atarrhozone Deafness is not so common as blind-

Deafness is not so common as blind-ness, yet thousands are more o less afflicted by it, and their comfort ser-lously interfered with. Catarrhal deafness manifests ifself but slowly, yet it must be acknowledg-ed that the great majority of those who become totally deaf might have avert-ed this unfortunate condition if they had treated the catarrhal inflamma-tion at its beginning. The only remedy that can be safely employed for all forms of catarrhal deafness is Catarrhozone. You simply charge the air you breathe with this healing, soothing agent, and by forc-ing it gently through the ears destroy the germ life which keeps up the in-flammation, and at the same time by the soothing, healing action it heals the inflame surfaces of the middle ear. CATARRHOZONE, to those who are just a little deaf, and are growing in-reasingly deaf, is an agent capable of alfording the utmost satisfaction, and its use is attended without danzer. affording the utmost satisfaction, and its use is attended without danger, and as the treatment can be carried on at home no person threatened with the affliction of deafness should postpone one moment in beginning its use.

one moment in beginning its use. From every part of the Dominion glowing accounts of the beneficial ac-tion it exerts upon catarrhal condi-tions of the middle ear have been sent in, and you will be resorting to the only method of cure, and the simplest method too, if you try Catarrhozone. Dealers everywhere sell it, 25c, 50c, and $1.00. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Onb

no great value on his own life, and, in the second, he was not the man to run away from such a responsibility. He was like a rudderless boat tossed about upon the waters. Plains life is not conducive to homemaking, especially when there is little to do except punch cows, and there are few women to tame the men and make them fit for homes. Indeed, the prospect of a fight, even in a losing cause, was not unwelcome to Ruckers. Quickly descending into the hollow between two rollers, he rode with all haste toward the wagon till he knew by the loud cracking of rifles that those firing were near by on the other side of one of the rollers. Dismounting, he ascended the slope, crawling as he neared the summit, and, There are oceans of land just as there are oceans of water. That the whites had sufficient arms was evident from the fact that every one of them, including the two women held a breechloading rifle, a comparatively new gun in those days. He who was evidently the father of the famtain fly was giving his little army orders as to the direction of their fire so that it would be properly distributed. They were dong their best to pick off the redskins, but the latter were so wary in exposing themselves that it was difficult to hit them. "Ruckers returned to his horse, unhooked his rifle and, removing all the ammunition he had in his saddlebags, moved on. placed it in his hat. The father, seeing the advantage of Ruck-ers' strategy, encouraged his family, at the same time admonishing them not to fire except at an especial redskin. But by this time the Indians had betaken themselves behind a slight rise in the ground, where they remained out of sight. They had evidently withdrawn for consultation or with view to getting the strength of their new enemy. Ruckers and the whites below also ceased to fire since they could do no damage. Ruckers called to their commander, suggesting that it might be well to direct one of the party to crawl through the cactus to the crest; that by firing from different points at the same time the two above might further make it appear that there were not more than one person there.

It appeared to the father that who ever succeeded in separating himself from the party might have a better chance for his life, and, desiring to give this advantage to his daughter he directed her to do as Ruckers had suggested. The redskins detected her and sent a shot at her which raised the dust only a foot from her, but she succeeded in her attempt. When Ruckers saw an attractive girl who had come to fight with him for her life and the lives of all concerned a new resolve came to him that they should win. There was an eager light in the girl's eye as she asked what she should do. Ruckers, who since she had been fired at in joining him had lost confidence in his ruse, told her to lie flat beside him and wait for orders. The Indians appeared again, scatterng at first in order to distract the whites, then suddenly making on converging lines for the wagon. Ruckers called to those behind it to aim at the savages nearest the center, told the girl beside him to fire at those on the Indians' right, while he would cover the left and any such individuals as he thought it an advantage to put out of the fight.

This dividing up the enemy between them proved to be very effective. The savages had not covered half the dis tance between their starting point and the wagon when a dozen of their warriors had been dropped. They hesitated, broke and scurried for cover.

There was a shout, and a dozen cowboys came galloping toward the wagon.

Ruckers turned and looked at the girl beside him; she turned and looked it him. There are moments when our emotions sweep away conventionality. These two had met for the first time half an hour before. Death had then stared them in the face. Now all were safe. Yielding to an impulse that seized upon both at once, they threw their arms about each other's neck. and the man covered the girl's face

Ruckers had not been on the crest an hour, but he had been there long enough to save the lives of the family.

He was on the crest of one of the land rollers and managed to make cut, a couple of miles away, the white up of a plains schooner. of a plains schooner. A little puff of smoke appeared near it, followed by a faint crack, then another and another at intervals. He heard responsive cracks, but the land lay so that he could not see from whom they came. But he knew that he was in the country of the Apache, and persons firing from behind a wagon meant white men defending themselves from the most savage tribe of Indians. The picture told him more than this. One wagon did not indicate many whites, whereas there were plenty of Indians about. Again, a wagon was almost surely indicative of Eczema. It is Caused by Germs.

Eczema cannot be overcome by ordinary treatment and the old-fashioned way of dosing the system with drugs. Eczema is caused by a parasitic germ that bores into the skin. It is generally a contagious disthe skin. It is generally a contagious dis-ease. Until the parasite is completely destroyed and removed, eczema cannot be cured. Fully one-third of skin diseases are in the form of eczema. We so thoroughly believe that Rexall Eczema Ointment will overcome eczema and allied skin ailments, that we unhesi-tatingly promise to promuty return the tatingly promise to promptly return the money paid us for it should it in any way be unsatisfactory to the user. Because of its remarkable cleansing, antiseptic, germicidal, soothing and healing influence, Rexall Eczema Ointment has a very pronounced value in the treat-ment of skin diseases, especially where the form of ailment is of the chronic, aggravaling sort. We highly recommend it for the dry scaly form or the weeping type, where there is a constant flow of ill-smell-out between the cactus and was ready to commence operations.

Meanwhile the Indians had changed their tactics. They were concentrat-ing on their center preparatory to charging the wagon. It was plain to the whites that they were lost. In a quick dash of the Indians some of them might be killed or disabled, but there would be plenty left to toma-hawk their enemies. The father's voice trembled as he said: "Let us die hard."

But at that moment a surprise occurred to both whites and redskins. The former heard a crack behind them, and the latter saw a puff of smoke on the crest. One of the Indians fell dead. Ruckers instead of firing again from the same spot scrambled to a point a few yards to his right and from there sent another bul-Without waiting to see what dam age he had done he moved and fired again.

The Indians paused in their advance. Ruckers had produced already the impression that there were at least several persons on the crest, and since he kept up a fire from different points it was impossible for the savages to tell how many there were in this re-enforcement.

Equally interested in Ruckers were the party directly beneath him. They were casting quick glances over their shoulders, hoping to see a party of armed whites come over the crest to

Night was coming on, and the cowboys threw up an earthwork in a circle about the wagon and the stock, and pickets were put out for the night, but morning dawned without an attack, and not a redskin was to be seen. Then under a sufficient guard the famly who had so narrowly escaped death

The adventure brought a great change to Jim Ruckers. For him and for the girl he loved it stood in lieu of a long courtship. When Jim told her he wished her to be his wife she could not well say him nay, for had it not been for him she would not have had a life to give any one. The family stopped at a settlement, entered land and built a home. Jim stopped, too, and never moved on. He had found an anchor, and the spot where its fluke entered the soil is now the center of a prosperous farm. He is much interest-ed in the crops he raised, but one crop he has raised to beat all the resteight children, now mostly grown.

All this happened years ago, when the buffalo still roamed on the plains and the redskin was a terror to emigrants and settlers. Yet it was not so long ago after all, since it is within the memory of middle aged men
