NOTES (Condensed.)

- (a) In our opinion White has now the best of the game.
- (b) Taking the Q P with Kt was obviously out of the question on account of B to K 3, after retaking first with Kt.
- (c) An excellent move which gives Black a fine attack.
- (d) The sacrifice was unavoidable. Had they moved the R to B 2, the answer would have been Kt from Q 4 to Kt 5, followed by Q to R 5, or Q takes P.
- (e) The fine conceived sacrifice of the Q ought to have secured the draw, but White subsequently did not make the most of his defensive resources.
- (f) This master stroke decided one of the most difficult ending games that we have ever come across with in actual play.
