Kimonos For Christmas Gifts

Warmth and beauty have joined forces to produce the attractive rest robes of soft velour, which are displayed on our Second Floor. The softness of the material and their subdued harmonious coloring will endear them to the fortunate recipient. The delightful variety includes many colors, styles and prices, from which the following model have been selected. Straight-line gowns, with set-in sleeve and roll collar, trimmed with cording, mauve and white, in diamond-shaped patterns $3.95

Slight variations from the style mentioned above, have broad satin bandings and quaintly-shaped collars, and are priced at$5.95, $6.00, $6.50 and $7.50

Velour Gowns, with attractive border designs, in French blue, white and sand, with set-in sleeve, and blue silk girdle and matching cord to bind the long roll collar $12.50

Gray, sand, blue and cream form the harmonious color schemes of a velour kimono, with a border design and double banding of pale blue satin, around the broad sailor collar and wide cuffs$15.00

Today I saw

Party dresses for London's Youngest Set! Colorful, fluffy little frocks of French crepe, taffeta and georgette for little maids of eight to twelve joyous summers. The graceful styles of their debutante sisters have been cleverly adapted to the youthful simplicity demanded by their discriminating mothers.

When you see the attractive little dresses which are displayed on the Second Floor, you will picture your own little girl, fresh and sweet as a flower, in a rose-colored frock of accordion-pleated georgette, with a wide pleated collar, and knots of picoté ribbon.

Perhaps you'd prefer a little slip-over dress of French crepe, with drawn-work, smocking, and tiny appliqued squares of mauve. It is priced at $8.75. Then there are the taffetas of rose and peach, with tiny picoté frills, or petal tiered skirts, outlined in a contrasting color. Their soft little girdles and flower twists add the last touch of dainty charm.

A truly Christmasy dress for the holiday merrymaking has been fashioned from georgette of hollyherry red. Soft little frills adorn the skirt, and briefly suggest a sleeve, while metallic ribbon and flowers of old gold still further carry out the holiday coloring.
