Paris, Aug. 30.—Inter-allied officials here were concerned today over reports of hostilities between Austrians and Hungarians at Odenburg, capital of the Province of Burgenland, a narrow strip of territory along the Austro-Hungarian frontier. Austrian troops, which were sent to occupy Odenburg as a result of the average of Burgenland to Austria as sent to occupy Odenburg as a result of the award of Burgenland to Austria as a result of the treaty of St. Germain, were attacked on Sunday night, and the incident has caused great tension between Austria and Hungary. There are reports of other conflicts between Hungarian insurgents and Austrian soldiers along the frontier between the countries. It is understood that a protest has been made to the allied powers by the Austrian Government. Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slavia are said to have taken a threatening attitude as a result of the conflict in Burgenland.
