"That no girl under 16, or boy under 12, be allowed on the streets after nine o'clock, p. m. except in the company of their parents or some responsible person." This is a resolution passed by an association for the prevention of crime in Ontario. The association met in Guelph recently and this is one of the resolutions passed. It bears out the idea that the wrong doing committed in after life is learned by the boys and girls who are allowed to roam the streets till all hours of the night. They recognize it is a draw back to the morality of the country. Many towns are taking up the matter and are passing bylaws which cover this resolution and are going to see that they are strictly enforced.

Hidden in the steam of his own locomotive, Hugh D. Cameron C. P. R. engineer, aged 28, stepped from his engine on to a parallel track at Boyce avenue, Toronto on Thursday, and was instantly killed by an engine of the Teeswater-bound train. He was almost decapitated and both legs were broken.

Mr. Alfred Booth, of Toronto, has entered action against the Toronto General Hospital and Dr. I. H. Cameron to recover $5000 damages for having performed what he terms an unnecessary operation in April by the cutting out of a large thyroid gland. His claim states that since that time he has been afflicted with apoplexy.

Not satisfied with his name, and objecting to it principally because the young woman to whom he is engaged declared that they can never wed unless it is changed, John Rubberneck, of Omaha, has applied to the court to have it decreed that henceforth he shall be known as John R. Neck. Rubberneck is a prosperous business man, a partner of a brother, who had his name changed from Rubberneck to Ruckeck.

A murder mystery in New Kirk, Oklahoma, which had been puzzling the police for some time, was cleared up recently in a startling manner. Two brothers named Taylor Shepherd and J. W. Shepherd, where found dead with their skulls split, and although the crime had evidently been committed with an axe, which was lying near the bodies, there was no clue to the perpetrator. Now, however, Ebby Shepherd the thirteen-year old daughter of Mr. Taylor Shepherd, has confessed that she killed her father and uncle. The child says that on the night of the murder her father thrashed her, and while they were asleep she slipped out of bed and, seizing an axe, brained them both.

There are two ways of spending a dollar. You can spend it at home, gain an easy conscience, make another friend and perhaps get the doll for your neighbor; or you can send it to a merchant, and forever lose the dollar and the blessed influence for good to yourself and neighbor.

Young turkeys brought from 25 to 30 cents a pound at Toronto this week, while young chickens were valued at 17c older ones at 14c, and ducks at 90c a piece. Eggs appear to be scarcer, and 25c a dozen was not hard to obtain. Good cauliflower at $1 a dozen and other timely vegetables seemed fairly plentiful. Ripe tomatoes were 30c a basket. Pork was reduced at several outside points in sympathy with Toronto. Wito this exception, the prices seemed to be firmer all round, and yet the supply in a great many instances was quite equal to the demand.

Rotten Eggs.

Complaints have been heard both this year and last from all parts of the country, regarding the sale of rotten eggs. It might seem severe to enact a law making the sale of such eggs illegal, but something should be done to overcome the present difficulty. City consumers object most strenuously to paying twenty or thirty or forty cents a dozen for eggs of uncertain age, many of which are actually rotten. Money is not so plentiful that it can be thrown away on rotten eggs.

In this business the dealer who has the greatest loss because of the large numbers of eggs he handles, must, if he is to continue in business, cut both ways. He must pay less to the producer and charge more to the consumer. The evil effects of such a policy are apparent. The poultry business is seriously injured, while regular consumers of poultry produce are reduced to the minimum number.

It is about time that this whole question should be taken up and discussed, with a view to reaching some plan of action that will be more just to all parties concerned. Every one is agreed that the produce dealer who sells rotten eggs to the groceries direct or to the consumers should be severely punished. But the dealer does not produce the eggs. Wherein does he receive justice? Certainly a law that would punish the dealer and allowed the producer to go free would be wholly unfair. Selling rotten eggs, whether to the dealer or to the grocery or to the consumer is small business. It is mean. It is dishonest.

One of the Mildmay merchants some time ago had forty dozen of stale eggs pawned off on him. These had been held over for a couple of months to get the higher prices.

The Contrast.

The farmer, in his pasture steep, has reared a flock of healthy sheep. He takes his trusty shears and axe, and cuts the wool off their broad backs, and then he takes the wool to town, and for it gets some roubles down, and then the children have new-hats, the daughter blows themselves for rats. The wool is taken to the mill that toots his whistle on the hill and dyes dye, and carders card, and weavers weave it by the yard. And tailors make it into suits which clothe the forms of rich galoots. And hands are busy, larders full, because the farmer raised his wool. And homes are bright, and children play as happy as the livelong day, and busy housewives cease to weep, because the farmer sheared his sheep. The statesman tours across the land, and scatters words on every hand, he tells the people they're oppressed, their rights all driven galley west; they euchered are by sinful games; whatever is, is wrong he claims. As though to stir rebellion sent, he sows the seed of discontent. Which is the better friends to keep, the farmer with his flock of sheep, or he who makes no wheels go round, but fills the land with empty sound.

Why the Child Didn't Cry.

Canon Rhodes Bristow, who is to succeed Canon Benham as chairman of the Poor Clergy Relief Corporation, has had a large and varied experience of life in the underworld of London.

He once had an amusing experience at a christening. Infants usually cry while going through this ceremony, but this one was as quiet as a lamb. Throughout it smiled cheerfully in the Canon's face. "Madam," he remarked later to the young mother. "I must congratulate you on the little one's behavior. I have never before christened a child that has behaved so well as yours."

"No wonder he behaved well," was the unexpected reply, "his father and I have been practicing on him with a pail of water for the last ten days."

LIVE STOCK MARKETS. TORONTO.

The railways reported 105 carloads of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 1846 cattle, 1145 hogs, 2047 sheep and lambs, with 150 calves.

There were only a few really good cattle on sale, the bulk being of the common and medium classes.

Trade was fairly good all round at about the same prices as paid at the Junction on Monday for the same quality.

Butchers—Prime picked cattle sold at from $5.75 to $6, but we only heard of one choice heifer bringing the latter price. Loads of good, $5 25 to $5 55; medium $4 90 to $5 15; common $4 50 to $5; cows, $3 to $4 85; canners, $2 to $2.50; bulls, $3 50 to $4 50.

Feeders—Feeders of good quality sold readily at steady prices. Steers, 900 to 1050 lbs. sold at $5 25 to $5 55; steers, 800 to 900 lbs., each, at $4 80 to $5; stockers $4 25 to $4 75.

Milkers and Springers—Montreal and Quebec buyers were on deck, again today, paying some high prices. The general range of figures was from $50 to $80 with one choice Holstein at $90.

Veal Calves—One hundred and fifty veal calves sold at $3 to $8 50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs—Sheep, ewes, sold at $4 50 to $5 per cwt.; rams, $3 to $3 50; lambs sold at from $5 00 to $6 35.

Pigs—Receipts of 1145 hogs sold as follows; Selects, fed and watered, at $8 25, and $7 90 to drovers, f.o.b. cars at country points.

Timothy Mitchell, of Owen Sound, will have to pay $100 for ringing a bell which warned the bartender in the Central Hotel in that town that the license inspector was approaching.

A Queer Old World, This.

This is a sort of topsy turvy world. No one seems to be satisfied. One man is saving up to buy a house and another is trying hard to sell his dwelling for less than it cost to get rid of it. One man is spending all the money he can earn in taking a girl to the shows and sending her valuable presents in hopes that he may eventually make her his wife, and his neighbor is spending all the gold he has saved trying to get a divorce. One man keeps a pistol to protect himself aimself against burglars, while his neighbor doesn't keep one for fear of shooting himself or some member of his family. One man pays for his paper in advance because he can read it with greater relish, while another takes it for a long time without paying one cent and is enjoying it hugely all the while. Surely a queer old world this is.
