Rheims Cathedral a Monument to Hun Kultur

Writer Pictures Vandalism That Has Ruined Magnificent Church Edifice; German Prisoners Often Dead Drunk

(By a War Correspondent)

Paris.—I have been permitted to visit Rheims and the front line trenches northeast of it and regret that every woman in France who has a son, father or brother at the front cannot do the same. Not to give them courage, for they do not need that, but to allow them to realize the contrast between Paris reading the news and the army making it between the great civilian army which watches the diplomatic squabbles and the politics who watch the German trenches.

Damage to Cathedral Interior

The aged Archbishop of Rheims now lives in a tiny house facing the battered skeleton of his bishopric. He is almost prostrated by the long months of agony of his beloved cathedral, and because in the ancient church the presence of women, a sign of joy, has been forbidden. By extra special permission, however, I was permitted to visit the interior. Many Americans who have visited Rheims cathedral during past Christmas seasons will remember the stately gorgeousness and characteristic joy of its ceremonies. Let these now imagine the roof in places widely open to the sky, delicate skeletons only remaining of the many arched stained glass windows, the vast nave and choir stripped and stark. All the priceless wood carvings of the portals have been burned, destroying with them the adjacent world famous statues. The incomparably beautiful half destroyed facade of the cathedral dominates the ruins of the interior.

But in the devastation there are some miraculous exceptions. Two of the most ancient and precious windows of the cathedral in the north transept, are so far not even touched, although in the roof, immediately above them a jagged shell hole reveals several meters of sky. Some sparrows and pigeons, entering freely the great open window spaces, perched on the wonderful carvings crowning the column. The only bits of color remaining in the cathedral are a little canopy marking the spot where Charles VII was crowned in the presence of Jeanne d'Arc and a great crucifix, the oldest piece in the cathedral, which it is believed the Fine Arts Commission, which is responsible, has not removed.

Monument to Germans

Rheims Cathedral in its present state is a monument to certain qualities. Its destruction has been deliberate, laborious, malicious. It is a universally recognized "strafe point." The troops at Rheims on learning of French suc-

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

DIET IN SKIN DISEASES.

IN REFERENCE to skin affections, one might divide them in relation to food as follows:—

(1) Those directly dependent on diet.

(2) Those in which diet may not be the cause but in which it is of capital importance.

(3) Those in which diet may be an indirect factor.

Pellagra, beri-beri, urticaria (hives), and toxic erythema are examples of diseases which are perhaps largely due to diet.

Pellagra is not very common in this country. It is believed to be due to a diet largely of Indian corn. It is associated with dementia, or a form of insanity, and is very fatal. It is common in the Southern United States and in Italy.

Urticaria is a common disease. Some people cannot eat shell fish or certain forms of food without having an attack of hives. Beri-beri is a Japanese disease due to the use of polished rice.

The toxic inflammations of the skin (Erythema) are of the same nature.

In the second class the diet while not necessarily the cause of the skin affection, is still of practical importance. Illustrations of this class are seen in eczema, psoriasis, and rosacea.

In these affections the best diet is a liberal use of well-boiled rice, milk, fruit, and vegetables. Meat, fish, and eggs should be prohibited for a time. Tea, coffee, and alcohol are, of course, not to be used.

Children often have eczema. In the treatment the diet will need careful selection. In psoriasis, meat, cheese, milk, and eggs must be replaced largely by a vegetable diet. The same with rosacea. (The red chin and nose so abhorred by delicate skinned women.) In this affection both the starches and the proteins require reduction.

Acne and seborrhoeal dermatitis are diseases, probably indirectly, the result of the too extensive use of starches and sugars.

Worms.

These are rare in infancy. Most of the symptoms applied to worms are due to faulty digestion. The only sure way to diagnose worms, is to see them in the movements. They (threadworms) look like small white threads seen in a recent movement. These are the only ones which occur in infancy. If worms are discovered, wash out the lower bowel thoroughly with a solution of borax—one tablespoonful to a pint of water and inject one-half pint of infusion of quassia daily for several days. An injection of lime-water is useful. Wash the parts including the labial folds carefully to prevent re-infection.

Swallowing Foreign Bodies, Such as Coins, Etc., or Poisons.

If the former, they are usually passed without any trouble. Watch the movements.

If poison is swallowed give a teaspoonful of Wine of Ipecac and plenty of warm water. This will cause vomiting and wash out the stomach. In the meantime get the doctor as quickly as possible.

Bow-Legs.

These need not cause any anxiety. Most children grow out of them, and if they do not the doctor will advise the best treatment.

Circumcision.

Some boy babies need to be circumcised, most of them do not.

Vaccination.

All babies should be vaccinated in the first year. Vaccination does not cause any injury unless dirt is allowed to get into the wound. Vaccinate all babies, including girls, on the left arm. It is a splendid badge of your civilization and good sense.

Medical Officers of Health and Local Boards of Health are notified that the Ontario Health Officers' Association will meet in the Medical Building in Toronto, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 29th and 30th of May next. One of the features of the conference will be an address by C. E. A. Winslow, Professor of Preventive Medicine, Yale University, on " safeguarding the Health of Infants and Young Children."

is called "the vengeance of champagne," and is as if the beautiful invaded wine country characteristically revenged herself.

A curious result of the war in this region also is the increase of all game following the long closed season. Pheasants hardly rise when disturbed, and when returning to Epermy the white front light of our car suddenly showed a red fox sitting in the middle of the road. He only condescended to move when the car was almost upon him.

The train returning to Paris was full of permissionnaires going to leave. They frolicked up and down the corridors like our own college boys going home for Christmas. No unusual permissions are possible at this season, indeed on the contrary, as in the two previous years, the Germans chose Christmas day to make particularly strong attacks. But the police will have extra goodies in their rations as well as those sent to them by their relatives, extra wine and each one some champagne.

In the section of the front I visited every poilus had heard of the German peace proposals, and the general atmosphere was cheerful, awaiting the customary reprisals on Rheims following their rejection. And in front of her cathedral Jeanne d'Arc, untouched by the German hate, still rides her bronzed charger and from her raised hands floats the tricolor of France.

NEWRAY is in direct line with the strike of Porcupine's great shear zone—which contains five of the seven producing mines of the camp.

This zone has produced to date more than a score of millions in gold.

As an Investment

NEWRAY offers opportunities which are not equalled by any other security in the mining list to-day.

On the present showing of the mine—low capitalization—starting up of the mill next month—and prospects—NEWRAY has an intrinsic merit of over $2.00 a share.

FINE BUSINESS BLOCK

FOR Immediate Sale

We have been instructed to sell one of the best constructed buildings in the city, situated right in the heart of the business section. Fine 3 storey structure with full size basement, elevator, heated by steam and fitted up with all modern improvements. The building is leased to first-class tenants, the rents amounting to about $2,500 per year.

The purchase of this property offers a good safe investment and the price at which it can be bought would not put up the building to-day, so that the increase in value which is bound to come soon, should equal the price of the land at least.

Large investors are invited to look into this proposition and to call upon us for full information.
