Games fall into the London's lap like ripe fruit from a tree shaken by the wind. If the Cockneys make errors, it is ten to one their opponents will go them several better. If they fail to hit the ball they are certain of enough chances to keep the bases pretty well occupied, and as their base running is about all that could be desired they find no difficulty in bringing in the necessary runs.

Yesterday's game with St. Thomas was no exception. The Saints had the advantage in batting, but their hits were not timely. Kern, who is something of an idol in St. Thomas, sulking in the second inning because he objected to Umpire Daley's decision on strikes and balls, and walked off the field in a pet, like a spoiled child. Hardy, who has done some brilliant work this season, went into the box, and though he showed great speed and cleverness, was fatally wild at times in both pitching and throwing. Price managed to keep the Saints' hits pretty well scattered, and but for poor support in the eighth inning the visitors might have been kept down to the two runs secured in the third inning. The fielding on both sides was smart and clean, with one or two exceptions. In the eighth, with one man out, McFadden dropped an easy high fly by Reid, and Howell and Frank let another fly from Sullivan drop between them. This was demoralizing. Rodden hit safely, filling the bases; Hardy was hit by a pitched ball, forcing in a run; Sheehan made a beautiful two-bagger, bringing in three more runs.

LOST HIS JOB.

Began to Get Well When He Quit Coffee.

You could not get me to return to coffee after my experience, if you were to give me a gold mine.

Two different physicians who treated me, helped me some, but as soon as I left off the medicines, I went down again. Neither of these doctors told me that coffee was the cause of the trouble.

I was compelled to give up my occupation, and had been for a long time constantly taking medicine of some sort. The trouble was indigestion and constipation, causing loss of sleep, and running me down seriously in weight.

I was discouraged with the drugging and remained ill until I noticed one of your advertisements about how coffee affected some people, then thought I would stop drinking it and see if that might not be the cause of my trouble.

I took to drinking Postum Cereal Food Coffee, and grew to like it very much indeed. As soon as I stopped drinking common coffee I began to get well, and have increased in weight from 140 to 158. Since beginning Postum, I have never taken a pill or any kind of medicine, and I never felt better in my life.

OVER $15,000,000,000

The Amount of Life Insurance in the World—Canadians Carry a Large Quota.

The amount of life insurance in the world is estimated at over $15,000,000,000, of which Canadians carry $370,000,000, or 2.5 per cent of the total.

Man and child in the Dominion. This interesting statement was made by Mr. E. M. Britton, Q.C., M.P., at the recent annual meeting of the Ontario Mutual Life Assurance Company.

We are pleased to note that this statement and distinctively Canadian institution has had a most satisfactory year. The business in 1899 was largely in excess of any other year, the policies issued being 2,354, amounting to $3,750,354. The surplus earned and the amount paid to policyholders were also greater than ever before.

The directors, in their report, comment on the declining earning power of money, but point out that the funds of the company were all well invested, though at a lower rate of interest.

The Ontario Mutual keeps a ratio of revenue as high as, if not higher, than any other company, and much higher than the government standard. The excess in reserve over the government requirements was $168,804 at the close of 1899. In his address, the president, Mr. R. Melvin, dwelt on the scientific principles underlying the purely mutual system.

The success of mutuals has been so pronounced that some of the oldest stock companies are now seeking to give their policyholders a voice, however small, in the election of directors—a right which the members of The Ontario Mutual have enjoyed since its establishment in 1869.

The annual report is published in another column and will be found very instructive. Mr. C. E. German, of 403 Richmond street, is the company's general agent.

FAVOR THE FEE SYSTEM

How a Revenue May Be Raised at the Collegiate Institute.

Board of Education Asked to Charge City Pupils in the Upper School $15 a Year.

It is quite probable that after midsummer only first-year pupils and those attending the commercial classes will get free schooling at the Collegiate Institute. If the recommendation of No. 1 committee of the board of education is carried out, pupils in division 2 of Form I will have to pay $10 a year, and all pupils of the upper school will have to pay $15 a year.

Payment of the $10 fee is to be divided as follows: $4 in September, $3 in January, and $3 at Easter; of the $15 fee, $6 in September, $4 in January, and $5 in Easter.

This was decided last night after a discussion of Chairman Teasdale's inaugural address advising such action. The members present were Messrs. Bayly (chairman), Dr. Campbell, Macpherson, Boyle, Evans, Dr. Teasdale, and Dr. Ziegler, Principal Merchant, and Secretary McElheran.

The annual cost of the London Collegiate Institute is comparatively small, $30,000, and it is expected that considerable revenue will be derived from fees. The number of pupils on the roll in the upper school in April was 316, and the average attendance 281. About 50 of these paid non-resident fees and would not be affected by any new regulations. Allowing for these and the probability of some pupils staying away in event of a fee system being inaugurated, it was estimated that about 200 pupils would pay the $15 fee.

The $10 fee would be paid by about 100 pupils.

No fee is to be placed on division 1 of the lower school, as the work there is practically public school leaving work, which the board is obliged to furnish free. Thus pupils, after passing the entrance examination, will get free schooling for a year.

Mr. Merchant thought that a $15 fee would cut off the attendance about one-third. A $10 fee would, however, affect the attendance very little. That was his experience in other schools.

Some who would be cut off by the fee, Dr. Teasdale thought, might be benefited, as they would no doubt be benefited off at something else. The trouble was, said Mr. Merchant, that the fee would be apt to prevent some of the most brilliant pupils from attending.

In Hamilton the average fee is $10 for the upper school and a revenue of over $5,000 is derived thereby. The number of free schools in the province is 10, while there are 27 fee schools.

He became a terror and a curse to those who looked to him for protection and support, and sank to be a plague, a peril and a burden to society. Is it not strange that men are not roused to even more earnest effort to combat this fearful evil of depraved appetite and to do more than has been done to shield the safe, strengthen the tempted, and reclaim those who have fallen victims to our country's greatest sin and shame?

Samaria Prescription is the antidote of alcohol. It braces and tones the nervous system, cures the inflamed and diseased condition of the stomach and intestines. It tones up the heart, liver and kidneys. It transforms a bloated, shaking wreck into a strong, healthy man.

It is inexpensive—a whole cure won't cost as much as two days' tipping. It's harmless and almost tasteless, and dissolves in any fluid. It is the result of thirty years' experience.

Reader, look back over the years you have passed in pushing your money over bars. Figure up what you've spent in money, in health, happiness, disappointed ambitions and lost opportunities. Estimate, if you can, the cost of your habits to your wife and family.

You may feel discouraged. You have doubtless tried to stop—have stopped and relapsed again. You need help now—it is within your grasp. If you will take the Samaria Prescription as a help you will not fail. It is a liquor antidote. You cannot take them both. Failure is impossible.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, MONTREAL, February 15, 1899.

GENTLEMEN—A profound sense of personal gratitude prompts me to write you regarding the merits of your Samaria Prescription for overcoming and curing the habit of drinking liquor. For many years I have been addicted to going on periodical sprees, when I would lose all control of myself and relapse into a condition unfit for human association. All my efforts to overcome these fits when they came on were unavailing. Recently I was induced to try your Samaria Prescription, in spite of the fact that I had little or no faith in such things. To my amazement I experienced immediate beneficial effects, which not only destroyed all my former craving for stimulants but positively made liquor obnoxious. I feel like a different man. I sleep soundly and enjoy an appetite that is a delight to me. Briefly, I consider your remedy a God-sent and you may use this letter in any way you see fit, not mentioning my name.

Yours sincerely, F. G. F.

A RUINED HOME.

A press despatch from a Western Ontario town, published a few days ago, told an awful tale of mad cruelty and crime. Chas. Hames staggered home at midnight in a fit of fierce drink delirium and announced to his family his intention of setting fire to their dwelling. His wife and children rushed from the house. A daughter, aged fourteen, had not time to dress herself, and outside the house she was seized by her father, who held her till her feet were terribly frozen. Her mother attempted to get the child free and was severely bitten by the drunken ruffian. Yet Charles Hames
