

1853. 10th Month, OCTOBER, Begins on Tuesday.

Still, this fair flower, to young affection dear,
 If once enshrined within a faithful breast,
 Oh, never to the heart that lov'd sincere,
 Can other blossoms be as fondly pressed.
 Yet when the garden's loveliness is past,
 We look upon the forest's towering pride,
 Which, though we know too soon must meet the blast,
 We breathe a fervent wish to hope allied—
