CATTLE MARKET WEAK CEREAL CROPS ARE WITH SOME HELD OVER

Lambs Trifle Firmer and Caives Are Easier.

The run of live stock at the Union Yards continues comparatively light, but there are more than ample for all the requirements of the trade. Except for the better class of butchers trade is very weak, and the 700 or 800 held over cattie in the yards are mighty hard to cash in. There is a fair demand for the breedy class of stockers and feeders and good milkers and feeders find a satisfactory sale, but the in between class of cattle, neither one thing nor other are as already stated, mighty hard to sell.

Practically all the big plants are getting heavy shipments of western cattle consigned right thru, and this, of course, tends of weaken the whole undertone. It looks as the we would have a light run for the bilance of the week and probably for the next fortnight.

In the small stuff the lamb trade was a shade firmer, a number of bunches selling at 14c straight, tho with a lot of lambs still unsold the market could not very well be called much firmer. The sheep held about steady and calves were if anything a shade weaker.

The hog market seems to have adjust-

If anything a shade weaker.

The hog market seems to have adjusted itself to the new 500 decline, 18% of and 19% c, and weak at that. From all that can be gathered the outlook for the hog trade is none to promising.
