Published by ADVERTISER COMPANY, LIMITED,
London, Ontario,

TELEPHONE NUMBERS NVATE BRANCH EXCHANGE 3670 to 8:30 a.m., and holidays, call 76, Business, Editors and Reporters; 1174, Composing

VERTISING BRANCH OFFICES. W. Thompson, 100 King street west,

ED STATES REPRESENTATIVES Charles H. Eddy Company. Fifth Avenue Building. ople's Gas Building. outh Building. SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

City-Delivered. week; $3.90 for six months; 65 cents per ide City-$5 per year, $2.75 for six months month for short-term subscriptions.

Month for short-term subscriptions.

Month for short-term subscriptions.

Month for short-term subscriptions.

iptions, $13.80 per year.

BSCRIBERS, PLEASE NOTE. is are payable in advance and at full price your remittance by using postal note, money red letter. Subscriptions are started only sue. Three days notice required to make ress. Be sure to give both old and new rew promptly and sign your name plainly, mittances are not acknowledged unless that of remittance is shown by your label stide of six days.

ADVERTISERS, NOTE. ndited by A. B. C. hed advertisers on request.

don, Ont., Monday, July 11.

THE IRISH TRUCE.

nnced that a truce has been declared forces of the Crown and those of the ganization in Ireland, and that this will effect at noon today, although it is rewithdrawal of patrols and the cancelmilitary and police measures at the cated at that time the cessation of hos-ected advent at the Dublin conference Macready, commander of the British and, was a dramatic incident which had onsiderable bearing on the hopeful dehat have since taken place. But the was received by Earl Midleton, one of leaders at the conference with Mr. m Mr. Lloyd George, is probably a more in the changed aspect of the situation. munication the British prime minister what he has from time to time maint would be impossible to conduct neany hope of achieving satisfactory reas bloodshed and violence prevailed in oon as we hear Mr. de Valera is preinto conference with the British Govthe message, "and to give instructions er his control to cease from all acts shall give instructions to the troops suspend operations against those who this unfortunate conflict."

these conditions were agreed to, and the agreement took more or less the ce between two opposing military forces the presence of Gen. Macready at the The acceptance by de Valera of the yd George's letter is looked upon as to his acquiescence in the conference vernment in London, at which Sir James remier of Ulster, will also be present.

le situation now appears to be more hopehas been for many a day, and the powerce and sound commonsense of Gen. Smuts t in the great advance towards a peaceful of the question which has been accom-It is now sincerely to be hoped that no jarwill arise to upset the progress which n made towards arriving at an amicable in the matter of the self-government of n harmony with the hope expressed by the state opening of the Ulster Parliaouth of Ireland Parliament would assume the good of Ireland as a whole in conjunch the North of Ireland Parliament, the spirit and co-operation would develop and the would gradually attain that tranquility and ity to which it is entitled. The idea of a House at the Irish capital has also its merits, ould be able to deal with questions affecting try as a whole, and thus become an important h knitting together the North and the South

VALUE OF REFORESTATION.

"Heart of Midlothian," the Laird of Dumee: it will be growin' while you are sleepin'," things. to that effect. Unfortunately the idea of treehas not yet taken a very firm hold in Canada. that much wanton work is done in this way. as the fact that the early pioneers of the were faced with the necessity of clearing anything obstructing the passage of the plow tion at Ottawa. transmitted to those of the present gener-

o the flames, and at a later period load into a plowshare. what would now be classed as very valuer was hauled to the nearest market town of acres were consumed through careless about as intelligible as BILSTUMPSHISMARK.

arding them from the danger of fire. e it has been discovered that Canada's policy land" were sacrificed to no purpose, owing become quite popular. being found to be unsuitable for agriculture, h labor had been expended on it in the buntry.

and Sweden are countries where the comof timber areas has been thoroughly to sub down, three-ere-planted, and in charged for extra, rees was fully demonstrated in Scotland during the late war, when thousands of acres of magnificent THE NEED FOR RETRENCHMENT. Scots pines were available for the construction of railway ties and other military works in France and Belgium. Appropriately enough, the most of these trees were cut down and sawn up by Canadians. Whole areas of standing timber were of necessity commandeered by the Government, and the proprietors were paid good sums for the product. In one instance an area in the Highlands had been denuded of its trees to furnish material during the Napoleonic wars, only a tree being left here and there for self-seeding purposes. The result was that this forest, the Forest of Glenmore, sprang up again more vigorous than ever, and was again cut down for the Great War, almost exactly a hundred years after its first demolition, the proprietor receiving for the timber about $180,000.

There is no reason why Canadian farmers should not put all their uncultivatable land into timber, and why they should not conserve their bush areas and turn them to the best advantage by removing dead and fallen trees, and otherwise putting to practical use what knowledge of forestry they have acquired. The Government is beginning to wake up in this direction, but much remains to be done before a real start can be made. One difficulty seems to be to arouse the farmers to the potential value of their bush acre age and to a live interest in the importance of forestry

A WELTER OF PARTIES.

Parties are in a vaporous state in Great Britain. It would take a clairvoyant to tell how things will shape up before the next election. Britons used to laugh at French politics, the multiplicity of parties and the rise and fall of ministries like mushrooms, but French however numerous, are at least defined. British parties at present are kaleidoscopic.

For example, the co-operative movement seems struggling to form itself into a political force. There was recently a co-operative congress, in which three factions contended whether a separate co-operative party should be formed, or complete fusion should be made with Labor, or merely an alliance with official Labor. No decision was reached, but the third plan came nearest to winning a majority, and as a number of co-operative societies have already been affiliating locally with Labor, it may be expected that the movement will in general be a support to the Labor party in the near future. In one election last year the so-called Labor candidate was really a co- in part: operative indorsed by Labor. It seems probable that the Labor party would be greatly benefitted in general character by a fusion with Co-operation, as the former is a producers' party, the latter a consumers' organization. Still, the way things now are, there may easily develop two parties, one of producers, and the other of consumers, not altogether in accord with each other. Labor itself is much divided into various

Among the Liberals no unity is perceived. Some are for Asquith, some with Lloyd George, and others again are hardly distinguishable from Laborites. As for the Conservatives, one wing is Free Trade, another Protectionist, and a growing strength is manifested by the so-called Anti-Waste party, ultra-Tories of peculiarly hard shell, determined to destroy whole tendency of Government subventions the education, agriculture, mining and to humanitarian objects. They may even attack the oldage pension system before they are through, or any of the various subsidies which have as their basis the taxation of those who have for the benefit of those who have not. It is clear that this ultra-Tory element has lately exercised great influence upon or within the Lloyd George Government, for the withdrawal of subsidies to agriculture and in the of the democratic education bill. Another small branch of Conservatism might be called the Idealists, including men like the Cecils, some of them a sort of "Tory democrats." The British woods are full of a variety of political animals. There are even Republicans like Wells, teasing the Royal Family.

Perhaps the upshot of division and change may be that a clever manipulator like Lloyd George will be able to steer along for some time to come on top ns in accordance with its constitution, and of the welter. In some unfathomable way Bismarck used to manage the legion of German parties and

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Old Sol will lose his reputation for geniality if it can be proved that sunburns are proving fatal.

We have received the latest number of the "Estangwill Gazette" which masquerades under the name of "National Liberal and Conservative Bulletin."

cars like express trains, and that when mayors put writer, no statesman however richly he express the thankfulness I felt. Cookie vises that "if you're daein' naething else, on a Little speed the cop comes along and says erse is more generally the case. The idea the young that policemen are the real friends of little before matters of mind and intellect g down trees has got such a firm hold of the boys and girls, there may be no further use for Sun-

The conferring of the honorary degree of Doctor orest before they were able to cultivate the land of Laws on Premier Meighen is probably in recogniemething to do with this, and the instinct to cut tion of his skill in doctoring the present administra-

The American steamer Eastern Sword has gone those early days of the settlement of Canada ashore off Belfast. No one has perished by this areas of standing timber were given to the Sword, and it is hoped that the waves may beat it

The following headline appeared in an American for fuel. The indiscriminate destruction of contemporary: ACTORHITCHCOCKBANKRUPT. Withas became a sort of a craze, and many out the explanatory paragraph which followed, this is

A German named Hanschk has invented a new of it—in this direction has been anything but helicopter, the latest form of aeroplane, with which it is now realized that many thousands he says he can fly from Europe to New York in one comfortable" on Sunday. of timber which were cut down in order to day. Week-end trips across the Atlantic may soon

The Six Nations Indians claim that they are allies ican newspapers have recognized in Secto grow field crops. These cut-over areas, of the British Crown and not Canadian subjects. Of nd to be unsuitable for cropping, should be course, one can be an ally of the British Crown and so that the land would not remain idle, not be a Canadian subject, but one can't very well to have been recorded in favor of the me they would again become a valuable asset be a Canadian subject and not be an ally of the

The simple life in Victoria Park during hot spells of timber areas has been thoroughly The simple life in Victoria Park during hot spells "Denby has humiliated Admiral Sims, revenue derived from this source annuis likely to become popular now that the police have but has done him no harm. The admirator many millions, and so perfect is the offered their protection. Roosts among the tall trees als place in the hearts of the American s to many millions, and so perfect is the offered their protection. Roosts among the tall trees reforestation that no district is permitted to may be specially reserved, and excellent shower baths ted of trees. It is the general rule that may be had at the fountain. Beds of roses may be the measure in which Denby has re-

A wise man and a wise government retrench when terrific obligations have been incurred. The British Government after the Napoleonic war cut down its taxation, and a rapid recovery was the The consequences all now see.

THE AMERICAN CREED.

[Detroit News.]
It is still the creed of the American nation that people are the source of all government; it is a further axiom of the American nation that all peoples are at bottom eager to live happily and prosperously and sanely. You can't compel are at the bottle or two that had been rooted out last night from the medical stores? Empty? Every last drop gone down somebody's greedy gullet? The adjectives came thick and a man to thick now when it are a chris hurled the bottle into things for which all men strive. And that is the peculiar mission with which the American nation believes itself

CO-OPERATION IN HUMAN EFFORT

[Westminster Gazette.]
If there is one thing which h nade clear to us in the past six years it is that communities and individuals have a capacity for endurance far exceding all rational estimates in the previous years. The enemy endures for years on a diet which by all scienti-fic tests in insufficient to support life for more than a few months; the hun-mede ger striker who ought to have died in three weeks lives on for six or seven; the hationa which is manifestly bankrupt carries on with all the appearance of solvency and even prosperity for an apparently unlimited time; the strike, which ought to have ended in complete exhaustion at the end of a month, continues unabated after two months and the community which ought to have been strangled by it is alive and cheerful and comparatively indifferent

ROTARY'S EXPANSION. [Quebec Telegraph.]

The world convention of Rotarians in Edinburgh has opened the eyes of the whole world to the growth and importance of the movement, to which a splendid tribute has just been paid by the history and expansion, the Times says, "The first Rotary Club was sixteen years ago in Chicago by Mr. Paul Harris, a lawyer of that city; today there are 800, of which 40 are now established in this country. The members of these clubs meet together once a week at luncheon, primarily to give and receive information on matters conencted with their various callings. Only one representative of any given trade or profession—one banker, for example, or one lawyer cr tailor-can be elected to each separate club. Their ruling principle or ideal is that service and not self should be the motive of all industrial activity. Arising out of this ideal of service, the ethical or spiritual inspiration of the whole movement, there is an active and practical freemasonry between the mem-bers, a real spirit of fellowship and cooperation which aims at placing business on a higher level than that which it too often occupies. Instead of being looked upon as a mere profit-making machine, it is regarded and used as a powerful instrument for rendering service to others. That is what the Rotarians set out to do, and, it is freely acknowledged, what they accomplish. The movement is much more widespread the United States and Canada than it is in this country. But the meeting in Edinburgh can hardly fail to result in the formation of new British clubs, as well as in the closer federation of those already existing in different parts of the world. Their spirit is so admirable that the movement is bound to spread. world-brotherhood of businessmen might well grow into a tree for the healing of the nations."

It is a credit to our city that Quebec embraced the principles of Rotary as early in its history as it did, and that by the generous support of its fellow-citizens the local club has been enabled to accomplish as much as it has in the way of service.

but thin—a real nice ladylike sort of trink, I should say. Suppose you take a swig over to Miss Jinny there with my compliments—I'm one to always treat a lady generous if she gives me half a chance."

Obediently Cookie hastened for anyong of service.

STATE OF THE PUBLIC MIND.

It is estimated that over $1,500,000 senting me the cup, and interposing was expended on the Dempsey-Carpenhis bulky person between me and the tier fight, and that more than $650,000 in money changed hands in bets on the result of the bout. Dempsey, on his 000, the organizer of the affair, Rickard, more than $300,000, and the state absorbed in taxes of all kinds a large slice of the $1,500,000. Man at this period of pretended civilization has maintained the mentality of former times, and rother than $1,500,000. side, received $300,000; Carpentier, $200,-000, the organizer of the affair, Rickard, more than $300,000, and the state abmay be endowed with talents, could provoke the mass of mankind to such a delirium as that which was manifested round the boxing-ring on Saturday last.

The prowess of boxers and athletes, lirium as that which was manifested round the boxing-ring on Saturday last. by the generality of men. They remain at heart, in spite of the immense progress of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, admirers of brawn and muscle and material force. After all, we are not very far from the arenas and mentality of the Romans of the de-

SUNDAY BATHING.

[Kitchener News.] The question of Sunday bathing at the beaches at Port Stanley and Sarnia responsible for discussions in these places which, to say the least, do not contribute to the alleviation of the summer heat which tourists and holiday seekers go to these places for. We are not aware on what grounds the Lord's Day Alliance or whoever is raising the bjections to Sunday bathing, base these objections upon, but we do know that if they should succeed in gaining their point they would by the enforcement of their views weaken rather than strengthen the cause they have at heart. As a Port Stanley pastor has remarked

DENBY AND SIMS. [Ottawa Journal.]

The majority of fair-speaking Amer retary of the Navy Denby's reprimand ment on the reprimand was fairly repre-sentative of unbiased opinion in the United States. It said: people is secure; his place in history beyond the reach of political malice.

As the heat increased a voice of lam- lifted, stretched out in the direction entation broke from Chris. He was dry

-dry enough to drink up the condemned ocean. No, he didn't want spring water, which Cookie obsequiously had tendered him; he wanted a "drink" left by the Great War, launched out on every wasteful scheme, gave doles to everyone who demanded them, and increased taxation to the breaking point. other side of the adjective—island. himself, turned over, and administered to the sleeping Chris a prod with his large boot. "Here, there, wake up! What right more? Where was the bottle or two that heavily.

conform to your standards; but, in both cases, you can exemplify by example as by persuasion, that the right instincts of tolerance and industry and good temper bring most quickly those things for which a standards; but in both cases, you can exemplify by example as by persuasion, that the right instincts of tolerance and industry and good temper bring most quickly those things for which a standard to the bay, where it swam bobbingly upon the ripples. Capt Magnus agreed with the gist of Chris' remarks, but deprecated, in a truly philosophical spirit, their unprofitable heat. There wasn't any liquor, so what was the most of making the pottle into the bay, where it swam bobbingly upon the ripples. Capt Magnus agreed with the gist of Chris' remarks, but deprecated, in a truly philosophical spirit, their unprofitable heat. There wasn't any liquor, so what was the most of the bay, where it swam bobbingly upon the ripples. Capt Magnus agreed with the gist of Chris' remarks, but deprecated, in a truly philosophical spirit, their unprofitable heat. wasn't any liquor, so what was the use of making an adjective row? Hadn't he endured the equivalent of Chris' present sufferings for weeks? He was biding the state of the bar o his time, he was. Plenty of drink by-and-bye, plenty of all that makes life soft and easy. He bet there wouldn't be many hit any higher spots than him He bet there was one little girl that would be looked on as lucky, in case she was a good little girl and encouraged him to show he natural kindness and I was favored with a blood-curd-ling leer from across the camp, of which I had put as much as possible between myself and the object of my But now, like a huge black Ganymede, appeared Cookie, bearing cups mede, appeared Cookie, bearing cups and a large stone crock.

"It suhtinly am a fact, Mistah Chris, sah," said Cookie, "dat dey is a mighty unspirituous fluidity bout dis yere spring watah. Down war I is come from no pussons of de Four Hund'ed ain't eveh 'customed to partake of such. But the sassiety I has been in lately and dis years army air't of de con-But the sassiety I has been in lately round dis yere camp ain't of de convivulous ordah; ole Cookie had to keep it dark dat he got his li'le drop o' comfort on de side. Dis yere's only homemade stuff, sah. 'Tain't what I could offah to a gennelmun if so be I is got the makin's of a genuwine old-style the makin's of a genuwine old-style julep what is de beverage of de fust fam'lies. But bein' as it is, it am mighty coolin', sah, and it got a l''le klck to it—not much, but tes' enough

Cookie's tones dripped humility and propitiation. He offered the brimming cup cringingly to the pale-eyed, reinosed Chris, who reached for it with elacrity, drank deep, smacked his lips meditatively, and after a moment he passed the cup back. "'Tain't so worse," he said approv ngly, "Anyhow, it's drink!"

Magnus suddenly began to laugh. "S'elp me, it's the same dope wha ald out the Honorable!" he chortled.

'Here, darky, let's have a swig of Cookie complied, joining respectfully n the captain's mirth.

"I guess you-all is got stronger haids den dat young gennelmun!" he remark-ed. "Dis yere old niggah has help his-self mighty freely and dat Prohibitionist Miss Harding ain't even found i out. Fac' is, I'm puffeckly harmles out. Fac' is, I'm puffeckly harmless' cept when de haid is weak!"

False, false Cookie! Black brother in perfidy to Mr. Tubbs! One friend the less to be depended on if a chancy for freedom ever came to us! A hot flush of surprise and anger dyed of faith betrayed. I had been as sure of Cookie's devotion as of which reminded me that the little had not returned to camp since he fled before the onslaught of the vengeful Cookie refilled the pirates' cups, and set the crock beside them ground.

"In case you gennelmun feels yo" selfs a li'le thirsty later on," he re-marked. He was retiring, when Capt conducted on these lines is a plant that Magnus called to him.

"Blackie, this ain't bad. It's coolin'." but thin-a real nice ladylike other cup, set it on a tray, and approached me with his old-time ornate manner. I faced him with a withering look, but, unmindful, he bowed, pre-

"Fo' de Lawd's sake, Miss Jinny, pretended civilization has maintained the mentality of former times, and nothing impresses him more than the exhibition of physical force and agility and brutal vigor. No creater was a should be a proper to the control of the contr

Cookie retired with his tray in the most impressive cake-walk fashion, and most impressive cake-walk tashion, and in passing announced to Capt. Magnus that "Miss Jinny say she mos' sub-tinly am obligated to de gennelmun fo' de refreshment of dis yere acidulous de refreshment of dis yere acidulous beverage." Which barefaced mendacity provoked a loud roar of amusement from the sentinels, who were still sam-pling the cooling contents of the stone

"Learning to like what I do already, hey?" guffawed the captain, and he called on Chris to drain another cup with him to the lady of his choice.

I have believed since that dragging nterminable time which I now through, that complete despair, where you rest quite finally on bedrock and have nothing to dread in the way of further tumbles, must be a much hap-pier state than the dreadful one of oscillating between hope and fear. For a leaden-footed eternity, it seemed me, I oscillated, longing for, yet dreadme, I oscillated, longing for, yet dreading, the signs that Cookie's powerful dope had begun to work upon our guards—for might not the first symptoms be quite different from the anticipated blind stages. pated blind-staggers? Fancy a murder-ous maniac pair reeling about the clear-ing, with death-vomiting revolvers and gleaming knives!

And then suddenly time, which had And then suddenly time, which had dragged so slowly, appeared to gallop, and the morning to be fleeing past, so that every wave that broke upon the beach was the footfalls of the returning beach was the feotrals of the returning pirates. Long before that thirty, garrulous pair grew still and torpid their companions amust return—and I saw Cookle, his stratagem discovered, dang-

Cookie, his stratagem discovered, dang-ling from a convenient tree.
Gradually the rough, disjointed talk of the sailors began to languish. Coverty watching, I saw that Chris' head had begun to droop. His body, propped comfortably against a tree, sagged a little. The hand that held the cup was

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S A.S.TORIA

SPANISH DOUBLOONS

the enticing jar, then, forgetting its errand, fell heavily. After a few spasmodic twitchings of the cyclids and un-easy grunts, Chris slumbered. Capt. Magnus was of tougher fibre, but he, too, grew silent and there was a certain meal-sack limpness about his

Capt. Magnus himself heaved a tremendous yawn, settled back in greater comfort against his sustaining tree, and closed his eyes. I waited, counting he seconds by the beating of the blood in my ears. In the backg hovered apprehensively. In the background Cookie would go on hovering unless loud snores from the pirates gave him assurance. For myself, I sat fingering my penknife, wondering whether I ought to rush over and plunge it into the sleepers' throats. This would be heroic and practical, but unpleasant If, on the other hand, I merely tried to free the prisoners and Capt. Magnus woke, what then? The palm where they were tied was a dozen yards from me, much nearer to the guards, and within range of even range of even their most languid glance. Beyond the prisoners was Miss no help in Miss Browne. To Be Continued.

THE SILVER LINING

By Fullerton Waldo.

PULLBACKS.

There was a picture that hung over my bed when I was a little boy that was much to my liking. I like it still. (You know how when we are grown up our memory travels back to the books that mother read us, the songs we used to sing, the pictures in the nursery. There never could be again any books or songs or pictures quite so dear as those.)

Well, this picture was called "The Lion Comes." The story it told was this. A lion broke loose from a travelto make a gennelmun feel lak ne is ing circus. The people scattered in every direction. They tried to climb a solid high fence. One man who kept his wits beter than the rest built a pyramid of kegs, climbed to the apex of the pyramid, got his hands on the top of the fence and might have climbed over. But the others grabbed the tails of his coat, hoping to go over with him As a result he couldn't get over, and neither could they.

I think of that picture when I se men trying to put over some big deal that ought to go over with a whoop. Other people come rushing along at Prudent and demonstre judgment must never be despised. But it never was meant to be a clog or weight to keep good men and right measures from going over the top to victory. (Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Co.)

DE THOMAS' ECLECTRIC

Consider This, Canadian Manufacturers

You can buy more advertising for less money in Daily Newspapers than you can buy in any other medium that enters the home.

And, after all is said and done, the place where most of you want your advertising to have its greatest effect is in the home. Isn't that so?

Remember, then, that the daily newspaper is the FUNDAMENTAL AD-VERTISING MEDIUM.

That is why so many manufacturers are cutting out the "frills of advertising" and confining their advertising efforts to daily newspapers.

Issued by the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association. Head Office, Toronto.

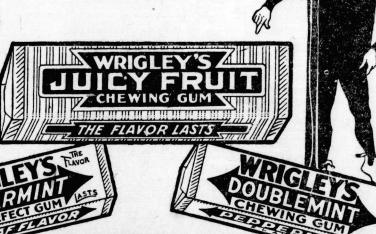

"AFTER EVERY MEAL"

The gum with the lasting flavor—wrapped in the hygienic sealed package.

A goody that's good for you. Aids appetite and digestion —

Keeps teeth clean and breath sweet.

A boon to smokers. with its cooling, soothing effect on mouth and throat.

SEALED TIGHT-KEPT RIGHT