press me, and not liking tae refuse an offer weel meant, I think would have thought they were scene-I'll be takin' two boxes."

FOND OF CHILDREN

A NGRY CUSTOMER: "See here, sir! That dog you sold me yesterday bitten a piece out of my little Dog Fancier: "Well, sir, didn't I say he was specially fond of children?"

IN THE PROFESSION, ANY. WAY

The two famous actors were having a round on the links, and every stroke ally large slice parted from its native dies turned to the other and whispered, in the stage manner:

"Did ye tell me they were actors,

Jock?" "Aye, Wull," admitted the other, with a faint air of apology.

"Well," responded Wull, "if it wasna that yer usually a truthful chap I shifters.

A SCIENTIST

o'clock, when Miss Miggs, with her WILLIE (who got a microscope for Christmas): "Say, cook, lend me a flea, will you?"

WHEN I was in the produce busi-KING ALFONSO told a shooting-party at Rambouillet an amusing "So many of you women," she start party at hambounded an amusing ness years ago, said an old med ed, "are not sympathetic enough with story of a trick he played on one of chant, "I had, among my country shippers, a German by the name of Jacob "This Minister," said the King, "was Snyder. He did not often come to the a simply appalling shot, but he would city, but when he did it was a great have felt injured if he had been left ocasion with him and he expected out of the shooting-parties which are some attention. So one morning, given from time to time for the mem- when he turned up in my shop about bers of the Cabinet. One day he was ten o'clock, I said to him: posted outside a wood when he saw moving slowly through the grass about early start to get here so soon. How fifteen yards away a little rabbit. He would you like to have a bit of lunch fired at it with both barrels and miss-right away? Do you like oysters? ed-as usual-but to his surprise the rabbit still remained in sight, appar- oysters.' ently nibbling.

"Once more the Minister fired. He fired in all thirty-six cartridges and stews. at last brought the obstinate rabbit down. Delighted with his success, the Minister himself ran forward to secure the spoils. His chagrin can be tied round its neck a card, with the shell. words 'Long life to Senor ---,' and then the Minister's name.

a piece of string. It was a stuffed pulled about by means of the string. stew.' It was a whole year before my Minupon him," concluded the King.

SHOT JUST IN TIME

There is a delicious flavor about this stewed?" story of a Bayswater lady, married to a man who though uniformly unsuccessful in his shooting adventures, boastingly spoke of his "killings." One day, returning from the country, with the usual accompaniment of an empty bag, it occurred to him that his wife would make fun of him if he reoft-boasted skill. So he purchased a brace of partridges to deceive his trusttable in front of her, he observed: Well, my dear, you see I am not so awkward with the gun after all." "Dick," replied the wife, turning

"'Vy,' he said, 'I coult eat a few "So we went round to a neighboring oyster bar and I ordered two

"'Jacob, you must have made an ness years ago," said an old mer-

"'Now, Jacob,' said I, 'while we are waiting, what do you say to some raw?" "'Vell,' he replied, 'I don't mind.'

"So we had half-a-dozen raw apiece, imagined when this rabbit of four and as the stews had not yet come we times nine lives was found to have had another half-a-doen on the half "When the stews were dispatched, I asked, as a matter of form, if he would "Fastened to one of the paws was not have another, and he said:

piece of string. It was a stuffed "'Veil, them's pretty good oysters, rabbit, which one of the beaters had and I don't mind if I do haf another

"I nibbled biscuits while he ate stew ister forgave me for the trick played number two, and when he had finished I said to him: "'They pan oysters very well here.

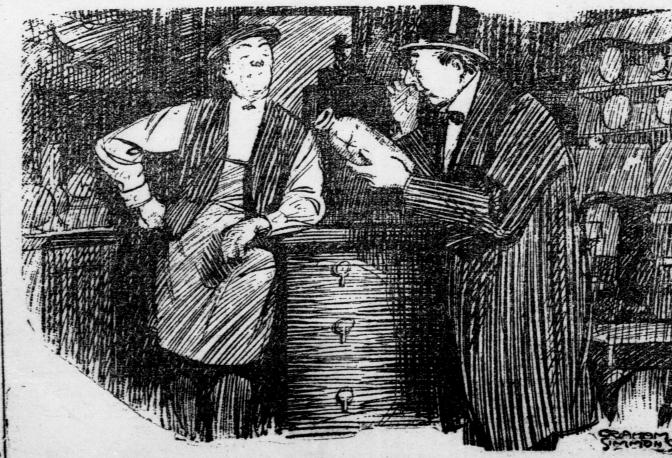

Do you like panned oysters as well as

"'Vy, I like oysters any vay. don't mind if I haf a pan.' "I ordered one for him, and that disposed of I suggested a few fried. "Vell,' he observed, 'I haf eat fried, and fried is goot. I don't mind.' "By the time he had finished that order-and I made it a dozen-it was turned without even one proof of his high noon, and I did not feel that I could afford to test Jacob's capacity further. So, paying the bill, I piloted ing spouse. As he threw them on the him out, and as we walked along I said to him: "'Jacob, you're right fond of oysters, aren't you?" "'Villiam,' he replied, with more from the birds with a grimace, after animation than he had yet shown, 'I'm a brief examination, "you were quite very fond of oysters. Vy, do right in shooting these birds to-day; know, I sometimes belief I coult make to-morrow it would have been too late." a meal of 'em!"

are only memories of middle-aged OLD GENT: "And you're sure it's really old? I'm buying it for a birthday present couples. The present generation only Dealer in Antiques; "Old! Why you'd see it was cracked if you only looked."

THE late Edmund Garrett, a brilliant THE occupants of the railway carriage were listening with joyful journalist and one-time assistant editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, was interest to the tales of the young man a man whom other men loved. But in the corner. He had been all over the along with his virtues he had an ex- world several times, apparently, and tensive list of peculiarities, some of his adventures had been marvelous. "Coolness and courage are the which are humorously exploited by things," he was saying. "Take this his biographer. Garrett had no idea of time, and case. We were in Central Africa, tra-

HOW did I engage you, young man-by the hour, mile, or a-

Street Urchin: "By weight, I reckon, missus."

MUDDLED IT AGAIN

out in good time to get to dinner.

my amazement the latch-key put into the lock. The door opened and in came Edmund, with a face ashy pale.

4t again! It was last Wednesday."

"Hang it, old man, I have muddled

"RING OUT WILD BELLS."

dedicated to any of our young

THE following is enthusiastically friends who are lucky enough to have a "new arrival" at their homes:

Ring out, wild bells, and tame one

Ring out the lover's moon! Ring in the little worsted socks!

Ring in the bib and spoon!

the floor and said:

he used to get into some trouble at veling among cannibal tribes. the office of the Pall Mall for that evening, when we camped, I had strolled off while my men prepared supper when suddenly above a rock in front "This must stop," he said to me, of me I saw the heads of three na-"and matters must be mended." A day or two afterwards an invita- tives who were watching me. What tion came from the proprietor to din- was I to do? My gun was at the ner. Edmund said that at any rate camp. To turn back meant having there must be no doubt about this en- spears through me. In a moment I tertainment and his punctual attend-decided. Close by were some stones. ance thereat, and a good deal of fuss Pretending I didn't see the niggers, was made about getting ready for it. I bent down as if to examine the Shirts were looked out, white ties stones; then, quick as lightning, I and dress-clothes were overhauled, and picked up three of them and flung all the resources of our establishment them with all my force at their heads. brought into requisition, so that the Every one found its mark, and the appearance of the guest should do just three natives dropped like sheep. tice to the host. Dinner was at eight always take a good aim, and it served and long before that time Edmund was me well then." arrayed in spotless raiment, starting Then the red-faced man opposite who had been listening carefully, chim-I stayed reading in the flat. After ed in: "An' wot did yer 'ave, guv'nor, a about half an hour I heard somebody coming up the stairs, and I heard to cigar or a coccanut?" CEMETERY PROSPECTING.

THERE is said to be enough gold in He took off his hat and threw it on the teeth of the living and dead ple of this country to fill the largest freight ship afloat. Prospectors ten thousand years hence will find rich pickings in what constitute our cemeteries of to-day.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

THE good old days when a man drove a horse with one arm and supported imagines it is enjoying itself.

he wouldn't mind me. "Oh, dear, what has happened?"

with a straw."

select c, mmittee of old maids, pranced tion. Not much inspiration was to be gained from the audience. A little numan touch is what is needed, thought Miss Miggs to herself, to enliven the

DIDN'T LOOK HARD ENOUGH