

The Post Office Buildings

NEXT to the Parliament Buildings, among its public buildings, Victoria is proud of its Post Office. It is a large and striking pile, accommodating not only the Post Office but the Customs as well. The growth of business in Victoria of late years made necessary a large addition to the original building, and it is now thoroughly well-equipped for all purposes.