QUENCHED THIRST AND BURGLARY WENT SMASH

New York, April 24.—Prohibition is interfering seriously with the passion of burglary. The other night two expert cracksmen entered the home of Mrs. Josephine Gendles, St. Nicholas avenue, and did up all the loose valuables in neat bundles ready to carry away. Just as they were about to leave, one of them chanced to open a sideboard door. Inside were four quart bottles, all nearly full. There was one of vermouth, one of whiskey, one of gin and one of brandy. The burglars decided to linger a little. When they finally left all four bottles were empty.

Chanting praise of the flowing bowl at the top of their lungs, the pair staggered downstairs. In the lobby of the apartment house they were stopped by a gathering of citizens attracted by the clamor, and handed over to the police.

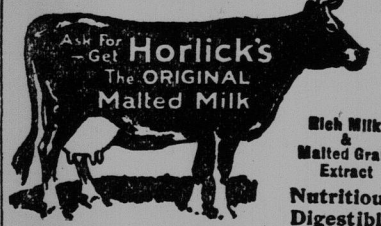

The Women's Institute held a successful sale in their Union street rooms yesterday. All kitchen utensils and equipment used for domestic science demonstrations were sold. Mrs. Walter H. ENFORCEMENT OF PROHIBITION

Rev. A. S. Bishop's Remarks in Sermon on Some Local Conditions.

"What the Gospel Demands of Us in the Enforcement of Prohibition" was the subject on which Rev. A. S. Bishop preached in the Fairville Baptist church on last Sunday.

Gospel Christians, he said, do not have a choice in the matter of enforcing or not enforcing prohibition; the gospel demands that they enforce. Recent shipments of liquor here, he said, make enforcement urgent. In the three months of January, February and March, the official figures are that 1805 cases of liquor were shipped into St. John, the larger part of which probably came from Quebec. These cases contained 19200 bottles of liquor and would do a good deal towards making St. John "wet" and towards encouraging the "shinny" in the city. Recently a large shipment of liquor arrived in port in the "Cabotia." One individual estimated her cargo at 2000 cases. Those who handle cases of liquor have been known, according to frequent reports, in a good many instances to show an inspired genius in causing cases to disappear. So bold has this become that men have exhibited bottles publicly in the street and in electric cars. Even preachers have received letters from Halifax and Montreal offering $2500 for a case of Whiskey at $24 a case; also "Moreland Dew," Old Scotch, at $21 a case.

This, he said, is followed up by a St. John paper exhibiting headlines calling those who demand that the law be enforced "radicals," our government in this respect a meddling busy body; and the guardians of the law "spies." Men in the street and even to members of the legislature have been heard to retail stories, the effect of which is to discredit the law.

Those who stand for prohibition, for a clean progressive province, he said, can do much to "talk up" the law; to refute the kind of superficial talk mentioned; and to assist the inspectors in getting information and even in prosecuting cases. Business men and professional men ought not to feel that it is not "their place" to provide information but to feel the full responsibility for enforcement. The inspectors' work of enforcement is one of the most difficult things imaginable, and a very large share of their effectiveness depends upon voluntary support. Those who peddle criticism upon them derived either directly or indirectly from those who "like their liquor," were doing something which was pure folly. The most effective weapon of enforcement required at present is the prohibition of shipments from Quebec and other points to private individuals. On April 14 a delegation of the Temperance Alliance and the ministers of the province waited upon the members of the legislature in the interests of the prohibition of inter-provincial shipment. A safe majority of the house stated themselves as willing to request the dominion government to submit a referendum to the people of the province on this point. Thus the prospect was hopeful that the present violation of the temperance law by private shipments would be stopped. New Brunswick at the polls had always proven herself overwhelmingly in favor of prohibition. Therefore prohibition

HOME GROWN VEGETABLES.

Hundreds of families in the North End and vicinity will be interested in Messrs. Armstrong & Bruce's advertisement on page 17. This firm has decided in response to a quite general demand to open a portion of Portland Place for garden plots this spring. The situation of the property within two or three minutes' walk of the most crowded districts of the city where the home garden is an impossibility, and the fertile character of the soil, make it ideal for such a purpose.

The wide patronage the city garden plots on the Mahogany road have had from the people of Fairville and vicinity will no doubt be repeated on a much larger scale here. Every family has at least one member who feels the lure of the soil. The present cost of living and the exorbitant price of potatoes and vegetables, necessities of every table, will be an additional incentive, so the offer of this firm may well be an important economic factor in the budgets of hundreds of people in the North End and other parts of the city this year.
