I had intended to bid farewell to politics, and not to present myself again as a Candidate; but my friends would not consent and I now, perhaps for the last time, ask your suffrages.

You all know me. I have lived among you from childhood, and I can only say, that if I have the honor of being returned, I will try and do my duy as your Representative, in the truest liberal sense of the term, and not by lip-profession. If I am not returned, I will always meet on the same friendly terms which have hitherto marked our intercourse, these who have conscientiously and honorably opposed me.
