MARSHALL BROTHERS.

Republic Firmly Established.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Oct. 9. Senor Costa, Minister of Justice in the new Portuguese Government, has sent the following despatch to the Times: "The Provisional Government has just received the final adhesion of the military divisions stationed in the provinces. Perfect order and satisfaction prevails everywhere. The banks are showing restored confidence. The Customs and other Government departments have resumed business. All activities necessary to discharge the nation's obligations are in progress. At the council we were able to consider the revolutionary period as definitely ended, and an era of progressive government and moral regeneration beginning. We have already received warm congratulations from foreign peoples on the heroic and marvellously correct attitude of the revolutionary forces and the generosity displayed by them and their leaders to the vanquished."

Lisbon is Quiet.

Special to the Evening Telegram.

LISBON, Oct. 9. Quiet continues to reign in this city and thus far there has been no sign of any reaction in favor of the old regime. The monarchist party is generally regarded as dead, particularly since the Radicals under the leadership of Dr. Joze Maria Alpoim have thrown in their lot heartily with the Republicans. Of all its monarchist leaders only three, including General Pimenta and two Francists, Ocazillo Porto and Agnes Ornelas, are said to have taken any part in attempting to suppress the revolutionary movement. The complete disappearance of the monarchist party is reflected in the discontinuance of the royal newspapers which represent the entire monarchist press. It is not yet indicated what action the new government will take against the leaders of the opposition. However, General Pimenta, who is a former Minister of War, and other officials have been directed to report themselves at once at headquarters. The date for the reassembling of the national assembly has not yet been fixed.

Attempted Demonstration Frustrated.

Special to Evening Telegram.

BARCELONA, Oct. 9th. An attempted demonstration of sympathy with the Portuguese Republic, which took place before the Portuguese Consulate here last night was interrupted by mounted police, who charged the mob. A regiment of dragoon which was about to leave for the manoeuvres was sent back to Barcelona, and most elaborate military precaution have been taken to preserve order. Every flag or decoration in windows which might be considered an emblem of celebration over the victory of the Portuguese Republic had been ordered down by the police. The newspaper Lapublicad which acclaimed the Portuguese Republic has been seized by the authorities. The Republicans are protesting against the repressive measures of the Government and the severity of the censorship. The coal miners at Teruel have declared a strike.

Royal Fortune Large.

Special Evening Telegram.

BORDEAUX, Oct. 9. Advice from Lisbon say that the new Republic Government has declared its intention not to seize the private property of King Manuel. There has been much speculation over the matter. The Republican leaders said several weeks ago in outlining their social programmes they would favor the seizure of the King's property and the payment of annuity pension to the King. The Royal fortune is very large but his personal property, insurance, and lands, however, pays taxes upon all his property like any Portuguese citizen.

King Manuel Exiled.

Special Evening Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 9. A despatch to the Petit Parisien from Lisbon says the provisional Government has issued a decree of exile against the Portuguese Royal Family. Admiral Suicides.

Special Evening Telegram.

LISBON, Oct. 9. Tendi Candido Reis, who committed suicide on his flagship shortly after the uprising began, in the belief that the revolution had been unsuccessful, has taken a place in the minds of the people alongside the other so called "martyr of the Revolution," Dr. Bombarda, whose assassination was the occasion for an outburst which led directly to the events of the past few days. Admiral Reis took the initiative in precipitating the revolutionary movements among the vessels of the fleet, which lay anchored off Lisbon. He had agreed with the other Republican naval leaders that a salute of 31 guns should be the signal of each ship by apprising the other that the uprising was successful. In the confusion only three guns were fired. Admiral Reis hearing these three guns jumped to the conclusion that the whole movement had failed. In despair he drew his revolver and fired a shot into his head dying at once.

Revolutionaries Were Prepared.

LONDON Oct. 9.

Despatches from Lisbon say that owing to severity of food there the military Governor has issued an edict, ordering all provision dealers to open their shops at once. In the event of refusal, the military force will be used to compel obedience. A correspondent, who visited the headquarters from which the revolution was directed, found admirable arrangements, which enabled the revolutionaries to put up such an excellent fight, in contrast with the Municipal Guard, who had nothing to eat during thirty hours of the combat. The most admirable point in the revolutionary movement, he says, is the perfect order which reigns in Lisbon.

Last Night's Storm.

The storm that raged in the Gulf of St. Lawrence yesterday, struck the city last night about midnight. The wind blew a gale from the S.W. and rain fell in torrents. The gully in front of Mr. Thomas McCarthy's store Water St. West, becoming choked with the flood coming down Springdale St. which tore up the street. On Sunday men were out dressed in their oldskins from one o'clock till daylight this morning keeping the gullies clear in places where the street was overflowed. The storm abated at sunrise and the hard working toilers were able to send their way home to get a "mug up."

Thieves Prowling Around Again.

On Wednesday and Friday nights of last week, thieves were busy around Mundy's Pond and visited several of the farms there, stealing cabbage and potatoes and turnips. One owner of land there lost 6 dozen heads of fine cabbage. These nocturnal prowlers took their time on doing this nefarious work; for they cut the green leaves off the cabbages and the turnips from the leaves. The next time they appear in this section their visit may be prolonged more than they imagine as the farmers have guns loaded with small shot for their reception.

Schooners Run Ashore

By Saturday night's shore train we learn that in the storm of Wednesday night last, the schr. Minnie Jane, owned by Geo. Button, dragged her anchors and went ashore at Old Perlican. She had only three casks of oil on board and as a high sea ran on the rocks she was quickly smashed to pieces. Three others the Gladys, Blanche and Brothers, also went ashore after dragging their anchors and were badly wrecked but may be gotten off and repaired later. The Minnie Jane was a craft of 22 tons and the owner had her insured.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11, 1903. Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Sir, I came across a bottle of your MINARD'S LINIMENT in the hands of one of the students at the University of Maryland, and he being so kind as to let me use it for a very bad sprain, which I obtained in training for foot races, and to say that it helped me would be putting it very mildly, and I therefore ask if you would let me know of one of your agents that is closest to Baltimore so that I may obtain some of it. Thanking you in advance I remain, Yours truly,

C. P. EAGAN,

At the R. C. Cathedral.

Rev. Father Wilson, of Mortier Bay, preached at the R. C. Cathedral last night at Vespers. Taking his text from Jeremiah the Prophet: "With desolation is the land made desolate because there is no one that thinketh in his heart." Father Wilson gave an instructive sermon on the motives that should actuate one in having contrition for sin. Worldly motives, such as loss of position or earthly gain would not avail in the sight of God. The best motive would be the pure love of God and to be sorry for sin on account of having offended Him who has been so good to us and who gave us all we possess. To be sorry for sin because of the suffering and death of Christ on the Cross. Next to this as a motive for contrition is the thought of the loss of God and of heaven for all eternity, and lastly the fear of the punishments of hell. The reverend preacher depicted the subject of the different motives for contrition in elegant terms and in a voice that was strong and well modulated, filling the remotest corner of the church. The large congregation was deeply impressed by Father Wilson's effort.

At the eleven o'clock Mass His Grace the Archbishop preached the ten minutes sermon on the Gospel for the day, Matthew 18 chap. 23rd to 34th verse inclusive: "The wicked servant was forgiven his own debt by his lord, but he himself refused to forgive a small debt owed to him by his fellow servant." His Grace in plain and simple language expatiated on the text, and applied it to all our relations with our fellowmen in word, deed and thought. Most people are ready to condemn the conduct and malign the character of those who they believe have injured them. They slender and calumniate them and attribute the very worst motives to their every action. They will never forget or forgive an injury or admit that any possible merit on the part of the person whom they hate. In the face of these facts the aggrieved persons expect others to forgive them and extend their hands of good fellowship and charity. Like the dishonest servant in the text they wished to be forgiven themselves but they refused to forgive others. They also expected that God would forgive them. His Grace deduced salutary lessons from the Gospel for the congregation and impressed on them the necessity of forgiving the injuries that others have done to us if we wish God to forgive us.

Spanish Conspirators Taken by Surprise.

Special to Evening Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 9. Despatches received from Madrid quote Dr. Ezquerdo, the Republican leader, in confirmation of the statement that a definite plan existed for simultaneous revolutionary movements in Spain and Portugal. Dr. Ezquerdo has just returned from Lisbon where he conferred with Dr. Bombarda and other Portuguese Republicans. In regard to the plan they decided on Oct. 13, the anniversary of Perver's death, as the date for the uprising. Bombarda's assassination precipitated the attack on the Portuguese Throne. The blow thus suddenly and successfully administered took "correct" Spanish comrades completely by surprise. The Spanish Republicans are loud in their resentment against the Government's severe attitude towards them. They are venting their wrath in the Press. The chief Radical newspaper accuses the Government of fearing to make a comparison between the situation in Spain and that in Portugal. It adds pointedly that in Portugal the army was believed to be loyal. The newspaper also prints a cartoon showing Alfonso and the Royal Family preparing to take a train. It is understood that the newspaper will be prosecuted.

When Folwarschney returned home early this evening he found that his wife had fastened the door against him. He burst it open and following her upstairs, whither she had run, threw her bodily down to the floor below. Then he picked her up again and threw her out of doors. The woman crossed the street and asked a child to go for an officer. Then she entered her house again. Folwarschney reproached her for sending for an officer, and picking up a double barrel shot gun, discharged it at her. Then he ran from the house, and was found later with his head blown off. Each was about fifty years old and they had been married about eight years. It was the woman's second marriage.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 4.--Because his wife Clara had sent for a policeman when he had come home drunk, and thrown her out of the house, Albert Folwarschney, sent a charge of shot into her side from a 10 gauge gun and going to a field nearby blew his head off, with the same gun. The shot penetrated the woman's arm and right side. She was taken to the hospital and may recover.
