With several teams making incomplete returns and with no reports yet available from the work of the public utilities and industrial employees committee, the total to date of the United Welfare Campaign at the close of the dinner tendered the canvassers by Philip Pocock in the Tecumseh Hotel dednesday night, stood at $93,391.57 wednesday night, stood at $93,331.37, and one perfectly good pig. The pig. originally donated by Harry Bottrill of West, London, through Lieut, H. Lawson, has already brought in $30 in cash to the fund, the amount at which it was auctioned off by Auctioneer John Bridge, to Martin Donahue last night. Mr. Donahue had no fault to find with pig, but felt it wasn't quite fair to e advantage of an amateur, al-ugh promising, auctioneer such as Bridge, and presented it back to Walley. Americal to the Welfare Association, to be reauctioned by a regular auctioner tonight, when it is expected a much larger amount will be realized. Meanwhile piggie is boarding at London's best hotel, and resplendent in red and green ribbons is grunting his appreciation of the honor of doing his oit to put the campaign over the too put the campaign over the top.

The team totals Wednesday aggregated $15,408.75, and the special list canvassers reported $11.851.

J. J. Foote and A. W. White reported very favorable progress in the canvass of employees of the big industrial firms, and the railroads, municiand government offices and other public utilities, but their returns will not be available until the end of the created. Time would be saved both for canvassers and contributors by making only one appeal for all fourteen organizations, and it also embodied a vein of idealism that surely possible. of idealism that surely should provide an inspiration for both giver and canvasser. It was a real evidence of local patriotism, and the success of the campaign would be a gauge of the civic patriotism of London's citizens. It would tend to unite all classes of citizenship into a unity of interest that would prove of inestimable value to both the community and the nation. President George M. Reid emphasized again the importance of getting people again the importance of getting people to subscribe on the monthly payment plan, making their subscriptions as large as they would have given altogether had 14 separate campaigns been conducted. gether had 14 separate campaigns been conducted.

Over the Top.

Rev. Mr. Warner analyzed the meaning of the phrase "over the top." which, strictly speaking, meant climbing the parapet. The campaign went "over the top" on Tuesday. Last night it was struggling with the barbed wire entanglements in front of the last trenches to be taken. But a great deal of "mopping up" work remained to be done. With the bildog tenacity characteristic of the British breed, the campaign must be stuck to until it was entirely cleaned up and the full objective passed, he declared. All the fourteen organizations for which the appeal was made cheerfully made out their budgets and agreed to the cutting of their budgets before they were indorsed by the budget committee. Many of these organizations had strong constituencies behind them. In justice to of these organizations had strong constituencies behind them. In justice to them the campaign must be entirely successful. The only difficulty to be overcome was the unreadlness of the individual contributor to make a budget of his giving and subscribe all at once all that he would give were he canvassed a dozen times.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Pocock, the host of the evening, was moved by Prof. Sherwood Fox, of the Western Living To Sherwood Fox of the Western Living Liverpool. May 8.—Hame State.

New York, May 6-Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Sentiment among traders con-tinued confident at the opening of today's stock market, with steels, equip-ments, oils and food shares again lead-ing the movement. Rails also reflected ing the movement. Rails also reflected improved transportation conditions with shippings. Early gains in Vanadium, Republic, Baldwin Locomotive, American Car, Allis-Chalmers, Food Products and American Sugar extended from 1 to 1½ points. Firm features of the railroad division included Archison. Rock Island and St. Paul. The further advance was attributed less to actual advance was attributed less to actual buying than covering of short contracts. further upward tendencies, during the morning. Tobacco, chemical, leather and other specialties recorded materially higher prices. United States Steel made little headway, but Crucible Steel and Pennsylvania Seaboard, Atlantic-Gulf, United States Realty, Barrett Company, Tobacco Products and Lorrilard Tobaccc gained 3 to 6 points. Consolidated Gas rose 3 points on news of a favorable level decision, and Endicott-Johson's legal decision, and Endicott-Johson's 6½-point rise followed announcement of a stock dividend. Oils were the only active issues to lag. Call money opened at 7 per cent, but higher rates are expected over the week-end.

1:30 p.m.—Oil shares threw off their apathy at midday, Royal Dutch and Shell Transport displaying especial strength. Motors and equipments also improved on buying of Pierce-Arrow and New York Air Brake. Gains among the specialties were augmented by an in-quiry for Virginia-Carolina Chemical and National Aniline
