The whole school had the practical rather than the theoretic attitude, and the course fills the need of the man rather than the demands of the curriculum. Dr. Balliet on his recent visit to To-ronte, said of this branch of the Association's Educational Work: "Men en-gaged in their vocations often want gaged in their vocations often want to further training. It is not disclosed what the nature of the "satisfactory reply" was in each case, but it is remarked that in most cases of a similar nature, if the law of cause and effect was allowed to work unhampered, the department at Wash-ington would be busy with official de-capitations. No one seeks to blame the United States law; that matter is not the business of Canada, but when de-cent citizens of this country are held cent citizens of this country are held up at the border and subjected to an-noying and impertinent questions by a lot of ambitious young men, whose zeal runs away with their wisdom, it

A Case in Point.

Consider a case like this. A woman of good Canadian parentage is widowed. The shock is sudden and severe. Her health is affected and a change is necessary. Gathering up a few clothes, with two small children, she seeks a warmer climate. She has plenty of money, there is no sign of poverty. money; there is no sign of poverty. They reach the border and the immigration official gets in his fine work. Who is the lady? Where does she come from? How long a widow? Where going? What object? How many children? All the harrowing details of her sorrow are brought afresh to the mind. The official has a domineering attitude, and the children are upset. is a delicate, high strung we

What is anyone to do under such circumstances? This is what happened to an Englishman en route to New York, when accosted by an immigration official at Bridgeburg. Probably the Englishman was crusty; certainly he knew little about immigration of-ficials. He was accosted by that functionary with these words: That was enough. "All right," replied the official, conscious of his power Probably by the time the train had crossed Niagara River and reached Black Rock, the incident had been for Black Rock, the incident had been forgotten by the trayeler. Not so with the other. The train was suddenly ordered to stop, and Mr. Englishman was compelled to step into the immigration office. Here he was subjected to an ordeal. On almost every point connected with his life he was asked order changeth, giving place questions. Nothing was too embarrassing for the official to probe into. The Indignities on Travelers. From the Pacific coast comes the far cry of indignities heaped upon travelers. Passengers from the "Empresses" crossing into the State of Washington, have been detained on one technical pretext or another. An English lady touring the world wished to visit old friends in St. Louis. She did not know definitely their whereabouts. She only had the address of a certain bank where she expected to get directions

Two Tourists Held Up. This man was not severe. He mere-

One was going to New York to consult a specialist for a severe affliction. The other was going along as help and for company. Said the official: "You are not bona fide travelers. I cannot accept your story. It looks suspicious. You will have to give a better explanation." It was only after considerable remonstrance and even threats on the part of American citizens before the pair was released, and it is said a sharp letter from his superiors at Washington gave him a better conception of his cities. duties.

These are a few of the incidents which have come to light recently in view of certain complaints which have originated over the conduct of the U. S. immigration officials at Port Huron and Sarnia. Many more could be recited. Women have been roused at the dead of night from berths in Pullman cars. Sleeping children have been frightened. Men have been almost insulted, when under ordinary conditions the remarks of the officer would have been resented, and the arbitrament of force would have demanded a retraction. But nothing can be done, as the case of the Findlehman at as the case of the Englishman at Black Rock would have been enacted over and over again. It is this trait of character which lies at the basis of progress, and is the peculiar genius of the American people.

All know business houses that have "run half way up the hill and then sat down to rest," and usually it will be found that the obstructing the inability to grasp the idea of the latest invention in their business, an invention which in itself might seem unimportant, but which often gives the competitor that small margin of profit which enables him to do business just one month longer than those who have not been able to assimilate the new idea. The problem of the modern mechanic, then, is the problem of grasping and understanding with rapidity the very latest in applied science, which means the problem of How can the man, who has spent rears in following out the old process,

This experiment will always interest the children, and will provoke a good deal of thinking. The explanation of course, is, that the lighted piece of paper which is inserted into the inverted glass drives out most of the air, so that when the mouth of the glass is quickly put down into the water there is very little air, and, consequently, very little pressure above the water within the glass. Hence, the weight or pressure of the air on the water outside the glass drives the water up into the glass to occupy the space from whence the air was driven by the burning paper. his own personal technical education and whose mind has been moulded to a certain system, train himself to make rapid changes and to grasp quickly any new idea which may affect his business? All authorities agree that in every case of women's disorders there exists a congested condition of the womanly organs. The circulation in these parts is sluggish or stagnant, and the result is that the broken-down tissue or waste matter which should be carried off if the blood was circulating freely, remains in these parts, causing inflammation, irritation, oppression of the nerves, etc. ORANGE parts, causing inflammation, irritation, oppression of the nerves, etc. ORANGE in the internally, but is applied direct to the suffering organs. It is absorbed into the circulation and its antiseptic properties at once act on the waste matter referred to above. The consequence is that this waste matter, which is causing the inflammation, ulcers, nervous troubles, etc., begins to be discharged, and it continues to be discharged until all the foreign matter is removed from the circulation. At the same time the blood vessels and nerves are toned and strengthened, the nervous trouble disappears, the circulation is restored and good health follows. Dear Mrs. Currah.—I wish to tell you that Orange Lily is doing me a great deal of good. Those ulcers come away one or two every week, and I have less pain and fewer headaches.
