

DRURY SAYS PRICE TALKS NONSENSE

Ex-Premier Denies U. F. O. Left Government $15,000,000 Deficit For Year.

EXPLAINS FINANCING

Special to The Advertiser.
Toronto, Feb. 19.—"Absolute, arrant nonsense," That summarizes the comment ex-Premier Drury upon the charges made by Provincial Treasurer Price with regard to the administration of the late U. F. O. Labor government.
When questioned over the long distance telephone today with respect to the Conservative claim that the Drury administration left a deficit of $15,000,000 from its last year of office and that the deficiency for the four-year Drury regime was $24,000,000, Mr. Drury said: "I am absolutely unable to see how they could arrive at any such astounding and ridiculous statement. Not even a wholesale switching of capital expenditures into the current column could provide any basis for such a charge. It, of course, is absolutely ridiculous."

No Grounds for Claim.
He also claimed that there was no grounds for the claim that the government had lost a quarter of a million dollars in exchange in connection with the issue of treasury bills. "I don't know whether as much was realized as might have been," he added, "but the bond market has its ups and downs and sometimes it is necessary to take it as one finds it."

But he was especially indignant over the charge that the late administration had lost millions to the province through the buying of succession duty free bonds.
"These succession duty free securities should never have been issued," said Mr. Drury. "They were a constant menace to the revenues of the treasury. By means of them the province was defrauded of millions of dollars, which it should have obtained in connection with succession duties on large estates. By buying in these bonds, we actually saved the province huge sums of money."

"It was to prevent this practice that we bought in these bonds. Of that the public is entirely aware."

Probe Was Easy Matter.
"As for the redemption of Ontario inscribed stock in England," Mr. Drury said, "that's an old matter. It was made in 1920 and the whole matter was thrashed out at two or three sessions of the house. The verdict of the legislature entirely supported the action of the government in this respect."

Reverting to the charge that his government had failed to show the correct state of the public finance in its annual budget, Mr. Drury said that this "discovery" should have been made a date. For part of his tenure of office, the old system of bookkeeping had been adhered to, which had been in vogue for years, and the opposition had every opportunity to probe the public accounts.

Toronto Youth Is Committed For Trial After Evidence in Case Is Heard.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Feb. 19.—Harold Godard was committed for trial by Judge Denton in police court today on a charge of attempting to murder Miss Mel Duncan.

On the charge of the murder of Mrs. Martha Crooks, Godard was remanded until Feb. 26.

A new element in the story of the attack on Miss Duncan was given by the testimony of Detective Sergeant Mitchell, who told of finding no fewer than five indications on the wall of Miss Duncan's home where an iron pipe would have struck the wall instead of the woman's head.

"Godard told me that he remembered nothing after his first blow on Miss Duncan's head until he was running down a hill in High Park when he threw away the iron pipe," said Mitchell.

In his statement to the police, Godard said he had seen the advertisement of rooms to rent in the Duncan home, had telephoned three times before he went there, and he knew of no reason why he hit the woman when he had called the next morning to see the rooms.

Miss Duncan is not yet in condition to appear in court.
