Mabee is Now Chairman of the Railway Board Begins Duties at Once

Hon. Justice Leaves Ontario High Court Bench For the Greater Responsibilities of the Commission.

ONLY MAN WHO WAS ASKED IS MR. GRAHAM'S TRIBUTE

Bearing out The World's exclusive-if premature-announcement of two weeks ago, the appointment of Justice J. P. Mabee as chief commissioner of the Dominion Railway Board is now officially announced.

Hon. G. P. Graham confirmed the news of the appointment over the long distance phone from his residence at Brockville, where he was spending Sunday.

"There was a general idea that if he would accept it he would be a first-class man for the position, I think we have got a good man," Mr. Graham concluded.

Removing Objections. Hon. Mr. Graham was in Toronto during last week and he was probably overcoming some of the objections which it was known Mr. Mabee had to leave the Ontario high court bench for the higher, but more onerous duties.

When spoken to by The World a fortnight ago, Mr. Mabee seemed genuinely surprised that his name was connected with the vacancy occasioned by the death of the late Justice Kilham, and which Mr. Mabee attributed primarily to the strain of the work the late chairman had been performing.

Justice Kilham accepted the chairmanship of the act was changed so as to allow him to carry his retiring allowance after fifteen years of combined service on the bench and on the commission.

Hon. Dr. Mills Compliments. Hon. Dr. Mills and Chief Engineer Mountain of the railway commission returned to Ottawa last night in the official car.

The doctor was somewhat surprised and wanted to know when the appointment was made and if it was beyond doubt.

"While on this trip, which included visits to Peterboro, Toronto, Ingersoll, Chatham and Guelph, I have been repeatedly questioned by the legal profession whether the rumor was appointed to the head of the board.

"The position of chief, continued the doctor, 'requires a man who is a worker, and who at the same time possesses the highest executive ability, with a knowledge of railroad business, with a knowledge of railroad business.'

BYLAW QUASHED APPEAL IN DOUBT

Looks as Tho License Reduction Will Be Left to the Will of the People After All.

While perhaps not altogether a bolt from the blue, the decision of Chief Justice Meredith on Saturday, quashing the city council's license reduction bylaw, created more than a mere flutter of interest throughout the city Saturday afternoon.

Controlleur Spence and prominent reductionists inside and outside the city council express surprise and disappointment, but not discouragement, while in some quarters feeling akin to confidence is expressed that the ruling of the chief justice will be over-ridden by a higher court.

From the statements of Controlleur Spence, Ald. Hales, Keeler and other prominent reductionists it is made clear that present hopes are altogether pinned to the prospect that a higher court may reverse judgment.

There is some for Controlleur Spence, Hooke and Harrison in the judge's decision, confirming them in their wish, but as the chief justice's remarks had pretty plainly foreshadowed such a finding, the relief is not so pronounced.

The bylaw being now dead, Aid. Whytock's motion to rescind it will be struck off the order paper, and the question of license reduction remains quashed, so that the question may go before the voters next January free from the taint of trickery and intrigue.

It would be surprising if such a motion is brought up, said Controlleur Fickler last night. "I don't think it is necessary for council to put itself on record, but it is more desirable than that the board of control alone should take action."

It seems likely, however, that under all the circumstances council will not be averse to trying the matter again, so that the question may go before the voters next January free from the taint of trickery and intrigue.

The question has arisen whether the license commission will feel a free hand to receive official notification from the city of the quashing of the bylaw, the Chairman Emmerson, of Oswego, who asked whether such formal notice would be needed, said he didn't think so.

"I can't speak for my colleagues, but I take it for granted that as the bylaw is quashed we are not under instructions to cut off the licenses," he said.
