Really the Mail should have sent a man with the marquis. The Globe will get all the glory, and by the Mail's slip it has already indulged in a column full of glucose.

The Toronto World.

Franklin's fall is great. The New York Sun rejoices in it for three reasons: He was an enemy of the press; he was one of the inventors of the electoral commission; he was the leader of the third term idea and the Consensus that involves.

The Toronto World.

The Duke of Sutherland says that the funniest thing he says in this country was the American for spang an English cockney. The Duke evidently didn't get his eye on any Canadian young man trying to look like a stylish American.

The Toronto World.

The Denver fixed the editor of the Globe as it often does others, and a correspondent is off with the margin to the Northwest. We must give the Globe credit for the correspondent it sends to write up the trip.

The Toronto World.

The details for the United States immigration statistics for the year ending July 31 shows that during that period the list landed being no longer first, nor even second, but third. Of the total of 626,000 there were 209,500 from Germany, 118,624 from Canada, 72,338 from Ireland, 65,977 from England and Wales, and 55,000 from Scandinavia.

The Toronto World.

The bulk of the wheat crop in western Ontario has been cut, and with favorable weather it will be safely housed by the end of this week. A large acreage has been under the average per acre the gross product will probably exceed that of any previous year. The European harvest also promises to be good, so that the price may be expected to rule low; but even should it not exceed a dollar per bushel the receipts must be far to put the trade of the country on a solid basis.

The Toronto World.

We have built the Intercolonial and are now building the Pacific railway, at great cost to the country, for the alleged purpose of having a national road through our own territory. Are we then to allow our telegraph wires to pass out of the hands of Canadians into the control of foreigners? In case of war—rather an improbable event—the government could take over the wires, but there are instances in which the government would not feel justified in so acting, yet nevertheless it would not feel secure in entrusting its business to "the buccaners of Wall Street."

The Toronto World.

The Governor-General finds an advertisement in the London Free Press for his personality to foreign newspaper men. That journal says his excellency has announced that he intends to pay for his own pleasure, and that the English and Scotch journalists who have gone with him are his private guests. And it asks, "Why is there to be howl about? Should we not have leave to select his own company like any other gentleman in like circumstances?" Will the Free Press say where or when his excellency made this announcement? The Montreal Gazette—
