THEREPTILE SLANDER.

Why, this is my friend," I said, " of whom I am fond and proud:
This is my triend, who e good name, you say,
rests under a cloud.

"Well," and I stood up straight, and I looked him right in the eye:

Whatever you say of my friend, I know that it is a lie!"

Back he shrank, like a whipped cur, green eyes

one that's wrong;
The wicked are always envying the beautiful, aigned. The announcement of the action of good, and strong.

Are always reaching out greedy hands and try, ing to drag them down,
Who by interrity, truth, and right, have won fair lionor's crown.

He who was talked of thus knew not even my name: I had never spoke to him, nor touched his hand, but I loved him all the same.

For I knew of the good da-ds he had done, the the good words he had said;
Knew him a brave, true, noble man, tender-hearted, wise of head.

No need to meet God's great hearts to understand what they are:
That soul could no more fall from its place than could heaven's highest star.

Brave benefiter of mankind! my friend, nay, my brother was he;
And I'd fight for him against all the world, as be fights for humanity. -Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A GOOD IRISHMAN.

THE PROTESTANT ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN,-[From North and South.]

Amongst the craters and patriots of the Union period the name of William Cunning-ham Plunket will always hold a high and honorable place. Now, nearly a century after, all true Irishmen recognize how his grandson and namesake, the present Arch-bishop of Dublin, nobly suztains the reputation on which his house was founded.

At the annual meeting of the Diocesan Synod of Dbbi.n, held last week, Archbishop Pluzket spoke of the 100.000 Irish Churchmen of his diocese as being men-" as loyal and as law abiding as any others who are to be found in any other parts of Ireland-100,000 Irish Caurchinen, who do not desire to be looked upon as English settlers or as a foreign garrison, who are Irish to the heart's core, who love their country and desire to abide in their country, and to exercise their influence to promote, as far as in them lies, the peacee and prosperity of the land, and to live in brotherly love among all classes and creeds of their fellow countrymen in this our native land."

The applicase which greeted these wise and patriotic words will coho outside the Synoi House in Dublin, and reverberate throughout Ireland in all those far-off corners of the earth wherever our countrymen have made their homes.

It is the position that Archbishop Plunket holds that makes the expression of these liberal and patriotic sentiments of so huch value. He has a tained, it may be said, to the highest place to which he can be raised by his co-religionists, and there can be no doubt as to his zeal for his Church and his a:tachment to the British connection. To combine these with that loyal love for Ireland that claims her, first and only, as a mother and a home, and to preach peace and brotherly love to "all classes and creeds" of his fellowcountrymen, is to proclaim a faith and a gospel truly befirting the high character of a Christian Bishop, and to hold up an example which every man, he he a priest or layman, will do well to follow. Coming, too, at a time like the present, when the country is torn by political di-sension-we might say, convulsed with passion and the struggles of contending elements-Lord Plunket's words would seem to have been in a measure inspired by that apprin that said to the waves-Peace, he still."

Great Excitement in Paris-Troops Charge on the Mob.

PARIS, December 1. - President Grevy changed his mind and did not resign to-day. He anyounced his decision to the ministers this forenoon and said he would not have any communication to make to the chamber today, believing that public opinion was now glaring venomous hate;

M. Ricard. president of the Left groups, moved that the aitting be suspended. The members of the Right and the Extreme Left murmured at this proposal and M. Canoed Arno exclaimed that dissolution would be preferable. The adjournment was the result of a conference between the four Republican groups, who unanimously agreed to adopt an order of the day, declaring that the Chamber, awaiting the communication promised from the President, would adjourn until 6 oclock. When the session was resumed the order was submitted and met with applause from both the Left and Centre. It was carried by a vote of 531 against 3. M. Rouvier then returned to the palace to communicate to M. Grevy the result of the vote. It is reported that when general are either "immodest" or "immoral." Result of the vote. It is reported that when general are either "immodest" or "immoral." Assure them that if the the Bishop of Kirgston he informed M. Grevy that the sitting was suspended the President replied that the ministers having resigned could not be charged with any communication to the Chamber. A number of members of the Chamber are in favor of impeaching M. Grevy if his resignation is not to hand when the session is reanmed.

The excitement in the city is intense. A mob gathered in front of the palace of the Eivsee and cried for the President to resign. Troops guarded the entrance to the palace. The crowds became so demonstrative that cavalry were obliged to charge them. When the session began in the afternoon there was a big crowd in front of the Parliament building which made hostile and friendly demonstrations. Paul de Roulede, of the Patriotic League, addressed a section of the crowd outside the chamber, and gave the crowd "Vive Grevy" and "Vive Boulanger." The people rejoined with cries of "A bas Grevy" and "Vive la Republique." The Garde Republicaine assisted the police to clear the whole space between the Palais Bourbon and the quays. A council was held at the Elysee palace after the second sitting of the Chamber. M. Rouvier having explained the bearing of the vote, M. Grevy turned to each minister and asked his opinion. All told him that his immediate resignation appeared peremptory. M. Grevy replied that it was the Chamber that had brought about the existing situation and that the Chamber must hear the responsibility before the judgments of history. A discussion ensued on the terms of the ministerial declaration to be made in Parliament. M. Grevy begged M. Rouvier not to pronounce the word "resignation" from the tribune. The use of the word, he said, would be unconstitutional, because the Congress ought to be summoned immediately on the President's resignation, which was only to be announced to morrow. He authorized M. Rouvier, however, to informally acquaint the individual deputies that his resolution was taken, and that in the presence of the votes in the Senate and Chamber, it was irrevocable.

The sitting of the Chamber of Deputies was resumed at 6 30 M. Rouvier ascended the tribune and announced that he had com-municated to M. Grevy the vote of the Chamber on the order of the day. This communication, said M. Rouvier, caused the President to modify his resolution. He had never intended to enter upon a conflict with Parliament, and would, therefore, send a message to the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate errow informing them of his decision. M. Rouvier added that the President declines to accept the resignation of the Cabinet, which therefore retained its functions. M. Rouvier's statement was greeted with cheers, and at its conclusion the Chamber adjourned until 2 pm. to-morrow, as did also the Senate. No doubt is now entertained that the president will resign. The Congress meets on Saturday. The plenary meeting of Republicans will be held at Versailles on Saturday morning. DE ROULEDE ARRESTED AND RELEASED.

When M. de Roulede left the Chamber he proceeded to the Hotel de Ville, followed by a large crowd of people, whom he harangued, calling for cheers for M. Grevy. The only responses to his appeals were cries of "A has Ferry," and "Demission, demission." M. de Roulede and the crowd moved toward the Senate, when the crowd was dispersed by the police. M. de Roulede, however, refused to go, and he was arrested and taken to the nearest police station. He was released an hour later. There was a good deal of rough skirmishing during the evening. Several persons sustained contusions and twenty were arrested, the crowds in the meantime denouncing the police.

PEELING IN THE SENATE.

PARIS, Dec. 1.-Midnight.-The boulevards are calm. The Municipal Court is sitting with closed doors.

When the members of the Cabinet visited the Elysee in the morning, M. Grevy said :-"If the Chamber and Senate really wish me to resign, they must acquaint me with their wish by some clear and unmistakable demonstration. The events of the past few days convince me that in the interests of the Republic I am bound not to resign. I have received from various parliamentary quarters communications asking me to remain in office, and until the wish of the Deputies and Senate is unmistakably clear that my resignation is desired, I shall remain in office. I bolieve that very soon I shall be able to form a Cabinet." M. Rouvier appeared to be greatly irritated and remonstrated with M. Grevy for sending him to the Chamber without the promised message.

I confidently hope and expect that the gentlemen who constitute the board of trustees for the direction of hope and expect that the gentlemen who constitute the board of trustees for the direction of the public schools in your respective districts will never afford the same grounds of complaint as the public school board of Kingston has unhappily supplied. AFRAID OF OUR BREVES AND WHEAT,

LONDON, Dec. 2.-The generally satisfactory outcome of recent shipments of Northwest ranche cattle is giving rise to much discussion about the future supplies of the British mar kets. Mayor Craigie, secretary of the Central Chamber of Agriculture, declares that in view of the immensely increasing home needs of the United States, Canada must become the main source of supplies of meat imported into Great Britain, and that the Northwest is destined to play an important part in these imports. British butch ers and consumers seem to have a prejudice against this ranche beef, owing to its high color, but authorities on the subject predict that this will doubtless subside in the same way as did that against Australian mutton many years ago, particularly as the flavor is admitted to be excellent. The Fair Trade sgitation is rapidly advancing in the farm districts, and farmers' advancing in the farm districts, and fariners clubs on all sides are taking up a proposal to tax imported oorn, meaning thereby all bread stuffs. Some of the proposa's would exempt the colonies from the operation of these duties, or they would put a lesser duty on colonial grain. The Fair Trade leaders in Parliament, who are nearly all supporters of the Salishury Government, declare their intention of raising the question at an early date in tion of raising the question at an early date in the next session of Parliament. Several of them favor an Imperial zollverein, and will make this a part of their protections plat-form. It is generally believed, however, that the Government is unwilling to take any de-cided action on the subject, particularly as the Unionist leaders have distinctly declared their intention to oppose any fair trade propusals.
