SPRING, GENTLE SPRING.

THE BACKBONE OF WINTER BROKEN AT LAST.

The sun's welcome warmth. St. Louis, Globe, Globe, Globe, Globe and Drunken Every Day. Yesterday was the first day of spring, and as a consequence everybody looked smiling and happy. After the long and severe winter, which seemed as though it would never let up, the warmth diffused by the sun was simply immense...

Almost all traces of snow disappeared from the streets and sidewalks, and to-day the street car lines were all running on their usual schedule time. Mud and slush took the place of snow and ice, and it is said that the crossings were very sticky to healthy pedestrians, which means walking dry-shod. Several Globe robbers were flying here and there, and at the same time, the Italian boarding house, on Front street west, was a general point of view of organs and monuments...

ANOTHER WATCH SNAPE.

An alleged case of unlawful possession by a Hamilton housekeeper. Joseph Smith is the name of a young man who reached the city last night from the railway construction works at Huntsville. Smith left here about New Years to seek employment as a shanty cook in Huntsville. Before leaving he deposited his gold watch, chain and ring with a friend for safe keeping, getting a receipt, and for the purpose of getting $12 on them. Then he went away to the land of lakes and rocks, where he worked for E. Knowlton, who, besides keeping a boarding house, has a saw mill, and carries on a general store in the village of Huntsville. Smith alleges that Knowlton obtained possession of the watch, chain and ring, and then he sent it to Smith's friend in Toronto and had the watch forwarded to his address in Huntsville. Smith says the watch and ring in Knowlton's possession and tendered him money he had paid to get them up from Toronto, but Knowlton refused him Toronto, but Knowlton persuaded him to return to Huntsville, where he was to remain until he had secured a new job. Knowlton demanded his property from Smith, but this time was informed that he had sent them to Toronto and raised some money on them, as he was hard up. He gave Smith a letter to E. Jones, his church sexton, who he said had the articles, asking him to return them to the owner. When Smith proceeded to Jones' residence on Church street yesterday, he found that no such person lived there, and accordingly he placed the matter in the hands of a lawyer here who will at an early date sue for the value of the articles which are said to be worth about $125.

A SETTLEMENT OF SALARIES.

The Police Court Clerk to get $1200 and his Assistant nearly as much. The executive committee of the city council considered the standing committee reports yesterday afternoon. The recommendations were adopted, with the exception of an order for new electric light at the Don bridge and Queen street near Davies bridge. This was referred back to the sub-committee appointed to settle on the salaries of M. J. McKeay, police court clerk, and Coram Morrison, his assistant, reported. They assigned $1200 and $1000 to each of the officials. After brief discussion it was agreed to refer the matter to the council.

CRITICISM ON MASS BOUND.

From the Hamilton Times. And deserved the loud applause so richly merited. A sad Civic Misapprehension. Manager Hamilton has not yet been introduced to his staff in the warlike department. A Bad Look-out for the British Army. The times are rapidly changing, and in a few years the presence of an Irishman in the ranks of England's army will be as rare as the sight of a red Indian on the island of Manhattan. Watchful of the Poor Workingman. From the Christian Advocate. It is with much gratification that we notice the introduction of an act in the Ontario legislature by Mr. Wood, providing for the relief of the poor. The act is a very timely one, and we trust it will be passed into law. The Revival of 'The Major.' Harrigan & Hart's recently published 'Major' is drawing immense houses in New York. The play is a very timely one, and we trust it will be passed into law. A Tipperary man's Ireland's worst production. His tongue wags so easy 'you'd think it was an' when he was in the army. He had the book of despair with him and you'd think he was in the army. He had the book of despair with him and you'd think he was in the army.

GERMAN FAMILIES DISTRESS.

All Night at Fallow Station With a Dead Infant—Friendless and Desolate.

Headed together in a corner of the C. P. R. waiting room, Union station, could be seen at midnight a man, his wife and two small children. A glance at their features was sufficient to indicate their German nationality. They were weary and dirty, and looked hungry. Their only visible baggage was a parcel done up in a shawl. But this was precious baggage. It was the dead body of an infant, the youngest member of the friendless family. They were passengers by the C. P. R. train arriving here from the east at 9.55. Yesterday afternoon the infant died on the train. The conductor telegraphed the fact to Superintendent Whyte, who in turn sent a message to German consul Helrod, notifying him of what had happened and asking him to meet the train at Union station. Whether or not this message found its way into Mr. Helrod's hands could not be ascertained, but at any rate he did not meet the train when the train came in, and the railway people handed the family with their dead burden over to the care of Policeman Wismer. Neither man, woman nor children could speak a word of English; the officer knew no more German. However, he got them into a hack and started out in search of Mr. Helrod, but that gentleman could not be found at his office or elsewhere. The consul must either be out of town or Mr. Whyte's message failed to reach him, otherwise he would undoubtedly have met them at some distance from the station and done everything he possibly could to relieve their wants and assuage their grief.

Policeman Wismer then drove the family back to Union station, where they passed the night. There is no doubt when their condition becomes known this morning they will not wait for assistance and sympathy. Their tickets show them to be en route for Michigan. From these and other signs there is little doubt but that spring with its liberal mildness has come, and were it not for the poets and the organ grinders, but few would regret it. And there was another sign—an infallible one—that spring had come. It was what is known among the drinking population as the opening of the spring campaign for weeks back they have been drinking up the money they have saved up for the winter. The infatuation for whisky was so great that it broke out during the daytime, but at night it broke out all over town. The infatuation for whisky was so great that it broke out during the daytime, but at night it broke out all over town. The infatuation for whisky was so great that it broke out during the daytime, but at night it broke out all over town.

LOST HER WARDROBE.

Surprise Pay a Visit to a Young Ladies' Boarding School. In the rear of Hamilton house, a young ladies day boarding school at the corner of John street and Grange road, presided over by Mrs. Neville, is a small brick building used as a store-room, in which the young ladies keep their trunks and other personal effects. This building was broken into on Wednesday night, the locks being forced off every trunk in the place. Fortunately, with two exceptions, the trunks were empty, but these two were filled with their contents, one young lady being several years and the other a dressmaker. The thieves then attempted to gain an entrance to the house, and tried to break through the door, but were prevented by the noise in the gas, when the midnight prowlers made off. Yesterday Mrs. Neville informed the detectives.

THE BAZAR AT ST. PETER'S CHURCH.

The bazar at St. Peter's church, Carlton street, in aid of the Zeeman mission, opened yesterday with great success. The school room for the time being converted into a bower of beauty and business. There is a fancy goods table in charge of the Misses Jago, Dixon, Lee and Holland. Another table is covered with Japanese articles, and a room is reserved for the sale of books, stationery, and other useful articles. The refreshment table set by Misses Hanford, Hodgins, Eaton and Rachel Lee, is most attractive. The ladies are all well, and the cause will be given a large and hearty support. There was a large attendance at the bazar, and the goods sold well. The bazar will be continued this afternoon and evening.

OF INTEREST TO PENITENTS.

At the civil sittings yesterday before Chief Justice Wilson and a jury, the case of McCaughey v. Lennox was commenced and continued all day. This is an action brought by Hugh McCaughey and his wife, against C. P. Lennox, dentist, to recover $2000 damages for alleged malpractice. From the evidence brought forward yesterday it appears that Mrs. McCaughey is having some teeth drawn, vizalised air having been administered through the alleged carelessness of the defendant one of the teeth got down her throat, where it remained about a week, despite the efforts of two physicians to remove it. Finally, during a fit coughing, Mrs. McCaughey ejected it from her mouth. While it remained in her throat she was seriously ill, and has never since fully recovered her health. A large number of witnesses were examined on both sides, and the case will be given to a jury to-day. Dr. McMichael, Q. C., for plaintiff, W. Macdonald for defendant.

CANADA'S FUTURE.

Admiral Murray now keeps a restaurant in Montreal, and he finds time to study dominion politics. He writes to the Evening Herald in regard to the large class who believe that Canada is destined to be something more than a colony of the British empire. They hope for an independent nation. They hold that her population will soon outgrow that number which can be accommodated within colonial limits, and that the day will speedily come when a natural and peaceful separation will take place between her and England.

AN AMERSON OLD JUDGE.

St. Francis, March 26.—Judge S. Hastings, aged 79, was married yesterday to Miss Knapp, aged 70. Hastings was worth several millions, but gave his son $250,000 and kept $300,000 for himself. He was threatened with a breach of promise suit by another lady six months ago.

THE SECOND VISIT OF THE BUFFALO FIRE.

Buffalo, March 26.—The remains of Charles Roth, a fireman, the second victim of last night's fire, were found in the ruins of the St. Louis church to-day. The remains comprised barely a handful of bones. It is not believed that there are any more victims.

THE OPPOSITION'S DEFEAT.

THE AMENDED HIGH SCHOOL ACT—LEGISLATURE TO PROCEED TOY.

Three Amendments Voted Down.—The amended High School Act—Legislature to Proceed Today. At the morning session of the legislature yesterday the attention of the house was occupied in the consideration of various amendments to the bill introduced by Mr. Waterhouse, which had been previously discussed, except Mr. Ross' bill to amend the high school act. This bill entrusts the minister of education with the appropriation of the grants to high schools. Mr. Meredith moved an amendment to the effect that no action should be taken until the committee on the bill had reported. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 33 to 25.

Mr. Broder then moved in amendment that the appropriation for immigration be reduced by $10,000. A very moving amendment that the government should promote the immigration of tenant farmers, which was carried on a division. Mr. Crighton then moved that while the house is in session the resolution appropriating $22,800 to refund accounts of the Heutenant-governor had not been advised to recommend payment to municipalities. Mr. Fraser moved an amendment to the effect that the house express its confidence that at the earliest practicable moment the government will pay to municipalities the money due them. This was carried—40, nays, 30. Mr. Wood moved that this house regret the large outlay of money in 1884, and considers $50,000 is ample to cover all unforeseen and unprovided expenditure. Mr. Badger moved that the house express its confidence that the government has endeavored to keep the annual expenditure within the limits of the public service, which was carried by 43 to 32.

PERSONAL.

Gen. Anson Stager, the celebrated electrician, died at Chicago yesterday, aged 80. His Grandfather was a member of the Montreal Vigilance in Improved Health. James B. Cantwell of Dundas, Ont., one of the largest undertakers in the province, was yesterday in the city on business connected with the extension of the Toronto and Bruce railway to his town. Gen. Lord Wolsey was stationed in Canada some forty years ago. A very moving scene there, he left a record of many brilliant and successful military operations.

THE YOUNG HIGHLANDERS.

Everyone knows Willie Howland for his public spirit and his earnestness in social and moral reform. Oliver Howland, his lawyer brother, lately blossomed out as an advocate of improved civil government and a more equitable form of municipal taxation. And now a third cadet of the family, Henry, Jr., and a cover of the city has made his debut, so to speak, as promoter of the etching exhibition now open in the rooms of the Ontario society of artists on King street. In getting the exhibition together, Mr. Howland has gone through an immense amount of labor and carried on an extensive correspondence, for no other reason than to encourage the art of the young men of our people; and anyone who sees these pictures and learns to appreciate them, as he is bound to do, will thank Mr. Howland for his trouble.

EDDIE'S PRESENTS.

Mr. Edward Sullivan did celebrate his birthday yesterday. Mr. McDonnell gave him a bronze clock, a four tickets in the raffie; the girls at the American a cup and saucer; and his numerous lady friends throughout the city and country sent him beautiful and their costumes were the American ball dresses of midwinter.

HADN'T HEARD OF IT BEFORE.

A man came into the Great Northwestern telegraph office this evening. While he was waiting for a message, he noticed a small, dark, shaggy dog, and he checked his surprise and went on writing. When he had finished his message, he took up his cigar, folded a paper, and tried to put it through the hole of one of the lights. When he couldn't get it through he was again surprised, and as he thought he was getting his fingers into it, he saw the dog had seen the incandescent light before.
