

AT ODDS IN ARCTIC STORM

Baldwin Offered Choice of Losing Anchor or Bowsprit of the America.

VESSEL NARROWLY ESCAPED ICEBERG.

Swedish Member of Zeigler Party Ascribes Failure to Incompetency of Leaders.

Stockholm, Sept. 3.—The Tidningen to-day publishes a long interview with Captain Dreilick, a Swedish member of the Baldwin-Zeigler Arctic expedition. In this interview Captain Dreilick says the difficulties between Mr. Baldwin and Captain Johansson of the America began at Dundee in a disagreement as to the fitness of the engineer of the vessel. Captain Johansson, according to Captain Dreilick, treated the crew of the America, who made no complaint. Upon arriving at Tromsø, Norway, on the outward trip, Mr. Baldwin proposed to the mate of the ship, this offer was repeated at Vardø and Archangel, but it was always declined. Captain Johansson overworked the crew and Mr. Baldwin did not interfere.

Continuing, the Swedish captain says that one day when the America was surrounded by ice Captain Johansson reasonably refused to anchor, a manoeuvre which, according to the ice pilots, would have been disastrous. A heated controversy then arose between Mr. Baldwin and Captain Johansson, the former insisting that the captain was not master of the America, but only sailing master. Captain Johansson produced his papers to prove that he was master of the ship.

Further trouble arose when the captain wanted certain explosives removed from underneath the cabin. This was violently opposed by Mr. Baldwin, but the explosives were eventually removed as the captain desired.

Climax Reached. The climax was reached one night during a terrible storm. The ship's anchor was dragging and Captain Johansson offered Mr. Baldwin the choice of losing the anchor or the bowsprit. To this Mr. Baldwin answered "Both." The vessel was ordered astern, and the reversing of her engines broke the anchor chain. She narrowly cleared some icebergs, which were descending upon her.

The captain was discharged on March 29, and Mr. Baldwin, who was starting on a sleigh expedition, ordered the crew to obey him, the engineer, the mate and the crew replied that such action would be mutiny, as they had made their contracts with Captain Johansson. Mr. Baldwin then threatened the crew with punishment for mutiny against him, the owner and leader of the expedition.

Captain Johansson advised the crew to avoid trouble. On returning from the sleigh expedition, on May 21, Mr. Baldwin communicated in writing to Captain Johansson the announcement of his discharge, and Captain Johansson requested the mate of the America to take command.

"Knocked" Baldwin. Upon returning to Norway Captain Johansson telegraphed to the agent of Mr. William Zeigler of New York to forward money to Mr. Baldwin. Mr. Zeigler is the financial backer of the expedition. Mr. Baldwin received, however, $10,000, which he deposited in Gothenburg, Sweden, to the credit of the Swedish crew on the America.

The sleigh expedition, referred to above, reached a point within one day's travel of the depot of the Duke of the Abruzzi, but no search was made for the lost sailors of that expedition.

The failure of the Baldwin expedition is ascribed by the American members of the expedition to the terms of the contracts made by the expedition with the newspapers, while the Swedish members were not so bound.

USEFUL ANYWHERE. A gentleman describes how he prevents car sickness. He says: "About a year ago, I took a trip to California for my health. I had suffered greatly while traveling and, food, a friend who knew this advised me to take Grape-Nuts with me."

"During the entire journey of five days I ate nothing but Grape-Nuts, prepared with milk and sugar, and I gained strength steadily, and suffered no illness whatever, besides that the end of the journey, I found to my delight that I had gained five pounds in weight."

"I consider Grape-Nuts the best food in the world. It keeps perfectly, is not bulky and is easily digested, is strength-giving and far preferable in every way to ordinary food."

Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There is one sure way to prove whether or not Grape-Nuts does really build and strengthen the brain. Try it ten days or two weeks. You will know it does, from actual experience, but everyone should make the trial himself.

THE FORESTERS' ARCH IN THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS.

REMINISCENT OF THE 'PAN'

Everybody Still Talking of the Gorgeous Illumination of the Foresters' Temple.

WILL BE REPEATED ON SATURDAY

Arch at Exhibition Grounds a Feature That Attracts Attention of the Visitors.

Visitors who were here on Tuesday are still telling their friends of the illumination of the Temple building, which was a grand sight, appreciated for its magnitude and brilliance, as much by the resident citizens as by the transients, and thoroughly enjoyed by thousands who had no idea that such a thing could be done. It was reminiscent of the Pan-American Exposition, and in its loneliness was even more gorgeous than any individual display at the Fair. So much was public interest been aroused that thousands of citizens and visitors who were sorry they had not the night on Tuesday, will make it their business to be on hand on Saturday night when it will be repeated in all its glory. Expressions of gratification from Lord Dunsford and Dr. Oronhyatekwa were a well-deserved reward to the management of the illumination and there is no doubt that the signal success will be repeated.

The Foresters' arch is one of the features that attract a heap of attention at the Exhibition grounds. Before it was removed to the park it was one of the most striking features of the reception in Toronto to the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and Wales. At the Exhibition grounds it looks more pretentious than it did surrounded by the big buildings at Bay and Richmond streets.

It has been raised several feet higher, and will be a permanent structure hereafter at the Exhibition grounds, as long as a handsome piece of work that there is

PREMIER BOND'S MISSION. State Department Knows Nothing of Reciprocity Convention.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The State Department is without information regarding the visit of Sir Robert Bond, Prime Minister of Newfoundland, to the United States.

On his way to Washington to negotiate a reciprocity convention with the United States, which is still at Bar Harbor, he is coming to discuss questions of any sort, the impression is given that the administration would be surprised if Sir Robert Bond should actually appear just at this time, when so many officials are away.

When and where he is to be met, and when binding agreements could hardly be made between the United States and a British colony. It is the distinguished minister of Newfoundland who came, however, any questions of mutual interest between the country and the colony he represents will be discussed.

He is expected to be met by a delegation of the Newfoundland Association, which will be held in connection with the renewed visit of Premier Bond to the United States. The association has been organized for some time, and its purpose is to bring about a closer relationship between the two countries.

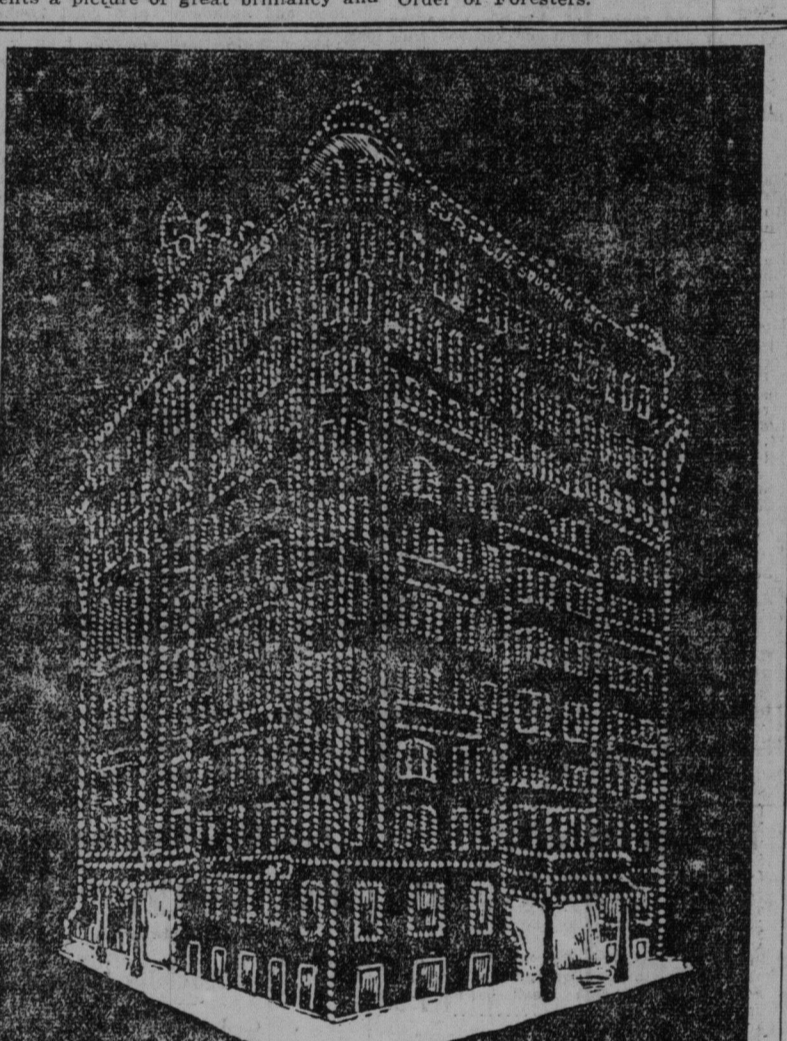

At the present time it is the general impression that Congress having failed to ratify any recent reciprocity conventions, the chances of making any arrangement with Newfoundland will be very small.

beneficial to the United States than what is already guaranteed under the existing modus vivendi are to be made.

Lord Dunsford Departs. The Earl of Dunsford and party left for the east Wednesday morning. Lord Dunsford greatly appreciated the kindness shown him while in this city, and gave a presentation to the Earl of Dunsford, which he would not soon forget the pleasant events, such as the banquet tendered him by Col. Dundas, the exhibition directors, the members of the National Club, and the members of the Scotchmen of the city.

Shipments of Diseased Fruit. T. J. Carey, Dominion Fruit Inspector, says he is going to draw the attention of the government to the evil, in his opinion, of the San Jose scale being spread through the country on peaches. He says he found a number of baskets of peaches on the market here, on Wednesday, which were infested with the scale. The peaches came from Niagara district. He proposes to have an Order-in-Council passed permitting the imposition of a heavy fine for shipments of diseased fruit.

Little reason to imagine that the Exhibition Association would want it removed. The general design of the arch, being bestowed upon it by most of the visitors to the Fair, and is a tribute to patriotism, and from any point of view, a picture of great brilliancy and Order of Foresters.

FORESTERS' TEMPLE ILLUMINATED.

TRAIN FELL 20 FEET. Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 3.—The westbound passenger train on the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad, which was wrecked last night, was a passenger train, and it was a passenger train.

W. J. Gage of this city has presented to the town of Brampton the Elliott property for the purposes of a public park. This desirable property is in the centre of the town, fronting on three streets, and facing the courthouse. On the site is a handsome house, which will probably be dedicated as a Home for Aged Women.

The property was valued at $20,000, and consists of three and a half acres of wooded lands. It is a picturesque spot, and is a very desirable property for the town of Brampton.

Smashed His House. Agram, Hungary, Sept. 3.—Many houses were wrecked and sacked during the night. The rage of the mob was first directed against the house of Captain Vitas, a retired army officer, who, yesterday, fired on the crowd, hitting a man in the breast. His house was smashed.

THEY ASK A PLACE TO SLEEP

Visitors to the Exhibition Are Thick Around the Hotels With Modest Demands.

RESPECTABLE ROOMING PLACES Are Recommended By Some of the Hotels—Fair Crowds Larger Than Usual.

"I can't give you a room, but I can give you a bed," said the hotel clerk at the Palmer House to a lonely looking chap who dropped in at 10.30 Wednesday night.

"I'd like to sleep by myself if I can," ventured the stranger.

"Well, you will have to for there will only be room for one on your bed," was the consoling reply.

Around the numerous hotels last night there was a sincere evidence of lack of accommodation. The cot game has already commenced, and business is being done on the basis that people have to have some place to sleep.

At some of the hotels there is a list of respectable rooming places, but the demand seems to be much greater than the supply. The hotels are full, and the people who are looking for a place to sleep are having a hard time.

The rush is not confined to any particular hotel. It is an invasion which is sweeping over the city, and is being felt in all quarters.

The hotels are full, and the people who are looking for a place to sleep are having a hard time. The demand is so great that the hotels are having to turn away many people who are looking for a place to sleep.
