souls receive due training in the saving doctrine of Christ. This is a work which must be done gradually and constantly, just as we breathe the surrounding atmosphere, so must the children breathe daily, every hour of the day, the religious atmosphere. Not that we are enemies of secular instructions, no we are prepared to stand second to none in that, but we must consider the soul, the training of the intellectual faculty of the soul and the moral powers of the heart, and by doing this they would save the family, save society, and save the whole world. It is a strange feature that some who claim to have a regard for the doctrines of God, unite in order to deprive the Catholics of their rights -sacred rights which are guaranteed us by the constitution and which are acknowledged to be ours by the judgment of the most important tribunal in the British empire. It is strange indeed that those who call themselves the teachers of the saving gospel, the gospel of charity, should refuse to extend that charity to Catholics. It really seems with these people that an. is well as long as Catholics are deprived of their rights. It is no use for them to say that all are to be put on equal footing, for it is not so inasmuch as the Church claims to be a teaching body whereas they give that percogative to every individual. I confess I cannot understand how they bring themselves to refuse fair play to the Catholics, and become our persecutors. There will a large page in the history of the country that will be to the shame of those who participate in the outrage, and they will be held responsible before the generations to come, until they have to answer for it before the judgment seat of God. The duty of all Catholics now is to stand united in defense of our rights and to be prepared for fresh sacrifices, for cost what it may, we must have Catholic schools. For myself I may say that should the necessity arise I shall willingly undertake the teaching of your children. I cars not where I spend my remaining years on earth, and should circumstances be such that I should be called upon to spend my days in the school room teaching your children the Catholio doctrine and giving them instruction in secular branches as well, heartily will I devote myself to the work rather than see you forced to send your children to be brought up under a system which would withdraw then from the saving influences of the Holy religion. We must continue our prayer in the great hour of prayer for sistance must come from God. united and turn to the noble example the Catholics of Winnipeg have given the country during the last six years The question is far from settled and we wil pray that we may be given courage, manliness and true Christian fortithde to undergo the sacrifices until the hour of victory, the hour of

is that all divorce between secular and and unatural in itself, but is morally injurious to the children, and consequently productive of enormous evil to society. It is customary with some Protestants, and even with some of their clergy, not only to make light of this view, and to assert that it is absurd that the Catholics are insincere, who assert clearest conviction.

who undertake to thus judge in a matter of opinion, I have never had any patience. And with those others who admit that Catholics do hold that view, but contend that they ought to give it up, it is useless to try to argue. The "settlement" declares for the livorce which is repugnant to the that hour the may be religious. It does not require a prophet's eye to foresee the working of this provision. Some parents will allow their children to leave the school at half-past three, and those who remain 'to face the clergyman will soon regard him as "the man who keeps them in." It is hardly fair to expect Catholics whose plan is to mix the religious with the secular, to be content to have the religious eliminated, gathered in to a heap, postponed till the hour of closing, and then administered in one solid and nauseous dose by a solemnfaced individual introduced for the purpose. The devil himself could not have hit upon a more complete plan for rendering all religion thoroughly obnoxious; and the only chance of escape is that, by the good sense of parents, most, if not all of the children will be withdrawn before the wearisome half-hour begins.

It must always be a source of amazement to me that any man can find either pleasure or profit in endeavoring to force Catholics to withhold from their children that sort of education which they believe it to be their duty to provide for them. If doing so would be, in any way, injurious to others, or to their own secular edu-I could appreciate their In Winnipeg, for example, cation. action. there are several catholic schools, and no word has ever been said against the efficiency of them. No reason has ever yet been given why Catholics must leave those schools, and go to others, of which they disapprove; unless it be that, in the opinion of some, it would be better if all were educated together. The same reason would close their churches, and send them to Protestant places of worship. May they not fairly say that in a matter involving, as they believe, the religious welfare of their children they, and and not other people, must be the judges of what is best? Is it not an unwarranted interference with the right and duties of parents to endeavor to force Catholics, under penalties, to act contrary to their convictions, in such a matter. Magistraes must rule, but they must rule rightly, and with a fair regard to religious opinion different from their own.

But above all this, exercises are to be secular, and after it is a repudiation of the Christian and national principles of the control of the coward Tarte, when opposing the parents over the education of their children. It is a repudiation of the most formal promises made to the minority. It is a flagrant, shameful capitulation. It is treason in the face did not give enough to the Catholics of the enemy. We can only regret sincerely the conduct of Laurier and the other Catholic ministers in this circumstance. Caught between their conscience and their interests they have sacrificed their consciences.'

MR. NICHOLAS BAWLF.

"You have, no doubt, Mr. Bawlf, read the terms of the settlement of the school question?"

"Well, of course, I read this so called settlement. It is no settlement of the question because the Catholics who have a grievance have not been consulted whatever in the matter, They have simply been ignored. The whole thing is simply a farce."

"Are the Catholics of the city going to take any steps in the matter?

"Yes. There will be, a convention called in a few days of not only the Catholics of the city, but of the whole province."

"What business will be considered at this convention?"

"The only business that will be before the convention will be Mr. Laurier's betrayal of his co-religionists of Manitoba. You must understand that in a business transaction a man agrees for value received to deliver at a stated time goods which he sold. Now Mr. Laurier fondly imagines that he has sold the Catholics of Manitoba, and maybe he has, but he will find out that he will be unable to deliver us to the enemy at the appointed time. Why, Mr. Sifton, before accepting office, consulted the McCarthyites of Brandon as to whether the terms were acceptable to them. What had they to do with the question? What grievance have they? Further, I saw by the papers that the terms were submitted to Dalton McCarthy himself, thus adding insult to injury. Mr. Tarte has sent a long letter to his Montreal journal stating among other things that the schools here are national. The so-called national schools are, if anything, more Protestant than they were before. To place the matter in a nutshell we Catholics are demanding what the highest court in the realm has decided we are entitled to, and I hardly think we can be considered as asking too much. At any rate, we will accept nothing less.

OAK LAKE.

Oak Lake, Nov. 23 .- At an indignation meeting held on Sunday, the 22d inst., at the Catholic church, after high mass, the following resolusenters:

Moved by William John Manbey, seconded by Angus Roderic Chris holm:

Whereas, the government, of which Mr. Laurier is the head, has announced what is called "A Settlement of the School Question,"

And, whereas, the said settlement contrary, only a Protestant normal is an infamous betrayal of our rights and of no greater value to us than is left to them. This is equivalent to the proposals of the Manitoba government, which were rejected, by the late Conservative government at Ottawa.

And, whereas, the said Laurier and "Remedial Bill," introduced by the Tupper government, grounded their opposition to the measure upon the fact that in their estimation the bill of Manitoba,

And, whereas, the said "Remedial Bill" would have given us our separate schools and also contained provisions under which the Dominion government could have dealt further with the question of the Provincial school grant had the provincial government remained contumacious, And, whereas, Messrs. Laurier and

Tarte have not only agreed to deprive us (so far as in their power) of the right to educate our children in our own schools and with our own books and teachers and under the supervision of our own priests, but have also in order to cover their own infamy and following in the steps of Chiniquy and other notorious apostates publicly charged our beloved archbishop and his clergy with a conspiracy to keep us and our children in ignorance for their own ends.

Now, we, the Catholics of the Parish of St. Athanase du Lac Des Chenes, in the Province of Manitoba, being of various politics and nationalities, do hereby resolve,

That we repudiate with the utmost indignation the infamous charges brought by Messrs. Laurier and Tarte against our beloved archbishop and the clergy of his diocese,

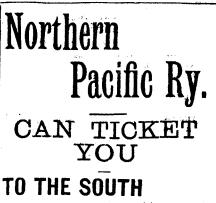

That we absolutely and forever refuse in any way to accept the settlement made between the government of Canada and Manitoba, and that we will never relax our efforts to obtain the restoration of our schools as they were previous to 1890,

That it is a matter of deep humiliation to find that we have among the Catholics of Canada men like Laurier, Tarte and Scott, who are willing to sacrifice not only our rights as men and Catholics, but also the eternal interests of our children and our chidren's children for the sake of office and the profits thereof,

That we appeal with confidence to our brethren in the other provinces, and above all in Quebec, to assist us with their voices and their votes to overthrow the government of Wilfred Laurier.

That we pledge ourselves to oppose on every occasion all candiates for parliament who are supporters of Laurier or of his government.

That these resolutions be signed by our parish priest, the Rev. Father Lemieux and others, on our behalf, and that copies be forwarded to "Le Manitoba," "The Nor'-Wester," "The thwest Review.

peace, which must come sooner or later, once more dawns upon us.

Mr. Ewart having been asked by a representative of the Nor'-Wester, his opinion of the settlement of the school case, said that he had not yet heard of any settlement. Negotiations had proceeded between the two governments but not between the two parties to the controversy. Last Friday the Catholics were apprised of the result, through the newspapers; and to-day the Archbishop, in the name of the minority, had declined to accept it.

Whether the Catholics have acted reasonably or not depends upon the view one takes of education; and it cil on this same Manitoba school quesmay be as well, shortly, to restate the Catholic position. They have always been anxious to have as complete a secular education for their children, as the circumstances of a newly-settled country would permit; they have proclaimed their readiness to welcome govrnment inspection of their schools; to adopt govrnmentprescribed books (other than those dealing with religion and morals); to employ only duly certificated teachers; to receive their share of taxes, and to be relieved from taxation to other schools, only if secular work was efficiently done; and to observe all the usual government regulations for the order and well-being of the schools. On the other hand, in common with a very large number of Protestants, they are resolutely opposed to secular education; and to elimination from what we usually termed secular studies of the religious element. They have held that in teaching children to read, their minds would be better employed were some of the literary extracts taken from sacred history and purely profane character. They have songs might with great profit and ad- public to approve."

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 21.-Archbishop O'Brien, of Halifax, in answer to a question, said:

"I should prefer not to say anything about the so-called "terms," as I can scarcely bring myself to believe that any government of Canada could possibly have, would be a party to such a transaction."

"But" said the reporter, 'they are given out as official."

"Well," answered the archbishop, "on the assumption that they are genuine, I can only repeat a remark I made about four years ago, after the first decision of the Privy Countion. "On my return from the Pacific coast I was asked if I thought the question was settled. I replied, 'No question is settled until justice has bene done.'

"Many laughed then; but, in view of the latest decision of the Privy Council fewer will laugh today, when the remark is repeated. The Fabianlike policy of delay in giving effect to that decision wrecked one government; the cynical injustice of this so-called 'settlement' will surely wreck another.

"Yes, doubtless the government press will make a great flourish; but the writers, even aided by large headlines, will deceive no one, not even themselves, into the belief that the sober sense of a majority of Canadians will permit them to become traitors to our constitutional question this feeble compact of incompetent expediency.'

Montreal, Nov. 21.-Under the heading, "Laurier Capitulates, Greenway Triumphs," La Minerve (Conservative) in a long interview of the settlement biography, than if they are all of says: "They call it a settlement. It's a capitulation thinly disguised. They believed that history ought not to promised full and complete justice to be taught as though it just happened; the minority. They refuse it justice but that God's providence in it ought and sacrifice its most just rights. That to be kept prominently in view. They in a few words is what the Liberals have thought that hymns and sacred have done and what they ask the

Mr. J. Stewart Tupper, Q. C., interviewed by the Nor'-Wester on the school question settlement, says:

"You ask me what I think of the school question. If that vexed question had been settled, no one would rejoice more sincerely than myself, as I am in favor of national schools, but it is an abuse of the English language to apply the term settlement to the present case. A settlement is an amicable arrangement between partieshaving a difference. The dispute in question was between the Roman Catholic minority and the local government. No settlement has been made between them. The Dominion government, however, to whom the minority appealed to restore them rights guaranteed by the constitution, has not affected any settlement with the assent of the minority, it has simply made an arrangement with a friendly government not to interfere in he matter in consideration of certain minor concessions, which. I understand, are wholly unsatisfactory to the minority. Mr. Laurier stands before the people of Canada today as decorations were universal. a betrayer of the sacred trust posed in him by his co-religionists in the Province of Quebec, to whom he again and again promised that he would settle the school question in such a way as to satisfy the minority, or if that were not possible, would enforce their rights as guaranteed them by the constitution. He has done neither. After a vain effort to fulfil his pledge, he has weakly capitulated to the local government, and has bartered away the rights of his people for a minister of the interior and other political considerations. So far from the school question being settled, I regret that it is more difficult of adjustment than ever. Until now the minority had to complain of what they considered the cruel injustice of the local government. Now the position is aggravated by their base betrayal by the Dominion government."
