book itself is the report of an address delivered to students at Northfield, Mass., and has been published in several foreign languages. The edition published by James Post & Co., 14 and 16 Astor Place, N. Y., is the only authorized one. It will do you one good to read it, and all who have read 'Natural Law in the Spiritual World' know that Henry Drummond's work is thoughtful, powerful and convincing.

After the unexpected close of the O'Shea-Parnell divorce case, in which Mr. Parnell, although represented by counsel, made no defence, the great question of the restoration of the Home Rule party in the British House of Commons has attracted world-wide attention. The fact that Parnell makes no attempt to deny his guilt and, at the same time, has boldly claimed to retain his leadership of a party who are appealing for the rights of the Irish people on purely moral grounds, astonishes almost everybody, and the press despatches on the subject are the absorbing news of the hour.

From a number of sources of these, which indicate what the views on all sides are:— LONDON, Nov. 23.—A national meeting was held in the committee rooms of the House of Commons to-day. Every national-ist member in town was present. The room was crowded. Mr. Power, Chief Nationalist whip, presided. Parnell was cheered as he entered the committee room. The general impression throughout was that Parnell should be asked to preside, as usual. When the members had assembled, Mr. McCarthy's proposal that Power be made chairman was accepted. The sitting was private.

It is announced that Parnell will retain the leadership at the express desire of his followers. Parnell held a conference with Justice McCarthy this forenoon in one of the rooms of the parliament building. During the conference Parnell handed to Mr. McCarthy a bundle of papers containing memoranda for his guidance as sessional chairman of the Irish party.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—At the request of Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Morley has communicated to Mr. Parnell the following letter written Monday:— "Dear Mr. Morley—Having arrived at a certain conclusion with regard to the resignation of Mr. Parnell's leadership of the Irish party, I have sent Mr. McCarthy my answer in a letter, and have inquired from him whether I am likely to receive from Mr. Parnell himself any communication on the subject.

Mr. McCarthy replies that he is unable to give me any information, I mentioned to him that in 1882, after the terrible murders in Phoenix Park, Mr. Parnell, although totally removed from any idea of responsibility, had endeavored to have himself elected to the leadership of the party, and offered to take the Children's Hospital, an offer much to his honor, but which I thought it my duty to decline.

"While obliging to the hope of a communication from Mr. Parnell, to whom, ever addressed, I thought it necessary, viewing the arrangements for the commencement of the session tomorrow, to acquaint Mr. McCarthy with the contents of my letter after using all the means of observation and reflection in my power, I had myself arrived.

"It was that, notwithstanding the special services rendered by Mr. Parnell to his country, his conduct at the present moment in the leadership would be productive of consequences disastrous to the highest degree to the cause of Ireland. I think I may be warranted in asking you to so far expand the conclusions given above as to add that Mr. Parnell's conduct as a leader would not only place many hearty and effective friends of the Irish cause in an embarrassing position, but would, under my relation of the leadership of the Irish party, based as it has been mainly upon the prosecution of the Irish cause, almost a mill.

"The expansion of my view I begged Mr. McCarthy to regard as confidential and intended for his colleagues generally, if he found that Mr. Parnell contemplated positions of action, but I also suggested that he would make known to the Irish party, at their meeting tomorrow, that such was my opinion if he should find that Mr. Parnell had not in contemplation any step of the nature indicated.

"I now write you, in case Mr. McCarthy should be unable to communicate with Mr. Parnell, as I understand you may possibly have an opening to-morrow through another channel. Should you have such an opening, I beg you to make known to Mr. Parnell the conclusion stated in this letter. I have thought it best to put in terms simple and direct, much as I should have liked, had I been in a position to do so, to have laid in my power, to alleviate the personal nature of the situation as respects the manner of conveying what my public duty has made it an obligation to say. I rely entirely upon your good feeling and judgment in the event of the occasion—my only wish being to see Mr. Parnell's name disappear.

A DEAP-LOCK. LONDON, Nov. 30.—Though last night Mr. Parnell refused to call a meeting of the Irish members of the House of Commons, a meeting was held in the House to-day. Thirty-eight Parnellite members signed the request for the meeting, complaining that they were not informed of all facts in connection with Mr. Gladstone's attitude towards Parnell, as set forth in his letter to Mr. Morley, when they voted yesterday to support Mr. Parnell in the leadership of the Irish party. The action of Mr. McCarthy is not making known the contents of Mr. Gladstone's letter at the meeting of the Parnellites yesterday morning was severely criticized. A majority of the Nationalist members present at the meeting last night said they had believed previous to the meeting that Mr. Parnell, after his election, would take an active part in politics for a few months. They now believe that Mr. Gladstone's letter had been read at the meeting, and that the result of the motion to resign Parnell in the leadership would have been different. The room was carefully guarded from intrusion, a member of Parliament standing guard. Mr. Parnell was present and presided. After calling the roll, Mr. Parnell explained that he had reconsidered his determination and had called the meeting at the request of the members of the party. The meeting lasted half an hour. Parnell's speech gave no indication that he intended to alter his decision to retain the leadership.

STRAIGHT SQUAD IN THE LOBBY. In the lobby in the House of Commons to-day nothing was being talked about but Mr. Parnell's resignation.

At the Nationalist meeting Messrs. Barry and Connolly were the first speakers to urge Parnell to resign. Mr. McCarthy followed with an eloquent and impassioned appeal in behalf of Parnell, upon whose sacrifices for the Irish cause he laid the greatest stress. But Gladstone's letter to Morley had materially changed the situation, and McCarthy's appeal failed of its desired effect. Mr. Sexton spoke 40 minutes. Mr. Lane appealed to Parnell to think of the Irish tenants who were waiting anxiously for a change of Government to improve their position. At the 5 o'clock meeting Mr. Sheehy adopted the same line as Mr. Lane and asked Parnell to reconsider his position if it were only for the sake of the evicted tenants in Tipperary, who were waiting for the restoration of their homes. All the speakers differed eloquently upon Parnell's past services.

John O'Connor spoke strongly in favor of Parnell's retaining the leadership. Several members objected to postponing the decision until Monday, but a majority favored a postponement. It is stated that at the mid-day meeting of the Parnellites at least 50 favored retaining Parnell as leader. Several others, however, and a majority of the Parnellites, were ready to present them in the event of a decision that Parnell should remain. In the latter case a meeting of the Liberalists was to be called to express confidence in Gladstone and to appeal to him to continue as leader of the latter.

United Ireland says: "The decision of Mr. Gladstone and other most faithful friends of the cause of Home Rule alters the situation. It is useless for us to set our eyes to the fact that their defection will indefinitely prolong the reign of coercion in Ireland and postpone the triumph of the Home Rule movement. Only fidelity to Ireland overrides fidelity to Parnell." After paying a tribute to Parnell's services to the cause the paper expresses great regret at the absence of Messrs. O'Brien and O'Connell, whose opinion, it says, would have been much sought.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A reporter called on William O'Brien to-night and presented a telegram stating that the assembled Nationalists in London were expecting to hear from the delegates in America before the meeting adjourned. Mr. O'Brien said the subject was delicate one, and he did not wish to express himself further than what was contained in the following despatch, which he sent this afternoon to his friends on the other side.

"In view of our obligations to Mr. Gladstone, the interest of our cause and the responsibilities we have contracted to the Irish tenant on the faith of a general election fought in cordial alliance with the Liberal party, I would earnestly recommend the party to open immediate friendly communications with Mr. Gladstone." Mr. O'Brien added that he had wired Mr. Dillon the substance of his remarks.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The Executive Committee of the Liberal Federation at a meeting adopted a resolution expressing its commiseration with Mr. Gladstone's attitude towards the question of the Irish leadership and assuring him of its hearty confidence. The Liberal Federation Committee is receiving from the Provincial Liberal Associations a deluge of letters and telegrams protesting against Parnell's remaining at the head of the Nationalist party. Many of the Nationalist members of parliament are greatly annoyed at Parnell's ungracious treatment of Gladstone.

Many of the Nationalist members of parliament are greatly annoyed at Parnell's ungracious treatment of Gladstone.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Mr. Parnell has issued the following manifesto:— "To the Irish People. The integrity and independence of a section of the Irish Parliamentary party having been separately and destroyed, the wisest policy of the liberal party, it has become necessary for me, as leader of the Irish party, to take counsel with you, and having given you the knowledge which is in my possession to ask your judgment upon a matter which now so fully devolves upon you to decide.

Letter from Mr. Gladstone to Mr. Morley, written for the purpose of influencing the decision of the Irish party in the choice of their leader, and claiming for the liberal and their leaders the right of veto upon the choice of the Nationalist party. The thrust in that letter, repeated so insistently by the Liberal party, has been a source of annoyance to the Irish party, and has been a source of annoyance to the Liberal party, and has been a source of annoyance to the Liberal party.
