Marketing Profile

Hobart Brothers of Canada Limited incorporated in 1965 in a small manufacturing facility in Woodstock, Ontario, centrally located in Southern Ontario's heartland. Hobart, once known primarily as a leading manufacturer of arc welding systems and consumables for the welding and metal fabrication trades, has made deliberate efforts to expand its product range and expertise, growing along with the new technologies in welding. Those efforts are mirrored in the growth and variety of the products the company's 115 employees manufacture, market and warehouse, as well as the continuous expansion of the physical facilities that have housed the Canadian headquarters of the company during the past 28 years. Today the diversity of products beyond the welding industry includes thermal arc spraying equipment and consumables, industrial battery charging equipment and the distinction of being one of Canada's largest robotics companies.
