Roasted Bayond Identification—Heartrending Scenes Witnessed At the Identification of the Dead.

FARIS, July 27.—The details of the accident now being received from St. Mande show that the collision was a most terrible affair. The engine of one of the excursion trains telescoped three carriages loaded with excursionists, and at the same time the reservoir of gas on the damaged train exploded and set fire to the wreckage, while scores of people were pinioned down, wounded and helpless, beneath the ruins of the three carriages. In a very short time the fire spread to such an extent that numbers of the wounded were slowly roasted to death before the eyes of the who were doing their utmost to rescue them. The horrible shriels of the burning people continued for nearly an hour after the collision. It is now reported that 200 persons were either killed or injured as a result of the collision. Many of the unfortimate people imprisoned beneath the wreck of the cars were drowned, while partity roasted, by the firemen who were summoned to the scene. Forty minutes elapsed before the firemen were enabled to obtain water, and when they did so they poured torrents inpon the wreck and seemed to be utterly unaware that they were drowning the people they were attempting to rescue. To day the fown hall of St. Mande presents a fearful spectacle. The blackened bodies of cinders was especially conspicuous, as it consisted of a mass of unidentified and unconnected bodies placed in a heap

Le Paris this evening states that an investigation made into the St. Mande Railthat the disaster was intentionally caused by some unknown miscreant who deliberately altered the signals so as to bring the two trains into collision. This announcement has caused the most intense indignation among the relations and friends of the victims and has aroused popular feeling generally to a state of great excitement. There seems to be little doubt as to the fate of the cowardly miscreant, who caused the terrible loss of life, if he falls into the hands of the mourners now gathered at St. Mande.

The majority of the victims were women and children. The wrecked carriages consisted of one first-class, two second-class and a guard's van. The first was completely shattered, The work of rescue proceeded slowly during the night until dawn. People then began to flock to the scene by thousands, many seeking friends who had not returned from the fete by daybreak. There turned from the fete by daybreak of the dend were lying, were besieged by distracted people.

Heartrending Scenes.

Inside there was a constant succession of heartrending scenes, as in the difficulty of the charred and imangled bodies proceeded. A man searching for missing relatives suddenly came upon the bodies of his wife and his mother were in an hospital dying. A man who for a long time had been rushing about half demented seesing his family road accident has disclosed the startling fact and Mr. W. J. McWatters, Toronto; The that the disaster was intentionally caused by Baroness of Earnscliffe, Miss Alison, Mr.G.S.

A Terrible Scene on a Paris Square Yes-Paris, July 27.—The execution of young Beriand and Dore, two accomplices of Mere Berland, in what is known as the Courtevoire murder took place this morning in the Place de la Roquette. Dore left his cell with extreme composure. He made no objections. Diebler, the chief executioner, assisted by his son, attended to the criminal's toilet for the scaffold. But though he had thus far conducted himself with wonderful courage, Dore faltered and trembled as he reached the shadow of the red-painted uprights of the guillotine and caught sight of the delady, shining knife which was to sever his head from his body, The murderer, at the sight of the instrument of death, seemed to become dazed and helpless, and in this condition the executioners lad him up the store for the platform of the condition, drew a revolver to quell the condition, the condition the executioners and the condition of Johnstown, drew a revolver to quell the condition, the condition the executioners and the condition of Johnstown, drew a revolver to quell the condition the executioners and the condition of the conditi of death, seemed to become dazed and help-less, and in this condition the executioners led him up the steps to the platform of the guillothe and quickly threw him upon the bascule, strapped him down, slipped his head into the lunette, and in a second or so the knife fell and Dore's head rolled in the saw-dust-filled basket awaiting it. When young Berland was awakened he showed a considerable amount of bravade and remarked with a hideous smile, "no more card playing for me." In conversation with the prison officials and executioners while his toilet was being made, Beland showed that he resented his mother's reprieve and that he was very much disappointed that she was not to die with him. When all the preparations for death were made. that sae was not to the with him. When at the preparations for death were made. Berland walked jauntily across the prison yard, and maintained an air of bravado and cool impudence until he reached the plat-form of the guillotine. Just as the executioners, were upon the point of throwing him upon the bascule, Beriand made a terrible tyon the bascule, gerland made a territor resistance, and a frightful scene took place in full view of the thousands of eager spectators gathered in the Place de la Roquette. In spite of his struggles, however, the executioneers and guards held Berland upon the scaffold and eventually threw him upon the fatal plank, slid him beneath the corn purishts and as the young criminal gr m uprights, and as the young criminal was writhing furiously the knife fell and Berland's head rolled into the basket. No sooner had this occurred than the crowds with a combined mighty rush broke through the cordon of troops and police and rushing up to the scaffold gloated over the blood-tenged apparatus, some taking a handful of
