

"Gibet  Regina."

QUEEN HOTEL.

HALIFAX, N. S.

[BOSTON DAILY TRAVELLER, August 19th, 1893.]

We made our home at the QUEEN during our stay in the city, and feel that we made a wise choice. The QUEEN is just the place where rest, entertainment and comfort may be found in their ideals. There are three features that commend the QUEEN to the popular favor of the travelling public: Clean beds in large and comfortable rooms; a fine table spread with the delicacies and luxuries, as well as the substantial of the season; and the hearty greeting and whole-souled hospitality of the management. I have never met with hotel people in a large city who were more attentive to the little things that make for the pleasure and comfort of guests than the host of the QUEEN. The hotel is centrally located on Hollis Street, near the business centre, and within a few steps of the Canada, Atlantic & Plant Steamers' wharf.
