

Brains—Books Instruments

It has been said that the armamentarium of the physician consists of brains, books and instruments.

Supplementing the highly cultivated gifts of Providence and the genius of man, sound Medical literature is a necessary requisite of every practitioner.

During past years it has been our ambition to meet the library needs of the medical profession by disseminating literature which would be appreciated.

The volume of business secured justifies the belief that we have been highly successful in achieving our desires.

We thank you for your patronage.
