There was a big audience at the opera Saturday night to see "Billee Taylor"; the Dalhousie students and the Wanders were present in force, and cheered each other between the acts; the performers wore red and black and vellow and black ribbons, and the Comedians cracked jokes on football.

The company gave an excellent performance, though it was the first they had ever appeared in the opera. Manager Clarke's request for the ladies to remove their hats was granted by a large number and it would seem, to see a lady wearing a hat in the Academy will soon become a rare sight.
