It was stated at the time of the very of the body, that, on the superior pormusual appearance of a growth of hair on the o, part of which had been evidently singed or otherwise destroyed. Here was a most remarkable cline to the identity; but, strange to easy, not one particle of evidence was produced to show, on the trial, that Dr. Parkman, when alive, had this strange peculiarity; had he had it, surely it must have been known to his brothers and to finding himself from accusations advanced by secret enemics, as an arbitrary, unconstitutional, other members of his family. The sext thing that strikes us is, granting the hody, or rather portions of body, found, to be Dr. Parkman's, the want of proof that Dr. Webster was the slayer: What, again, are the facts 1 Dr. Parkman is seen going into the Medical College at a certain hour, and it is alleged by the prosecution that he was never seen to leave it, or seen again alive, though seven witnesses, whose respectability and credibility is not impeached swear they saw him afterwards; but we will put and proved, that Dr. Webster appointed a meeting with Dr. Parkman at the College at the alleged hour, and it is broadly asserted that he invited him there with the premeditated purpose there to slay him. Now will any one in his sen believe that, if one of the lecturers at McGill College had a grudge against the editor of this paper, and withed to deliver himself of his grudge by a foot assassination, he would invite him to McGill College, and let the invitation he known, at an hour when the place was full of students, and slay him there? If Dr. Webster did this, he be mad, mad outright, and, therefore, not a subject for the gallows. No, murder, premedistated: murder, is a deed done in darkness and in secret, when the marderer believes, at least, that retain her hold of this Colony, for it is not to be no eye is upon him, no hand or ear is near him.

where did he perpetrate the subsequent mutila- vailing sentiment inclines towards the elective tions and destructions? He went home to his principle, and recent events, especially the treatfamily that night -during the week that elapsed, ment of Mr. Dixon, have strengthened that feel he went about his usual employments in the usual ing. Those who contend that the nominations to way; he manifested not the least uneasiness; he | the Magistracy and Militia should continue to be pessed a week of indifference and calmness, with confided to the Governor, pay a doubtful complithe horrid witness of his guilt lying in a place to ment to the intelligence of the people, or they which other persons had access, liable at any moment to discovery; credat Judeus! ment to discovery; credat Judaus!

a disgusting detail, but consider what he had to to a body just killed has the blood in a fluid invocation of the Sovereign's name to consummate state; if could not have been cut up on the floor of his laboratory without converting it into a shambles; he had to get rid of the stomach and bowels, with their contents—the heart, lungs, liver, and other intestines—the head, hands, and feet—together with every particle of the clothing feet together with every particle of the cuoning of the dead man, from his hat to his boots, every increel of cloth, linen, silk, leather, bone, horn, and metal, that were about him, and not leave the slightest trace behind that such things ever exstightest trace behind that such things ever existed, even by the strictest analysis;—his laboratory is found undisturbed from its usual state; there are no blood-stains; no evidence of washing there are no blood-stains; no evidence of the frightful mass that such a hacking and mangling must have caused. If Dr. Webster commenced the mutilation immediately after the murder, and continued caused. If De, Webater commenced the mutila-tion immediately after the murder, and continued it during every day that week that he visited the College, where was the body in the meantime? It is said that he was engaged in the horrid work while his laboratory was locked; but it was also proved that, when any one knocked at his door, he immediately opened it, and himself aid his apartments presented the usual appearance? How are these things to be reconciled? We sak, when and where did Dr. Webater do that work of muti-lation?

Intion?

I sagain, does any one suppose, that if, in that streets, Dr. Webster had contrived to dispose of all those parts and things, which we have mentioned, so effectually that nothing is found but a half consumed and broken maxilla, two or three damaged mineral teeth, and certain much mutilated partions of a corpes, he, cool and collected as he was, an accomplished chemist and anatomist, could not, with the means at his command, have effectually destroyed them also? Why, in two bouts, with the various chemical substances on his schages, he might have utterly destroyed the his shelves, he might have utterly destroyed the remaining portions of the body !. Would be, in remaining pertiens of the body! Would he, in possumion of the utmost calamens and presence of mind, have been likely to put one portion of the body in a wault, and another in it is exceent, knowing that another man had free access to the place,—to be found? We do not believe it, and shall not, be he hanged or not hanged, until he himself confesses the deed.

But it is now known that, during the week that elapsed from the commission of the homicide till the discovery of the body, lights were seen in Dr. Webster's laboratory, and a person or persons moving about—this is extraordinary. The person could not have been Dr. Webster, for he, it was proved, was at hame and in his bed every initial, faive been likely is jest one portion of the body in a want, and another man hand fires accessed to the place,—to be yound. We do not believe it, and shall not be he hanged or not hanged, until he himself confesses the deed.

Bus it is now known that, during the week that elapsad from the commission of the homelistic ill the discovery, of the body, lights were seen in Dr. Webster's laboratory, and a person or persons intoving about —this is extraordinary. The person could not have been Dr. Webster's laboratory, and a person or persons intoving about —this is extraordinary. The person could not have been Dr. Webster's laboratory and a person of persons intoving about —this is extraordinary. The person could not have been Dr. Webster's laboratory and a person of persons in the person of the perso man, and if it can be proved that so men but Dr. Webster had access to these, rooms, the corpus delict in in Dr. Webster's possession, and he is bound to account for it? If he cannot give a national heterory account, such as that he had the body for anatomical purposes he is to be attenued abouting, and just as free access in the rooms as Dr. Webster, and is not the rooms as Dr. Webster, and to our thinking, may just as well be some entry. There is hardly a presumption against the case hat does not spaly as the other. The dead south between Webster, and active is hardly a presumption against the case hat does not spaly as the other. The dead south between Webster, and active is hardly a presumption of the properties.

When the above mined gentleman experienced at the hands of His Excellency what was once dence is there then of the identity of these muti-lated remains with those of Dr. Parkman 4 We peared in print, and in his first letter to Lord say, absolutely some that assounts to legal proof. Eight re-asserts his strachment to those funda-imental principles of constitutional licerty which, in his case, were disregarded, if not violated, by the Representative of the Sovereign. We recur again to the subject, because it is suggestive of siderations which accord with the existing temper of the public mind in Canada. For many years just, Her Mujesty's Printers in this Province have furnished in the columns of the official Gazette un abundant crop of appointments to, and dismissals from the Magistracy and Militia. In truth, any one versed in our politics, and acquaint-prerogative of the Sovereign was exercised.

It is not going too far to assert, that that presogative has not at all times been exercised with dignity, honor, or a proper respect for constitu-tional privileges; the inevitable result of thus hawking about the prerogative in the political market, has been to lower the value of the honor in the eyes of the Colonism, and incline the educated and intelligent to look with scorn and contempt upon the clumsily contrived system. This abasement for party purposes has been peculiarly inopportune, if it were the wish of England to denied that a majority of the people have cease Again, if, as is said, Dr. Webster did murder to value appointments to the Magistracy or Mili-Dr. Parkman at or about 2 o'clock, when and When did he cut up and destroy? He surely guide and apply the prerogative, the Monarchical had not time between the hour of the murder and the hour of his return to his family that day;—it is accept the statement, that the Ministry, in reality, decide upon the nominations and dismissals, the disreputable party jobs, relieves us from any compunctions when we denounce the fraud. Mr. Dixon is denied all redress for the slight put upon him by Lord Eigin. Such is Colonialism. It may be that his Lordship is but a tool in the hands of unprincipled men, but whether he acts upon his own convictions, or upon the suggestions others, he can, if so inclined, dismiss any gentleman from the Magistracy or Militia. The only remedy open to the injured is an action against him in Westminster Hall. The Province contains no tribunal before which he can be cited, and the Colonists are so far at the mercy of any fool who may be sent hither by the Calamid ome. It is high time that the power of electing their own Justices and Militia Officers, should be wrested from the impure hands of a faction, and entrusted to its legitimate guardians—the people. CROWN LANDS .-- The Globe intimates that the Assistant Commissionership in this Department, vacant by the transfer of Mr. Bouthillier to the Polace Court, Wednesday, April 94.—Several young fellows, about the age of 16 each, were brought into Court, charged with having been disorderly in the streets. They had not been found in the commission of any grievous violation of the law; they were, therefore, indiced as having been, in the words of the law, "loose, idle, and disorderly." Col. Francinger remarked, that frequently during this year boys were brought into the Police Office, charged with the same indictment as the sity which forced these boys to be idle and disc sity which forevit mess neys to be side and disorderly: it arose, however, from the fact that Government did nothing to provide employment for them. The Coming Session - Representation Bill - The onson of the Provinces—Caneron's Broadsid.

— Toronto and Lake Huran Railway—Plunghing Match, &c. TORONTO, April 25, 1850.

TORONTO, April 25, 1850.

The present intention of the Ministry is to cut the coming Session short, if they can get rapidly through a few measures they wish to carry. The reluctance with which they meet Parliament, is apperent from the calling of that Body having been delayed to nearly the last moment atlowed by law. The constitutional requirement had to be met, and the supplies voted, or Parliament might have gone out of fashion altogether.

It is confidently stated in political circles in the temporary Capital, that a Representation Bill, very much, if not precisely, like that introduced by M. Lafontaine last Session, will be brought in again. Without counting heads, there will be no danger in assuming that it will be pretty difficult to get a two-thirds vote upon the measure. The opinion that Ministers will find themselves in a minority on the Address in answer to the Speech, will prove to be erroneous, and it would be unfair non, will be brought in lasting good.

In the start will be no lasting good.

The foreign news is always a fruitful theme in the start will be no lasting good. minority on the Address in answer to the epech, will prove to be erroneous, and it would be unfair to mislead any one by the delusion. The Representation Will will be answered as the region of the region of the region of the region of the representation upon Canada, in favor of basing the representation upon canada, in favor of basing the representation upon population, has undergone a change. There is a disposition amongst all parties in Upper Canada to prevent, if possible, any extension of the influence of the Latontaine party—now practically little short of omnipotent. If the Bill do not propose to give Lower Canada a larger representation than Upper Canada, I cannot see how its operation and have any other than Demonstrate trademore. coain nave any other than a Democrate tendency.

The very enlargement of the Assembly will do much to elevate it from its present position of subservieucy, though any thing like manly independence need not be looked for in that Body so point of skill, behind those in this part of the meantry.

Philanthropy may cross three thousand miles of ocean, and yet be worse than lost, when suffering, misery, squalor, and death, are constantly occurring around our own homes, and yet left unrelieved and almost unnoticed by the false Charity which deems it unnecessary to begin its sympathies and kind ministerings at home. These Reformatory movements are very well in their way, when they chance to be conducted on the broad grounds of true and genuine Benevolence; but the Socialistic cant of "Human Progress" and "Universal Biotherhood," when unattended by any acts savoring of the earnestness of their doctrines, can scarcely be productive of lasting good.
