

I have the honor to inform you of the renewed assurance of my Government with respect to the provisions of the Act concerning the supply of books to libraries. I am pleased to advise you that the Government has decided to continue to support the supply of books to libraries through the purchase of books from the private sector. This support will be provided through the purchase of books from the private sector through the supply of books to libraries. The Government is committed to ensuring that libraries have access to the books they need to provide their services to the public.
