season for the agriculturists. The early part of the crop year was decidedly late and cold. This was immediately followed by dry, hot wear ther, which matured those crops which succeeded in being put in in good shape in quick time, and excellent samples of grain will be threshed this season. There will be many drawbacks, but these will be partially made good by the higher prices which will ties. The recent hot, dry weather has had the effect of drying up the pastures, so that it has become difficult to maintain cattle on the farm without adding to the forage provided from classes. the pastures.

The effect of this is that many farmers are already disposing of their surplus cattle, an evidence of which was the large receipts at the Toronto their disposal having been effected owing to the attractive prices for them. | $3.75 per cwt.

The absence of rain has resulted in some of the finest samples of barley being gathered in Ontario for several years, and best of all is the fact that it will be able to be sold at good high prices. The disposal of live stock to which is now going on will undoubt-Sheep and Lambs.
